THE BLUE AND THE GRAY.
Decoration Day, 1892.

WRITTEN FOR THE NEW YORK CLIPPER.
BY THE LATE MNEMOSYNE.

We meet, but not with rolling drums
  And banners floating wide,
With trumpets' clang and cannons' roar,
  And war's stern pomp and pride;
But sad and slow and mournful,
  The march whose time we tread—
The living sentinels guarding
  The slumbers of the dead.

Before us rise the bloody fields
  Where each laid down a life;
We speak again of honors won—
  In many a desperate strife;
But all of bitterness has passed away,
  From out our hearts today,
And if for the Blue we've a blessing,
  We've a benediction for the Gray.

And Earth gives a harvest of flowers,
  The North its myrtle and pine,
The South with its sensuous beauty,
  The magnolia, the orange and vine;
Till the wind is drunk with the perfume,
  And Nature keeping step to the call,
Has furnished of bud and blossom
  A wealth of beauty for all.

And the graves in the far off valley,
  Or high on the mountain's crest,
By the Tennessee's slumberous eddies,
  In prairies wide of the West—
Beneath the shadow of "Lookout,"
  By the terrible "March to the Sea,"
Wherever war's thunder sounded,
  Wherever the dead may be—

All shall be covered with blossoms,
  In Northern or tropical zone,
For memory clings to the marble,
  And love ne'er forgets its own;
Or if lost to the ken of the living
  They shall yet bloom in Summer hours,
For angel hands will sow the seed,
  And tenderly bedew the flowers.

Then come when earth is a glory,
  In its wreath of perfume and bloom,
And wreath the marble, crown the shaft,
  And lovingly deck the tomb;
Nor selfishly pause to question
  If "ours" or "theirs" the sod,
For both were the child of one mother,
  Both answered the roll call of God.

THE CIRCUS RIDER'S LOVE TEST

TRANSLATED FROM THE FRENCH FOR THE CLIPPER,
BY H. LLEWELLYN WILLIAMS.

Gerald Spurward had the mania for horse flesh even more acutely developed than the hard riding English sporting gentleman. After having pulled off many a crack event in gentleman rider races and been the hero of steeple chases conducted under old time rules, really from steeple to steeple, across country abounding in obstacles, he sighed for new worlds to conquer in.

Pride and family connections kept him from training down and becoming a professional jockey, although good judges urged him to take the step, from seeing the gap made in the list of true, straight and finishing jocks. He made the odd compromise of joining Zundt's International Cirque as the Gentleman's Jockei (so in the bills), executing feats which the best regular performers acknowledged to be neatly done, at the same time as with the elegance and gracefulness of a somewhat lathy figure which the dumpy foreigners thought eminently aristocratic for an Englishman.

When he first trotted upon the sawdust and tan, the old circus folk thought it a mere whim—something he would chuck up before a season was ridden through.

He was in his previous record accounted lucky because he had never met with a serious accident; a girth had never slipped or a rein snapped to cause his throw.

"He will get a fall, and that will lead to his withdrawal," the prophets said.

Well, he had some falls, but he did not mind them; he not only carried out his trial engagement to the satisfaction of Old Zed., as Zundt was generally styled, but that particular and exacting old hunks was glad to buy him back after going for two weeks with Geaurit & Fawcett's Co., doing the Belgian tour.

Gerald was not stern in his new terms; perhaps Zundt suspected the cause, for he said mysteriously to his wife:

"As long as we haff Mees Macdoonal and Mamselle Chauloo on the pay list, you mind me, Master Spurward will be under our centre pole shadow."

If the English rider was in love with the rival equestriennes of the company, it was with the two, for the keenest judge of character could not decide which the more fascinated him. On the general public they had equal effect. The reason was that they were representatives quite typical of the two sorts of women who rule the other sex.

Miss Macdoonal was a Scotch lassie, with hard, sculpturesque features, whose complexion and absence of heat and color gave you a chill on a July noon. She was slender but supple, and had been a contortionist in her teens. She had just turned them. She rode the High School, but in the ancient style of Franconi, with no innovations. The Grand Squire of a conservative monarch like Charles X, might have resuscitated to see her in the manege, and he would have found no faults in her. It was correct, showy in a quiet way, admired but cold—deuced cold, Gerald would say to himself.

Yet the girl had a shoal of worshippers; her appearance and manner were so different from the foreigner's; her stiff attitude in the saddle, English from Bond Street like the rest of the trappings, with no ornaments or fallals; her severely cut habit of fadeless black, with a hat which could come only from a Piccadilly hatter—for dames; her steady eye throughout her leaps, her fine, pale lips firm set as if cast in silver, and her long, thin hands, as strong as steel—for she had controlled "demon" horses—all struck the fiery foreigners as something out of the common.

Lissy Macdoonal might the more have charmed the Englishman, no doubt a Puritan, when it came to choosing a partner for life, as she had preserved an unblemished reputation, though, on the European continent, too many girls just go on horseback to succeed, when they failed on the music hall and petty theatre stage to snare the foolish rich.

It could not be said of Reney Chauloo that she was in the same way squeamish. While Zundt and his wife, a most respectable lady, who had brought up a family creditably, and had married three daughters well, could not blame her for scandals outrageous, she was given to accepting invitations to suppers, and she was always, in garrison towns, seen riding out on the promenades with the chief military officers. She was always having baskets of wine, boxes of fruit and cases of imported delicacies sent to her at the theatre; but, as she considerately or diplomatically shared the goodies with the manager, his wife and the principals of the troupe, while generous with her small silver to the underlings, she was rarely censured for her not treading the line.

She was not so dark as a Spaniard, but she had full, red lips, which a witch of Gibraltar would envy, large, black eyes, as if she anointed them with belladonna; lustrous, black hair, very luxuriant, and almost disfiguring in a chignon under the Paris hat—hence, she preferred to dress Louis XIV, with the plumed, felt hat of his huntresses.

She was only eighteen, so that her medium sized frame was not too exuberant; but it was exquisitely modeled. With this, feet and hands about which the local poet raved, and the town shoemakers wanted to cast slippers from, to put in the showcase.

Lissy was always reading in her spare moments, and Reney flipping at motes with her whip; and, yet, it was the dark one who showed most wit, and seemed able to cap quotations like a veteran actor. Some are born that way, picking up learning as a bird does its nourishment, without any idea of how to do it by a plan.

Very much in a fog, Gerald stuck to the company, and their company, getting tender on the blonde and laughing with the brunette. Bets were always standing in the troupe as to his ultimate decision.

They thought he had too much will of his own to let either decide for him, though it was leap year.

Others, marking the wide severance of the two girls, said that he would marry a medium creature, and the rest, of course, foretold that he would leave the company unwed.

"Between two stools," don't you know?

So time passed, and Mother Zundt, who began to like the gentleman rider, though averse to amateurs on the whole, and who had a maternal interest in "her young ladies," since all her own brood were married, feared that the tangled love threads would snap and lead to no altar.

"Pooh, old lady," Gerald would say to her, when reproached. "Do not worry me just for the present! You know we are going to open at Ghent for the Von Artaveide Monument Inauguration. We have added the best of the Anglo German Circus to our party, and Jim O'Cavanna and Walter Bogenbilder are very good riders at the hurdles. I have set my heart on the platina cup and the gold medal offered by the Civic Government and the Hippic Society, and I want to win them for the honor of Zundt's Cirque."

The fact is, the rage for riding having much increased from the send off of the last Emperor of France, thanks to his exile in the home of the galloping race horse, there was no lack of competitors for the prizes to which Spurward alluded.

Besides the circus riders, who were almost bound to compete, noted gentlemen on the tracks of Longchamps, Nice and Austria, swelled the list, with some from England who were the less afraid of their countryman from the fame of Gerald having died out a little since he left the lawn and the highway, the bullfinch fence and the ha! ha! for the artificial obstacles of the hippodrome.

The shows for the Ghent fair week were well attended; the boxes and stands were crammed with French, Belgians and Dutch, the soldiers in full uniform and the civic functionaries in laced coats. As for the ladies, they had not caught a queen, but they had princesses by the score.

The afternoon was fine. The audience were put in the best humor by a "free" performance—for which the city paid, of course—of the augmented troupe of Herr Zundt. Lissy Macdoonal, in a sky blue habit, trimmed with white lace and a little cap in the shape of a beer barrel, in allusion to Brewer Artaveide, rode an act more gay and dashing than was her wont, and achieved equal success to Mlle. Chauloo, who was clad in ruby velvet with a three cocked hat, setting off with its points her round face.

As they had given their performances, they were looked upon as of the public and no remonstrances were raised to their sitting in the auditorium for the rest of the day.

When the start was arranged for the steeple chasers, Gerald rode past their place to salute them with a flourish of his whip. If one looked celestial in the azure and silver, the other was adorable in the warm hue; she seemed a daughter of the sunshine, a fruit bewitched into human form.

"How deuced absurd, not to be able to strike a choice between two nice girls!" he thought to himself as he went to the line. "Never mind, I shall make my selection if I should have the good luck to carry off the prize."

He stiffly sat his pitching and rolling horse, as a seaman would have called his pet barb Bardolf, a gift three years back from his kinsman the Duke of Radford. It was an unruly beast, sifted out of the fat nobleman's stud because it gave him the same lasting apprehension of the kick coming that agitates a woman in a thunderstorm. Knowing ones, while giving a glance where most attention dwelt, to the horses and riders less restrained than Gerald, admired the handsome cavalier and the fiery Arab, who chafed, but recognized that master's upper-hand of him.

The entrees were pretty mixed; horses called thoroughbreds, but bred in and out "somehow no how" in European second class studs, while the riders were all sorts; the cool, business like circus men from the company added to Zundt's, others from less noted troupes hoping to get only the consolation prize on seeing the cut of these three famous equestrians, military fops with the jaunty cap of Saumur Cavalry School, pulled in waists so they could hardly shut their eyes, and country gentlemen who fancied they were leading quite the English squire's life because they had spiritless bulldogs, wolf hounds that would really set upon nothing larger than foxes, and dog carts never used to carry a dog—but for the bringing of Aunt Celestine from the depot.

Still, there were nimble figures among them, and bright, daring eyes, and Gerald, whom scorned nobody before trial, looked to his harness, and after all precautions, looked to the horse.

"You are in a devil of a temper this day," he grumbled, forced to let Bardolf caper a little to work some of the excess of steam off.

Finally, the long row was made and the start was taken in fairly good order—for Belgians.

The first time round, as they were only playing at the game of steeplechasing, the whole of the riders went past the obstacles points. As soon as the last had done this, the bars were placed, the bushes stuck up, and the water was run into the pretended brook. This was to let the riders parade and show their colors to the bettors and their lady loves.

Spurward took the course at a hand gallop, so as to be pretty well to the front. In going by the group of the ladies of Zundt's, he glanced up at the two equestriennes, who had opera glasses, and while he fancied that Miss Macdoonal showed some emotion from sitting with the water jump under her view—and it was a burster, though the water was out of it. Reney was heard to say that the Englishman, who had swum the worst brooks of Rutland, ran no more danger than in the ring.

Gerald smiled to them and to Mamma Zundt, in a sweltering maroon velvet dress, and circled round for the real business of the day. Soon was seen the difference between the trained rider and the amateurs who practic when they feel like it. Before half way, the ruck was reduced to the military, a jockey or two and the circus riders.

Bardolph skipped over the first hedge without disturbing a juniper berry; took a loose bar gate with no touch to the top one, from which clumsier leapers sent splinters flying; strode the wall like a kangaroo, and—made a dead balk at the fixed posts!

It was a bristler, a sticker, a nailer! yet ought not to have brought an English thoroughbred to a stop.

But there poor Gerald was—with the hue! of the hooting spectators hailing his "funking." Along came the others, and in a few instants he seemed the centre of a battle field where a Gatling was bringing down a corps. The bars repulsed everything and everybody!

The foolhardy charged and came to grief; the cunning swerved and made it an excuse to fall.

The latter course was that of the Irish and the German circus riders, whose horses were not fit.

Before Gerald were two ways, after regaining his seat from nearly being unhorsed. He might try to make the horse leap, like an Irish buck jumper, from the spot, or take him back and go over the fallen for a long jump.

He doubted the horse for the first plan, and the other was more effective for the audience, who were abusing him "like a pickpocket."

It was at this critical moment when, more cool than perhaps most surmised, he glanced over and up to the two girls whose hold on his heart, from opposite sides, kept it in equipoise.

Reney was laughing at his plight; Lissy was wringing her hand and biting her lips, vexed at the man for whom she had "a wee bit o' sneaking sympathy" making himself a butt for popular derision.

So he compelled his steed, after a second's hesitation, to leap nearly straight up and "over" the barrier.

Bardolf rose as if he could hop it with three legs tied, but apparently checked when he would have surmounted it, he knocked both fore knees against the upper bar and, rocking right back, came down a cropper, with the rider caught under all his weight.

The veriest amateur could not have been more completely crushed. In a gentleman rider, and a circus expert, the blunder was incredible—unpardonable!

But there was no use of pardoning anybody—with a shout of horror and "Ah's" from all around, the servants ran in a column to help the discomfitted one. They took him up, crumpled like a roll of paper broken in the middle.

His horse, as if delighted with his liberty, at even that price, set to curveting so wildly th at nobody dared to go up to his head—still less, to his heels.

But all attention was humanely bestowed on the unsaddled unfortunate.

Placed on a hand barrow, the wounded man was carried under the eyes of the ladies of Zundt's Company. Miss Macdoonal's grief was painful to view, and much greater than for a mere comrade. Bending out over the seats, she sobbed in a handkerchief till her blue eyes had red rings round them, and cried out against the horse, the butchers who had erected that monstrous man trap, and, evidently, loved Gerald fo distraction, literally.

Meanwhile, Reney, who had calmed herself by an effort, handed down her fan, which had smelling salts in the hollow handle, and, as soon as she saw that they revived him, she said, quite loudly:

"Why does he not cry 'Where am I?' like the heroines who swoon in the pieces like 'Mazeppa' and 'Turpin's Ride?' Poor old Gerrie, if you could only repeat that back throw, and come out as the comic trick steeple chaser! Do you remember the grotesque 'Chocolate nose,' who went to the Paris New Circus with his cavalry act, 'Twenty-eight Days in the Dragoon Awkward Squad?' and his pretended fall off the raw boned, white nag? Well, you can go him, and give him points—as a fallist under a horse, he is out of it! You were awful funny!"

While she continued to laugh, to the disgust of Madam Zundt and the rest of the audience, and Lissy to weep and wail, they proceeded with the sufferer, who had merely looked up with half an eye.

Whether the salts were very strong or not, before they could take the sufferer out of the arena, he revived. Seeing that not one had got over the barrier, though a couple, clown like, to win a laugh, had slipped through and pretended to drag their horses after them—he insisted that he had a right to try his luck still! This was allowed, as his horse had not been caught.

He caught him, and in the style proper to his craft as a circus jockey; he ran after it, and leaped on the back, sitting down in the saddle before the creature recovered from its surprise.

Then, heading round for the almost insurmountable obstacle, Gerald put him to the barrier, lifted him over it as though if he were a bubble, and they alighted on the farther side lightly and gracefully.

The judges are not very precise on these festive occasions, and the prize was awarded to the gentleman rider.

As he sat that evening at the hotel, recuperating after the day and ogling the cup and medal, quite a numerous deputation of the troupe, headed by the Zundts, who shone with his glory reflected, and including the two equestriennes, waited upon him to congratulate him on his splendid reparation of his error.

"Ahem," said he, with a wink, for they were all of "the Family," within the four walls, "did not somebody say I would always be N. G. till I had a good fall? It would break my neck or leave me prinseps, which I translate for the ladies as the King of the Crowd."

"I hope," said Mother Zundt, taking a chance to slip in a word, "that you will be able to put a stop to your shilyshallying, now, eh? You saw the disconsolate grief of Mees Macdoonal, and the scandalous mirth of Mamselle Reney over your dreadful disaster? I cannot suppose that you will balk as your horse did."

"Not a bit. I am going to ask the hand of the dark lady."

"Reney's?"

"That's my winning ticket! Though she reckoned I resembled a clown. I would not get along in double harness with a sniveler, like Miss Mac, who has no promptitude in emergencies; weeping and whining when the remedy ought to be applied; who would cling to me and be a drag. No, on the other hand, Reney takes things with a rush, and suits the life of the coming century. Say a good word for me, you old dear ——"

It appears that the mamma who had married her own daughters, knew the art, for Mlle. Chauloo accepted Gerald.

One day, a long while after, something bringing the day at Ghent upon the board, she abruptly said to her husband, who has inherited and lives on his estate in England:

"Gerald, how was it that Bardolf, who refused the leap at that barrier for the first time, cleared it so easily the second try?"

"I wanted to test your love, and I had learnt how to fall, which you all said was my sole want to be perfect."

"You goose! you ought to have won the first round! for I knew you were shamming, and so it was no test of my love after all!"

"I fancy this is," said Gerald, his voice becoming grave, as he glanced over to a cradle where a young gentleman rider was trying to clear the barrier of the basket edge to win the prize, on the floor, of a teething ring!

ILLINOIS.

Chicago.—At the Grand, "The Isle of Champagne" was given its first Chicago presentation May 22 before a crowded house. There was considerable enthusiasm that presages a successful season. Thos. Seabrooke and Minnie Landes made hits. The piece is beautifully staged and some of the scenes are unique conceits of stagecraft.

McVICKER'S.—"Shore Acres Subdivision" was given its first appearance on any stage 23 to a large house. There are some five realistic scenes in the play that add much to its effectiveness. There is a reproduction of a portion of the New England Coast and children, a horse, pump and water, and there is a wholesome air of down East life about the piece that ought to make it a go. The play is to be continued indefinitely.

COLUMBIA.—"The Lost Paradise" was continued last week. The engagement has been a gratifying one. The company remains week of 30. "Miss Helyett" June 5.

HOOLEYS.—No matter what counter attraction is in the city, Mr. and Mrs. Kendal are certain to have large houses when they appear here, and their present "farewell engagement," as they are pleased to term it, is no exception to the rule. "Hazel Kirke" 29, for two weeks.

CHICAGO OPERA HOUSE.—Fanny Davenport's presentation of "Cleopatra" during her second and last week was a succession of houses packed to the doors. The engagement has been remarkably successful, and has been witnessed by enthusiastic houses. Nothing like the storm scene was ever attempted here before. "Ali Baba" June 2, for an extended run.

HAYMARKET.—"Tuxedo" was the attraction last week, and was well patronized by West Siders. Harry Lacy in "The Planter's Wife" comes May 29.

HAVLIN'S.—"Mr. Barnes of New York" paid his first visit to the South Side last week, and was greeted by appreciative houses. The opening was crowded. "Forgiven" comes 29, F. W. Curtis in "Sam'l of Posen" June 5.

WINDSOR.—Frank M. Wills appeared last week in "Two Old Cronies." The play is familiar to Chicago audiences, but was well patronized. Some new songs and a number of good specialty acts make the piece an enjoyable one. Ada Gray May 29, Harry Lacy June 5.

CLARK STREET THEATRE.—Tony Pastor gave North Siders a sample of high class variety last week, and the result was standing room at every performance. The Summer opera season begins May 29, when "The Chimes of Normandy" will be given by the stock.

ACADEMY.—Frank Mayo, in "Davy Crockett," drew large houses. "777" comes May 29.

PEOPLE'S.—"The Black Flag" did a good business last week. John L. Ashton was in the lead. Some of the mechanical effects were elaborate. "Two Old Cronies" May 29, Sandowe and Cyclops June 5.

ALHAMBRA.—"Ship Ahoy!" was given by the Miller Opera Co. last week to excellent houses. Frank Mayo May 29, "The Danites" June 5.

MADISON STREET THEATRE.—Emma Warde's Royal Burlesque Co. presented "Christofo Columbo" to full houses. Sam Jack's Creole Co. comes 30, "The South Before the War" June 6.

CASINO.—Haverley's Mastodon Minstrels ended their stay of nearly six months to good business. The company starts West, and another Haverley company takes its place.

STANDARD.—"Ten Nights in a Barroom" was given last week. "Michael Strogoff" May 29, "The Shanty Queen" June 5.

LYCEUM.—Roger's Specialty Boom furnished vaudeville for West Siders last week. The New York Ideal Burlesque Co. May 30, in "Forty Thieves Up to Date."

OLYMPIC.—This week: Oakes Bros.' Vaudeville Co., including Al. Bellman, Spencer and West, W. J. Mills, Kherns and Cole, Murray Twins, La Roy Millard, Dalton and Dalton, McRobie and Evans, Harrigan, Sweeney and Kearney, and Mlle. Leonard.

PARK.—This week: The Leslies, Shearer and Mantell, Carroll and Lewis, Trueheart and Schofield, Jennie Warren, Jas. Flynn, Maud Walker, Maud Howland, J. B. Houlihan, H. W. Eagan and J. W. Kelly.

ENGEL'S OPERA PAVILION.—This week: Conchita, Gus Bruno Jr., Ada Melrose, J. M. Doner, Ida Howell, Lillie Beach, May Willie and Josie Stewart.

KOHL & MIDDLETON'S CLARK STREET MUSEUM.—This week: Curio—Clint Williams and trained bears, Prof. Sydney, Susie Conrad, Walter Stewart and the lady sprinters. Stage—Tom Peasley, Cuponti and Oatley, Wm. Gauze, McNulty Sisters, Julia Kelley and Embry and Russell.

GLOBE DIME MUSEUM.—This week: Curio—The Paper King, Capt. Miller, Arab troupe and Miss Allien. Stage—Frank Swain, Montgomery and Williamson, Nellie Stowe, Leonhart Bros., Geo. Homer and the Austins.

THIRTY-FIRST STREET MUSIC HALL.—Eldora and Narinne, Annie Leslie, King Ilo and Augusta, Madge Mack, Horace Veres Iris, Barnes and Barton.

EPSTEIN'S DIME MUSEUM.—This week: Curio—Turtle George, Hurd Family, Mme. Legerdo and birds. Stage—New York Specialty Co., Murphy and Leonora, and Sassman and Smith.

NOTES.—Eddie Foy's throat trouble will prevent his taking part in the opening of "Ali Baba" at the Chicago Opera House. He has been granted a leave of absence, and his part will be filled by Alfred C. Wheelan, who will appear as the Caliph of Bagdad......McKee Rankin will present at McVicker's June 28 a dramatization of Opie Read's book, "The Kentucky Colonel," aided by Mr. McVicker's stock......Al. Feeley has signed with Fanny Davenport......"Mr. Barnes of New York" and Fanny Davenport's Co. closed their seasons here last week. ......Harry C. Egerton, who has been local manager of the Academy, has accepted the business management of the Standard. George C. Francis, who has been managing N. S. Wood on the road, has returned to the Academy, and is now in charge. ....Chicago Lodge of Elks will benefit June 1, at McVicker's.

RHODE ISLAND.

Providence.—Business last week was good, considering the lateness of the season. At Keith's Gaiety Opera House, Charles McCarthy opened a week's engagement in "One of the Bravest" May 30, with a special matinee. Kate Castleton, in "The Dazzler," closed one of the most successful weeks of the season 28, to a packed house. The theatre will close one of the most successful seasons in its history June 4.

LOTHROP'S NEW PROVIDENCE MUSEUM.—For the first half of the week commencing 30, "The Harvest Moon" will be given by the stock, Kate Glassford and Chas. Barringer leading, followed by "Camille" June 2, for the remainder of the week. "The Vendetta" and "East Lynne" were presented to good attendance last week.

WESTMINSTER THEATRE.—Lester & William's "Me and Jack" Co. began a week's engagement May 30. The Parisian Folly Burlesque Co. played to good business last week. This company was organized in Boston, where it opened 9, under the management of H. G. Carleton and Ed. Hurst. It will close for the season at Wagner's Garden, Bridgeport, Ct., June 4. Week of June 6, Atkinson's Jollities.

DYER'S OPERA HOUSE.—"Burr Oaks" will occupy the boards the first half of the week, opening with a special holiday matinee 30. "M'liss" will be presented June 2, and balance of the week. "The Queen's Evidence" and "Damon and Pythias" drew fairly last week. The Sunday concerts have proved moderately successful. J. Francis Kirke and Helene Brooks, late of Lothrop's stock, joined the company last week.

NOTES.—Max Freeman was in town last week, visiting friends. There is some talk that he and J. Gordon Edwards may open the Sans Souci Garden, but that is hardly probable, as the buildings are in a dilapidated condition, and to say nothing of the expense, the season would be too far advanced to be a profitable one before the place could be put in proper condition to open...... Jerry Cohan was in town last week. He is arranging to play several towns in the vicinity of Boston, with his family as an attraction..... Stella C. Ainsworth, a member of Lothrop's Stock last season, was in town a portion of last week......Pawnee Bill's Wild West exhibited to good business at Pawtucket 28..... Clara Hathaway, a member of "The Dazzler" Co., had the misfortune to lose her pocketbook in this city 24, containing between $14 and $15 in money and jewelry valued at about $20......W. H. Pendergast closed with Florence Bindley's "Pay Train" Co. 21. He will pass the Summer with his family at this city...... Elise Lamierre left 30 to join Thomas & Watson's Co. at Austin & Stone's Museum, Boston.

OREGON.

Portland.—At the Marquam Grand Opera House May 16, Agnes Huntington; 23, "Little Puck."

CORDRAY'S THEATRE.—Week of 16, "The Two Orphans;" 23, "Among the Pines."

THE PARK THEATRE reopened 26 with "The Ivy Leaf."

NOTES.—The New York Opera Co., which recently played an engagement at the Park, has stranded. Some of the members are now at Cordray's, while most of the others have gone to San Francisco......Manager Friedlander announces that a well known opera company has been engaged to sing a number of operas at the Marquam this Summer.

He is at his home in this city during his vacation.

UNDER WHITE TENTS

RINGLING NOTES.—Once more blue sky and golden sun abound, and the white flag of the signal service glads again the eye. We have fully recovered from our smash up, having four new cars and fifty new horses. Diamond Dick called lately. Our two hundred mile flight into Oklahoma City gave us a taste of wild life on the plains. At the first station out was an Indian delegation. We recognized the familiar faces of Chief Split Moon and Dr. Rolling Thunder, Yellow Dog, Broken Nose and Young Man Afraid of His Salary. Behind stood Dr. Snake in the Ears, Princess Sagua and Papoose Blue Wing, Man Afraid of Nothing and Young Girl Afraid of a Hoop Skirt. At Oklahoma City and Guthrie we did a tremendous business. The first circus to visit this wild section, the tents were packed and jammed. The five civilized nations sent delegates to visit the five Ringlings, and some cowboys got up a stampede in the audience, but were checked by a pull of the managerial reins. Our plumed and painted Indian friends stared the show in a wondering manner. At Wichita, Kan., we did a big business, and are now in the full flush of a prosperous season.

ROSTER OF THE GREAT INTERNATIONAL RAILROAD SHOWS: W. H. Pomeroy, sole lessee and manager; H. R. De Leon, treasurer; T. R. Long, general agent; F. J. McCarthy contracting agent; J. F. Rosa, Mamie Blake, Dixon Bros., Zebenos, Mexican Family (five in number), Earl Sisters (four in number), trick ponies, educated donkeys and a large troupe of dogs. Mlle. Carrolla makes balloon ascensions daily. T. P. Fallon is leader of band, with ten mouthpieces. They use a 110ft. round top, with two 40ft. middle pieces, a 50ft. museum top, a 40ft. dressing room top, two 20x50ft. horse tents and two 20x40ft. cook tents. The show is twice the size it was last season, and everything is brand new, well painted and decorated. As a special feature in the museum, we have Jumbo, the largest horse. Minnetta and Barretta, and Dorian, the man snake, are special features in the big show. The route lays through New Mexico, Arizona and Southern California.

NOTES FROM RICHARDS' THREE BIG SHOWS.—We are still sailing along on the smooth waves of prosperity, though the rain has been something terrible. We have not missed a stand as yet, and everybody is well and happy. Our performers are Harry Costello, Louis Plomdon, Chancey Powell, the monkey man; W. M. Johnson, Frank Lovine, James Fields, John Myers and his school of highly educated horses. Our concert is in charge of Jim Fields and includes the Sutton Sisters, Graham Sisters, Robert Tasker, Millie Hubin, R. Graham, Jim Fields and jubilee singers. Our sideshow and all privileges are run by Frank B. Hubin, with six assistants; Millie Hubin, Circassian snake charmer; Levine, glass eater; Prof. Jones' flying ship, Prof. Hubin's magic and trained monkey and birds, while Hans. Blocker leads our band of twelve pieces.

THE McDONALDS, WALT AND LILLIE, closed with Sells & Rentfrow's Circus at Des Moines, Ia., and joined Dr. White Wolf's Medicine Co., for the balance of the Summer season.

B. R. CRAYCROFT writes, denying that C. W. Crompton and Frank Apple failed, through illness, to join the La Pearl Show, and also that they gave the management the customary two weeks' notice.

DR. O. M. CARTER'S CUSTER REMEDY CO. opened the season at New Vienna, O., May 2. Everything connected with the outfit is entirely new. The pavilion is an 80ft. round top with a 40ft. middle piece; dining room tent, 10x14ft.; cook tent and six sleeping tents; new stage and scenery; a brass band of ten pieces and orchestra of six pieces. The roster: Dr. O. M. Carter, proprietor and manager; Mrs. O. M. Carter, treasurer; J. E. Magee, advertising agent; Jas. Walker, stage manager; Hugh Barton, Geo. Elmore, Mlle. Koko, Raymond, J. E. Croix, Nola Mason, John and Mattie Downie, J. D. Barnes, George Wentworth, Chas. Brickwood, C. F. Perry, Harry Shaw, George Miller, Will Jordan, boss canvas man; Frank Fountain, Geo. Dent and others. We will travel by wagon, use twenty head of horses and exhibit under an 80ft. round top, with 40ft. middle piece. Our mounted band parade will be a feature, as usual.

NOTES FROM GOLLMAR BROS.' CIRCUS.—May 14 was opening day for the Gollmar Bros.' Show at Baraboo, Wis. The show has been greatly enlarged in every respect. The brigade ahead has been doubled. Special paper is the rule, with three kinds of heralds. More stock, both ring and draft, larger menagerie, more educated animals, more wagons, another band, a magnificent band chariot and several new and costly cages mark the growth of success. All the wardrobe and trappings are new and elegant. The sideshow, under the efficient management of J. H. Shields and son, Arthur, is a winner. The performances, both circus and concert, are sensations.

DEMPSEY & DAVIS, managers of the World's Musee-Theatre, Altoona, Pa., are getting together one of the largest organizations of its kind ever put under canvas. They have two canvases, size 100ft. round top, with a 40ft. middle piece, one 60x30ft., with three of their own cars. The show will consist of three departments, ring acts, curiosities and stage entertainment, with Prof. De Joux's Eden Musee, and Golden Cabinet of Illusions. The roster is: Dempsey & Davis, proprietors and managers; James J. Morton, director of amusements; Emery Bourque, contracting agent; Maurice Conner, boss billposter; Adolf Lyon, treasurer; Fred Darian, master of transportation; Frank Logue, lithographer; Prof. Boetteger, leader of band and orchestra.

PROF. BURTON'S EQUINE AND CANINE SHOW opened for the season May 28 under very auspicious circumstances.

HECK QUINN AND MLLE. ZERALIA, two very clever riders with Pawnee Bill's Wild West, were married at Rockville, Ct., May 24. A private ceremony was performed in the morning at the office of Attorney W. Frank Fay. In the afternoon they were publicly married in front of the grand stand by Attorney John E. Fisk. The show is reported to be doing a big business.

INDIANA.

Indianapolis.—At the Park Theatre, Ada Gray closed a prosperous week May 28. Kennedy's King Laugh Makers this week, Melville's Dramatic Co. June 16.

FOR some time past rumors have been afloat that a new theatre was to be erected in our city, and several managers have been here looking the field over and negotiating for a site. The Heuck Theatre Co., of Cincinnati, has brought things to a climax by purchasing 97½ by 202ft. of ground on North Delaware Street, between Ohio and Market Streets, and will at once tear down the present building and break ground for the magnificent theatre which they intend to open to the public Sept. 5. The new house will be known as the Empire, and will be under the management of James E. Fennessy. It will have a seating capacity of twenty-two hundred, and will cost between $75,000 and $100,000.

NOTES.—George W. June is busily engaged in booking time for Gus Williams' "April Fool" for next season. ......South Bend, Ind. Lodge, No. 235, B. P. O. E., was instituted by District Deputy Judge G. Voss, May 17. ......The Barnum-Bailey Show will exhibit here 28.

THE WORLD OF PLAYERS.

—The popular Irish comedian, Tim Cronin, has been engaged to play the part of Lord Rooney in the comedy of "Lord Rooney." A strong company is being engaged, including the Rooney daughters, and the comedy will be sent out on the road, beginning the season Aug. 15, 1892.

—Geo. J. Gaskin, manager of the Manhansett Quartet, sails for Belfast, Ire., June 16.

—Ed. Chrissie is engaged with "McCarthy's Mishaps" for the Summer, and goes with "The Kid" for the Fall and Winter season.

OHIO.

Cincinnati.—The inaugural of the Summer nights operatic performances by the Grau Opera Co., booked for Decoration Day at the Highland House, has been postponed. The electrical improvements have not been completed. Florence Hawthorne will be the contralto of the company, and Lizette Allaine was engaged during the week. "Dorothy" will be the first opera presented. "Nadjy" will follow.

MUSIC HALL.—The tenth May Festival began May 24, and a magnificent audience attended the initial concert. There were five evening performances and two matinees. "Opera night," 27, attracted the largest crowd. Theodore Thomas enjoyed a week of mingled caustic criticism and warm praise, but as society turned out nobly the success of the festival was assured. Antonia Mielke, who was ill early in the week, was able to fulfill her part in all the concerts. William Ludwig was the recipient of several little social attentions, as were all of the soloists.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.—"Candy" was given for the tenth time 29, and with the extra performance by the Liliputians the season closed. Business last week was good.

HARRIS' THEATRE.—N. S. Wood revived "The Boy Detective" 29, and later in the week will put on "The Boy Scout." He attracted large audiences in "Out in the Streets" last week. His engagement will continue another fortnight.

KOHL & MIDDLETON'S MUSEUM.—Sol Stone, George Myers, the horse with two mouths, Kentucky Frank and wife, and Rena Ingraham were cards in curio hall 30. The Buckeye Quartet appeared on the bijou stage, while the McAvoys and the Hallies were among the people in the auditorium. Business is fair.

MINNIE AND HATTIE KISSELLE, Mrs. Marie Stickney and little Virginia Kitts-Stickney will Summer at Babylon, L. I.

LALL EGGLESTON, of Comstock and Eggleston, will work with Sam Harner the following season, doing a talking and singing act. Mr. Comstock has left the show business. He is tending bar at Casenovia, N. Y., The new team will be known as Eggleston and Harner.

BILLY LESTER was a recent CLIPPER caller, looking bright as a lark. His season closes this week at the London, this city. He will retire to the Lester Villa, on the Shrewsbury River, for health and country life.

WHITING AND SHEPARD have another increase in their family. It's a boy—ten pounds.

WIENBERG, SHARP & YOUNG'S MINSTRELS will open their season at St. Joseph, Mo., Aug. 1. Charles Sharp will visit Europe during June, in search of a strong novelty. Will E. Culhane, manager of the St. Felix Sisters' Co., is routing and booking the company, which will play South until after election. Sharp and Young will introduce a novel musical act. They are well known on the Pacific coast as Sharp and Flat. Fred Wienberg will be manager.

E. K. FRANKLIN, manager of Geary's World Museum and Theatre, has closed his engagement and signed with Downie & Gallagher's Circus for the Summer.

C. W. WILLIAMS wishes it understood that he is in no way connected with the Parisian Folly and Burlesque Co. now playing the Eastern States. Williams' Parisian Folly Co. closed its season several weeks ago, and Mr. Williams is now busy preparing for next season, when he intends having a stronger company than ever. He has also copyrighted the title Parisian Folly and Burlesque, and will endeavor to make it uncomfortable for anybody using that title.

MANAGER A. H. HART, of the Boston Novelty Co., says he will have one of the best straight variety shows on the road next season. He will introduce several novelties.

THE MAY RUSSELL CO. will rehearse at Cleveland for next season, and open there with Frank Drew. Work is progressing on the new printing. Geo. Chennell will be connected with the organization, as will his wife, May Cook. Pauline Batcheller was recently robbed of her handbag at Toronto, which contained $248 in money and a lady's gold watch presented to her by her husband. The stolen articles were recovered. Erba Robeson, of the Rose Hill Co., has signed with the May Russell Co., but will probably cancel and go with "Bill's Boots" Co.

JOE O. ZIEFLE, business manager of the City Sports Burlesque Co., after the close of the season will spend his Summer vacation of July and August between Paterson, N. J., and Lake Hopatcong.

THESE people opened at the Park Pavilion Theatre, Cleveland, O., May 30: Fish and Richmond, I. T. Bush, James Fenton, Grace Milburn, Mercing Sisters and the Latonas.

STEWART'S Banjo and Guitar Journal for June and July is now ready. It is full of interesting matter, including five pages of new music. This is an especially attractive number.

NEW JERSEY.

Jersey City.—The Metropolitan Comedy Co., strengthened by the Clipper Quartet and Fred Morphet, gave a final performance at the Academy Decoration Day, bringing the regular season at this house to a close. The venture is under the management of Albert Mellen and T. L. Diggens, and the people comprise Edith Lasalle, Williams, Pat Murphy and J. H. Armstrong, Maggie Leland, Edwina and Judson and Byrne. Business was light. Prof. J. M. Hagar's Great Republic, assisted by the Van Houten Flute and Drum Corps, has the Academy June 2, 3.

OPERA HOUSE.—This house is dark. Rumor has it that Marlande Clarke has secured the theatre for a three night production of "Monte Cristo."

CENTRAL THEATRE.—The people week of 31: Bryant and Mack, Billie Diamond, Mabel Van, Alice Gretchen, Lou Parvo and Lizzie Kane.

NOTES.—The Jersey City Elks have secured a large and strong array of talent for their first benefit at the Academy, June 6. The people are: Florence Bindley and Drew A. Morton in an act from "The Pay Train," John Kernell, Imro Fox, Mast. Leon, La Regaloncita and La Graciosa, Ethel Lynton, W. J. Sullys, Hattie Anderson, Harry Booker, J. M. Martin, Frank Busch, Frank E. McNish, Little Eva Mudge, Geo. C. Carr, Tillie Jardyne, Harry Clifton, Louis Dittmar, and Venie Daly. The lodge is under obligation to Tony Pastor for this last named attraction, Mr. Pastor having so arranged his programme that she will be able to leave Chicago and arrive in good time to appear at the benefit. She will be placed in the care of Bro. Elk Robert E. Boyd, who has charge of the limited between this and the Windy City, and will be taken in charge by the Jersey boys on her arrival. The orchestra will be under the leadership of Henry F. Wagner and Charles Dittmar. Frank C. Bangs writes from the interior of the Eastern District that he will try and be with us .... Manageress Ettie Henderson has retired to her country seat at Long Branch, N. J., for the Summer......Mrs. E. M. Post, of "The Witch" Co., who left St. Francis Hospital, has again returned for further treatment ... Leader Henry F. Wagner will have charge of the orchestra at the Leland, Schroon Lake. This will make five seasons that he has furnished the music at that resort. ......John Moore, advertising agent at the Academy, has been re-engaged for next season......Professionals visiting the city can always find THE CLIPPER on file at Bro. Elk Enoch J. Smith's hostelry. Bro. Smith points with pride to a file of CLIPPERS dating back a quarter of a century. Also at the Opera House cafe, kept by Bro. Elk William Heller, the only paper devoted to dramatic or sporting to be found on the premises, and at Elk Hall's club room......The play produced at the Academy last week, "In a Fog," is a farce, by John L. Toole. As the name indicates, everybody through their own usual stupidity is "in a fog" until the finale. It has one act.

MONTANA.

Butte City.—At Maguire's Opera House, "The Ivy Leaf" played to good business May 19-21. Rhea opened to an immense audience 23 for two nights. Agnes Huntington 30, 31. Miss Huntington is to be entertained by the Oro Plata Club 30, at their quarters in the New Owsley Building. Gus Williams, in "Keppler's Fortune," June 2-4, Gorton's Minstrels 6-8.......At the Theatre Comique, Proprietor Dowler reports good business.

MASSACHUSETTS.

Boston.—The season draws on to its finish, and, after the performances of Saturday evening next four of the principal houses in town, viz., the Boston, Grand Opera, Bowdoin Square and Howard will close their doors until the Fall. At the Bowdoin Square, however, an extra performance of "Mignon" will be given on May 30, after which the doors will close for the season. The Globe will not open next week, but it is announced that a Summer season of light opera will begin June 13.

BOSTON THEATRE.—Alex. Salvini was received by large and delighted audiences last week in "Monte Cristo." On Monday afternoon and evening, also Sunday, "Monte Cristo" will be given, and for the balance of the week the dramatic adaptation of "Cavelleria Rusticana" by A. Carrano, who dedicated and presented it to Adelina Patti. The drama is in one act, and will be presented by Salvini's fine company, a chorus of thirty voices and an orchestra. Preceding it the two act comedy drama, "Robert Macaire," will be given.

HOLLIS STREET THEATRE.—Prof. Herrmann closed a week of splendid business here May 28. Aug. Daly's Co. begin a two weeks' engagement 30, opening in "Love in Tandem." Next week, "The Foresters," and with its final performance, June 11, the house will close for the season.

COLUMBIA THEATRE.—May 30 begins the last two weeks of Chas. Frohman's Co., who will give the first presentation of a new comedy entitled "The Family Circle," by Alex. Bisson and Sydney Rosenfeld. The scenes are laid in New York and Newport at the present time. "The Junior Partner" closed its long and successful run 28. Following Mr. Frohman's company, June 13, come Edward Harrigan and his company.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.—Robert Mantell closed a week of excellent business May 28, and is succeeded this week by a double bill, consisting of the spectacular pantomime of "The Duel in the Snow" as a curtain raiser, followed by "Zig Zag," which became popular in this city on its former presentation here, three years ago.

GLOBE THEATRE.—During its professional presentation, Barnet and Pfleuger's operatic extravaganza, "1492," has scored at the Globe one of the biggest hits of the season, and many are regretting that that this is the last week of its career. In its professional staging it has been vastly improved, and has become extremely popular with the public. A change in the cast this week will be the substitution of Richard Harlow—the Catherine, formerly of "Evangeline"—for R. A. Barnet, in the role of Isabella, the latter gentleman appearing as Ferdinand. Next week the house will be closed, but on June 13 H. E. Dixey will begin a Summer season of light opera, opening with "Iolanthe."

TREMONT THEATRE.—E. P. Willard begins his seventh and last week here May 30, afternoon and evening, presenting "The Middleman," also on Tuesday evening. Wednesday evening, "Wealth." Week of June 6, the Pauline Hall Opera Co. in "Puritana." The house will, it is said, remain open all Summer.

BOSTON MUSEUM.—Chas. Dickson has met with unqualified approbation and hearty applause of Museum audiences in "Incog." It will be withdrawn, however, June 4, and the following week will begin a season of "Little Tippett" by Abbott & Teal Co.

BOWDOIN SQUARE THEATRE.—The charming young prima donna, Lillian Durell, of this city, is to be sincerely congratulated upon not only the success which attended her debut in "Mignon" last week at Manager Atkinson's Theatre, but likewise on her magnificent voice, which, in many respects, is phenomenal. She is also to be commended for her excellence as an actress and her thorough knowledge of stage business. I predict for her a brilliant future in her chosen profession. Manager Chas. F. Atkinson is also deserving of praise for the able judgment he displayed in the selection of a supporting company, to whom must be awarded commendations. "Mignon" will have its final performance Monday evening, 30, after which the season will close.

HOWARD ATHENÆUM.—John L. Sullivan and Duncan B. Harrison and their company did an immense business last week in "Honest Hearts and Willing Hands," which was produced in really excellent shape. It is needless to say that the champion was received with a storm of applause, and it must also be said that he acquitted himself in a most creditable manner and shows no small amount of talent as an actor. This week he gives a change of bill, producing the "Broderick Agra," in which he appears in the glove contest with Jack Ashton. The house closes with the termination of this engagement, June 4.

GAIETY AND BIJOU THEATRE.—Steadily onward goes Manager Keith in his successful career as a caterer to the popular desire for attractive vaudeville and specialty entertainment, of which the beautiful Gaiety and Bijou is the veritable mecca. The audiences there are always certain of their fill of pleasure, inasmuch as naught is ever presented to which the slightest objection can be taken by even the most fastidious taste. For the current week he presents a powerful list of novelties, headed by A. O. Duncan, and also including Johnston, Riano and Bentley, Howley and Doyle, Chas. Jerome and Julia McKey, Belle and Roger Dolan, Symonds, Hughes and Rastus, Geo. Leslie, the Ali Bros., John Barker, Anzo and Lee, Leslie's educated dogs, May Sears, Bryant and Saville, John R. Harty, the King Sisters, Frank Clayton, Leslie and Fleming, Joseph Natus (late tenor of Primrose & West's Minstrels), and Van Osten and Clark.

PALACE THEATRE.—"The Princess of Trebizonde" is the attraction this week. It will be presented with new costumes and scenic adjuncts. A number of new songs and music have been added, and a perfect production is promised. Incidental to the performance the French dancer, Bertoto, now in her seventh week, will appear in "Old and Young." In the olio are Fulgora, the Watsons, Ray Burton, Clivette, the Cole Sisters, Geo. C. Davis, the Forresters, Dupont and Duval.

GRAND MUSEUM.—May 30, and during the week, Manager Lothrop's excellent stock will present "Tried and True." It will be handsomely mounted, and embraces the following cast: Ethel Tucker, Josie De Voy, Desada Barry, S. Frances Newhall, Nettie Brigham, J. W. Wilkes, Cameron Clemens, Albert H. Field, Frank D. Melville, H. R. Marshall and H. Percy Meldon. In the olio: Chick Kehoe, Ida Rainer, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Hammond, J. C. Davy, Allen and Rankin, John and Nellie Healy.

AUSTIN & STONE'S MUSEUM.—The talking horse, Mahomet, continues to be an attraction of the most powerful nature. In the lecture hall also are Prof. Bristol's educated horses, Capt. and Mrs. Engelbrecht in sword contests, and Martell in acrobatic feats of a surprising nature. The stage: Collins and Henshaw, Chas. Diamond, Connors and Quigley, Nellie St. John, Frank Ellis, the Highleys, Tambourine McCarty, the Nawns, Wm. H. Smith, Sam Lucas and wife, Thomas and Watson, and Dean and Harrison.

THE BOSTON CIRCUS.—Manager Sheedy's enterprise is steadily progressing in popular favor with lovers of amusements in the sawdust circle. He puts up weekly an excellent programme, and the result is a bestowal of fine paying business and well pleased audiences. Business last week was very good, the attendance at night, especially, filling the spacious canvas covered arena at the continuous performances. For the current week his attractions include a Wild West Show, El Nino Eddie, Ferry, the frog man, the knife throwing Castagnas, Zoyarra, Zamora, Pearlie Proctor, Millie Zoyarra, Jennie Guichard, Smith and Petitt, J. Leedham, Arizona Jack, Mustang Ned and Wild Lillie, Leroux, Blonde Belle, Apache, George and Vic Laicelle director.

WORLD'S THEATRE.—The Metropolitan Vaudeville Co. opened at the World's May 30 for one week. In the roster are: McAvoy and May, Cohan Family, Kennedy and Gordon, Gallagher and Arnold, Stinson and Merton, the Eureka Quartet, Dale Baker, Hayward Sisters, Felix and Ward, Joe Seamans, Belle Richwood, Luciile Clifton, Murdock Sisters and others. On Decoration Day the English Gaiety Girls give two special performances of "Students on a Lark."

GENERAL GOSSIP.—At the beginning of his next season at the Boston Museum, Roland Reed will produce a new comedy, entitled "For Revenue Only."......Genial Treasurer B. F. Tryon, of the Howard Athenæum, leaves here next Saturday on his thirty-second trip to London.......Complete scenery has been ordered by Alex. Salvini for his new play, "The Heir of Curamont," which he will produce next season......The season will open at the Boston Theatre Aug. 28 with "Across the Potomac," in which Boyd Putnam will play the leading role, for which he has been specially engaged......To the household of Manager Wm. Seymour, of the Tremont, and his estimable wife, has been added a charming girl babe......May Sears, the magnificent operatic singer, has created a furor at Keith's Gaiety and Bijou. She has a pure and powerful soprano voice. She is now in her third week.......Chas. F. Atkinson will be sole manager of the Bowdoin Square Theatre next season. The Columbia will be under the management of Rich, Harris & Frohman.......Rosa France is seriously ill at the home of her mother......Annie Clarke's benefit at the Museum last Thursday afternoon is elsewhere noted in detail......By permission of Manager Field, Kate Ryan, of the Museum Co., is playing with Louis Morrison in "Faust." She regretted deeply her inability to be present at Annie Clarke's testimonial........Mrs. Agnes Booth Schoeffel has ended her season's tour, and is now at her home, the Masconomo House, Manchester-by-the-Sea.......Forepaugh's Show will be here June 6-11......Scenic Artist Dave Richards has just finished for Manager Geo. E. Lothrop three beautiful sets, one a palace arch in white and gold and the others antique parlor scenes......Alex. Salvini and his manager, W. M. Wilkison, will leave for England next week. While abroad the will be the guests of Mme. Patti at her castle in Wales......John Bowman and Wm. Green, the advertising staff of the Howard, will present a very strong bill for their benefit at the house June 6. Over forty people have volunteered......There was a mistake made in the announcement of the authorship of "The Councillor's Wife," the comedy recently produced by Mr. Field in Boston. J. K. Jerome, in this case, joined forces with Mr. Phillpots (known as the author of "Folly and Fresh Air"). The play was written by them in collaboration.

Worcester.—The Germaine Opera Co., under the management of David Beirs, opened a Summer season of forty weeks at the Worcester Theatre in "Said Pasha" May 30 to "S. R. O." The company arrived 26, and rehearsed day and night under the direction of Stage Manager Joseph S. Greensfelder, and as a result the first performance was never excelled in this city. The principals are Katherine Germaine, Rose Beaudet, Ruth Davenport, Oscar Girard, Fred Frear, Eccles Hall, Sylvian Langlois and Roger Harding. After the performance 30 Manager Beirs entertained several New Yorkers and the local dramatic newspaper men at supper. "Said Pasha" holds the boards the balance of the week. Week of June 6, "Amorita." From here the company go to Springfield for a week, then to New Haven and other Connecticut cities. "Miss Helyett" did a big business 19. "The Fire Patrol" 26, 27, 28.

FRONT STREET OPERA HOUSE.—Week of 23, "Donnybrook" played to good business. Week of 30, "Only a Farmer's Daughter;" June 6, "Two Irish Cuckoos."

LOTHROP'S OPERA HOUSE.—"East Lynne" played to large houses week of May 23. "Hazel Kirke" was the attraction 30, and opened to big business. The house will keep open as long as there is any business.

NOTES.—Max Freeman concluded with Lothrop's stock a week ago, and will spend the Summer in Europe......Frank C. Chase is running Lothrop's Portland, Me., Theatre for the Summer, and James Hall, formerly here, is stage manager......S. H. Norman, of New York, J. M. Hill's representative for seven years, is on a visit to the city......Nat Austin, an old time circus clown, has been placed in an insane asylum......Forepaugh's Circus comes June 18......The ball nine connected with the Germaine Opera Co., will go against The Telegram nine next week.

DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

Washington.—The season virtually ended with the closing of the Rapleys' houses—the National and the Academy—leaving Albaugh's Grand Opera House, with Summer opera by the Carleton Co., in full possession of the field, so far as our larger houses are concerned. "The Bohemian Girl," the fourth opera of the series, was presented with an excellent cast and creditable stage setting before full houses all the week. "The Wages of Sin" was well played by an excellent company at Harris' Bijou Theatre and the patronage was entirely satisfactory. Bob Fitzsimmons had good business at Kernan's Lyceum Theatre. Riverside is daily visited by large crowds to witness the dancing of Cyrene, the slack wire performances of the Sisters Braatz and Margellise and the trapaze acts of the Sisters Mendoza......Tim Murphy, Robert Downing and wife (Eugenia Blair), Giles Shine and wife (Lavinia Shannon) and Thad. Shine are quietly resting at their several homes in this city......Annie Lewis will return here after her two weeks' preliminary trial of "The Nutmeg Match" at St. Paul and Minneapolis.

MICHIGAN.

Detroit.—At Whitney's Grand Opera House: "The County Fair" May 29-June 4, Hettie Bernard Chase 5-11. "Oh, What a Night!" drew crowded houses.

LYCEUM THEATRE.—"The South Before the War" May 30-June 4. Rose Coghlan May 23, 24 had fine business.

WONDERLAND THEATRE AND MUSEE.—Curio hall: Gallitti's trained birds and monkeys, and Yacca. Stage: Harry Budworth, Billy Kennedy, the Fontainbleaus and the Fremonts.

SCRAPS.—Manager Shaw, of the Lyceum, is expected home this week from New York......"Oh, What a Night!" close their season at Toledo June 4......Rose and Charles Coghlan tendered John T. Sullivan, manager of their company, a benefit May 23, which was attended by a large audience. At the close of the performance Mr. Sullivan recited "Fra Giacomo," and Miss Coghlan "The Charge of the Light Brigade," after which the Mehan Ladies' Quartet sang a selection. Mr. Sullivan intends passing the Summer with his relatives and friends in this city......Edward Oakes, treasurer of Marlande Clarke's Co., who were playing an engagement in Pittsburg, Pa., week of May 13, was arrested here 22 by Detectives Lally and McDonnell. He left that city in company with Emma Miller, who was playing in the same company. He had, it is alleged, $85 of the company's money. A telegram from the Chief of Police of that city notified the officers here to be on the lookout for an eloping couple, about that time. It seems the couple went to Cleveland, thence to Windsor, Can., just across the river from here, and by a clever scheme of the detectives he was induced to cross to this side, where he was at once placed under arrest. The young lady was greatly surprised to find her mother here ready to take her daughter back to her home at Philadelphia. After some little delay in making arrangements, the girl consented to return with her mother. On 25 a Pittsburg officer came, and took Mr. Oakes back to that city, to answer the charges against him......Bert Lacy, treasurer of Whitney's, is to be tendered a benefit June 5......Rose Coghlan closed her season here May 24......The ushers of the Lyceum are to give an excursion to Put-In-Bay June 24.

HARRY S. EATON and Billy Young have dissolved partnership.

CLIPPER POST OFFICE.

A STAMPED ENVELOPE, plainly addressed, must be inclosed for each and every letter, and the line of business followed by the person addressed should be given, in order to prevent mistakes.

NOTE.—Professionals and others should bear in mind that all letters, etc., in transit between the United States and Canada must be prepaid, otherwise they are not forwarded.

PENNSYLVANIA.

Philadelphia.—A few weeks ago I referred to the injudicious action of a local paper in printing a list of local theatres, branding them as "possessing the same structural defects as the Central," and at the same time I noted that several managers had properly withdrawn their advertisements from a journal which attacked their interests. Since then every manager in this city has taken his advertisement from the journal. Now for the outcome of the inadvisable business. I am given to understand that a combination has been formed by local managers, with the exception of one who, it is said, will come over shortly. I am also informed that each member of the combination has given bonds in the sum of $500 as a pledge that he will stand by any conclusion the organization may arrive at. The chief object of the combination is mutual protection. There are others, but of them it is not necessary to speak at present. This information comes to me from a source which I have every reason to believe to be reliable. As a precaution, however, I wrote to the business manager of a local house, giving a synopsis of what I have written above, and stating that unless the report was denied I would publish it. Should it be incorrect I know that THE CLIPPER would take pleasure in giving ample publication to the denial of any or every manager alleged to be concerned. The season at the Chestnut Street Theatre closed May 28 with Harrigan's Co.; at the Chestnut with "The Little Tycoon;" "By Proxy" saw the curtain down at the Walnut; "Ten Nights in a Barroom" at Forepaugh's and "U and I" at the People's. The Ninth and Arch Museum also closed on the same date. The board of directors of the Arch Street Theatre has decided to lease the house to Charles B. Jefferson, the well known combination manager.

PARK THEATRE.—Manager Frank Howe Jr. and Charles A. Metcalf, who look after Rich & Harris' interests at the Park, are to be congratulated on the result of their week's hazard at Summer opera. The credit primarily belongs to them, for it was to their active supervision and fertile ideas that the success of "Genevieve De Brabant" is due. The opera was staged and costumed without regard to expense, and caught on at once. The operatic debuts of Peter F. Dailey and Ignacio Martinetti call for special mention. "Genevieve" is continued indefinitely, to be followed by "The Grand Duchess."

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.—The feature of the current week is a revival of "Don Giovanni," being the first essayal of that work by the New American Opera Co. It is underlined for June 1 and 4. "Cavalleria Rusticanna," "Marriage by Lantern," "Aida," "Martha," "La Traviata" and "L'Africaine" are sandwiched in the week's repertory. The addition to the company of Mme. Van Cantaren has imparted new strength to the work. She is a finished actress, possessing a remarkable voice and excellent methods. June 6, the first American performance of Mascagni's "L'Amico Fritz." Large attendance continues.

EMPIRE THEATRE.—A. C. King's Opera Co., after a week's experiment with "Falka," changed the bill May 30 to "The Beggar Student," given with the full cast of principals. "Falka" was well patronized, and, as the company has been gradually settling down to steady work, the prospect for improvement is favorable.

GIRARD AVENUE THEATRE.—"Mugg's Landing" was revived 30 by Manager Holland, with Lizzie Derious Daly leading. "Our Angel" was well received by fair audiences last week.

TESTIMONIAL TO MRS. DREW.—Prominent citizens of Philadelphia will endeavor to evidence their esteem for Mrs. John Drew by tendering her a testimonial entertainment at the Academy of Music June 6. The letter tendering the testimonial to Mrs. Drew is signed by sixty-eight men famous in every walk of life. The arrangements for the performance have been completed. Besides Mrs. Drew these professionals will appear: Mr. and Mrs. Kendal, Joseph Jefferson, the members of the New York Lyceum Theatre Co., William H. Crane, Annie Pixley, Roland Reed, Louis James, Maurice Barrymore, Viola Allen and singers from the American Opera Co.

NOTES.—Treasurer Southwell, of the Empire, will be tendered a benefit June 2......While the first act of "U and I" was being performed at the People's Theatre 24, another scene which bordered on tragedy was being enacted at the stage door. John H. Peterson, a former member of the company, while under the influence of liquor, attempted to shoot Tim Cronin, whom he believed to have been instrumental in having him discharged. Mr. Peterson applied at the stage door shortly after half-past eight o'clock, and, without making known his identity, sent an urgent message to Mr. Cronin, stating that he desired a few moments' conversation with him. The doorkeeper noticed that the man was slightly the worse for liquor, and seemed averse to delivering the message. The other insisted, however, and Mr. Cronin finally appeared. Thereupon the visitor, whom Mr. Cronin recognized as Mr. Peterson, began to abuse the actor. The latter demanded to know the nature of Mr. Peterson's business, whereat his visitor drew a revolver from his overcoat pocket, and, pointing it at Mr. Cronin's head, pulled the trigger. The weapon missed fire, and before the would be murderer could try again the comedian knocked him sprawling upon his back into the street. He quickly regained his feet and fled down the street, with Mr. Cronin, who was made up for his part, in hot pursuit. After an exciting chase of half a block Mr. Cronin stumbled and fell, while his assailant escaped in the darkness. Mr. Cronin can assign no cause for the assault, except that Mr. Peterson believed him to have had a hand in his dismissal from the company. Mr. Peterson, who claims this city as his home, has been on the stage only a short time, the position he held with the "U and I" being his second engagement. The manager had dismissed him some time ago, because he had been found wanting in many respects......Helen O'Donnell, who was costumer at the Temple Theatre before it was burned, will have a benefit at the National June

WILLIAM JEROME.

The subject of our first page portrait was born at Cornwall-on-the-Hudson, N. Y., Sept. 30, 1865, and made his first professional appearance with Howorth's Hibernica at Jersey City, N. J., during the Summer of 1885. He remained with the Hibernicon during the season of 1886-7, doing a black face turn. He next joined Wilson & Rankin's Minstrels, and the following season played the variety theatres. Mr. Jerome has since been with Kate Castleton's "A Paper Doll" Co., "The Fakir," "U. S. Mail," "Grimes' Cellar Door" and others. He has written many successful parodies and comic songs, among them: "I'm Not Old Enough to Know," "He's on the Police Force Now," "I'm Not Baby McKee," "I Got It," "Dead on to Me," "Take Your Time, Gentlemen," and "He Never Came Back." His songs have been sung by all the leading lights of the farce comedy world. Mr. Jerome is the husband of Leona Fountainebleau.

WORLD OF PLAYERS:

— At the close of a performance at Liscomb's Opera House, Rondout, N. Y., May 23, Manager George S. Liscomb went on the stage to turn out the gas, while his brother, Samuel, went down stairs to attend to other matters. Soon Samuel Liscomb heard groans up stairs, and went to investigate. On lighting the gas he found his brother lying in front of the stage, unconscious and bleeding. His cheek was cut open, one of his fingers was broken and he was otherwise injured. When returning consciousness came, George stated that on turning off the gas he saw, by the light that came in at the window, a man in the wings of the stage, and then he became unconscious. It is evident that Mr. Liscomb received heavy blows before he fell off the front of the stage, and that the stranger dealt them. The man had evidently hidden himself on the stage for the purpose of robbery.

— Louis Sanford will Summer at Atlantic City.

— George H. Adams will be the principal clown with Hanlons' "Fantasma" next season.

— "The Little Tycoon's" season closed May 28, at Philadelphia. It is not likely that this attraction will go on the road soon again.

— Fanny Bowman has been engaged for the Warde-James Co. for next season.

— W. L. Gleason has been re-engaged as stage manager for Litt & Davis' "The Ensign."

— Lillie Eldridge has gone to Bath Beach, L. I., for the Summer.

— Carrie Louis closed her first starring tour at Richmond, Ind., May 21. She will open her next season Aug. 1, at Elyria, O.

— White Whittlesey, who has been connected with Lyceum Theatre companies in the past, and was last season a member of the Margaret Mather Co., retires from the stage at the close of this season, to return to his former business of house decorator and designer.

— George Heath has been engaged for the leading heavy part in "The Operator."

— Lillian Russell, whose season closed at Brooklyn May 28, sails for Europe June 4. She will visit London and Paris only, and will return to New York the middle of July, to rehearse her new opera, which will be performed at San Francisco Sept. 6.

— A. M. Palmer sails for Europe June 7, to inspect the foreign theatrical market. He may bring back something new.

— Frank Logan has been re-engaged as business manager for George C. Staley.

— Ramsay Morris, for several years connected with enterprises of Daniel and Charles Frohman, and for the past two seasons with the latter in a managerial capacity, has resigned, to venture for himself. Mr. Morris, who is now at Chicago, will return to New York about June 1. It is said that he will organize for next season a stock company for comedy work, that several well known actors and actresses are already under engagement to him, and that bookings have been made in the larger cities.

— "A Breezy Time" will go out next season under the direction of E. B. Fitz, now the sole proprietor. A company has been engaged, and all contracts made by Daniel Shelby, who last season managed the attraction, will be filled. The season will open in Texas about Aug. 16. E. J. Nugent is booking the time.

— Paddy Murphy has secured a new play for next season, called "In a Fog." It will be produced in September, if all goes well.

— H. R. Brennan's Star Theatre Co. ended their travels May 14, at Butte, Mon. Manager Brennan and his wife, Minnie De Lange, will spend their Summer vacation abroad.

— James Britton, of the "McCarthy's Mishaps" Co., mourns the loss of his mother, who died on May 13.

— Harry Elting will put "Euchered" on the road nex season. The cast will include Hope Booth, John E. Ainsley and Annie Kingsley. A. Reid, proprietor of the company, left for England May 15, to secure some novelties. The company will open their season Aug. 15.

— Geo. B. Miller has signed to do leading business with Pete Baker next season. This will be his fourth year in that position.

— Walter Damrosch is writing an opera, the subject of which is to be Hawthorne's "The Scarlet Letter." G. P. Lathrop, Hawthorne's son in law, is writing the libretto.

— Now that the Supreme Court of the United States has decided that the railroads may make party rates without violating the Inter-State commerce law, the Chicago, St. Paul and Kansas City Road will renew its application, made some time ago to the Western Passenger Association, for authority to establish a rate of two cents a mile for parties of ten or more traveling in a body. Some of the Western lines are opposed to party rates, but there is no doubt that if one road adopts them the rest will follow suit, and that the privileges enjoyed by theatrical companies prior to the adverse ruling of the Inter-State Commission will be restored on all the roads in the country.

— Anna M. Quinn (Mrs. Sam Charles) is especially engaged to play Hannah Sanders, in Sam Young's Hoosier comedy, "Zeb, the Clodhopper," to open at Havlin's Theatre, Chicago, Ill., June 19.

— Henry S. Cohen, professionally known as Harry Cottrell, has brought suit for an absolute divorce against his wife, Fannie Hagerty. Both were members of "The Southern Rose" Co. Mr. Cohen states that he met his wife in this city, and, after a few days' acquaintance, they were married. The wife puts in a general denial.

— Ada Dare and Stella Hoyt, two members of the "Zig Zag" Co., playing at Proctor's Opera House, New Haven, Ct., had a narrow escape from death May 24. They drove out on East Rock Park, and had reached the summit of the rock, 350ft. above the sea level, when their horse ran away. They were thrown out within a foot of the precipice. They were badly shaken up, and their carriage was shattered.

— Sig. Italo Campanini is not ill, as reported, nor has he canceled his engagements, but is now filling one at the Indianapolis Music Festival, and will fulfill those made for this city.

— Fanny Davenport's season closed at Chicago May 28. Miss Davenport will continue under Marcus A. Mayer's management.

— Minnie Seligmann is not to star under Augustus Pitou's management. The negotiations have fallen through on a question of terms, it is said, and Miss Seligmann's next season's work has not yet been mapped out.

— Edward A. Oakes, treasurer of the Marlarde Clarke Co., is in jail at Detroit, Mich. About two weeks ago he left with the soubrette of the company from Pittsburg, where the company were filling an engagement, and, so it is said, took with him all the available funds. The pair were taken into custody May 24, at Windsor, Ontario. As there was no warrant for the soubrette, she was released, and Mr. Oakes was taken over to Detroit to await the arrival of the Pittsburg officers.

— Mme. Kate Rolla will sail for Europe May 28. She will spend several months at Paris and several weeks at London, returning in September.

— Yankton, S. D., is soon to have a new Opera House, at a cost of $80,000.

— Jessie Olivier (Mrs. Al. Feeley) is at present at Yankton, S. D. She joins her husband in Cincinnati, early in August, for "The Old Soldier."

— Dominick Murray will go abroad next month. He will continue to play Humpy Logan, in "Master and Man," next season.

— Willard Spenser, author of "The Little Tycoon," is writing another comic opera, which he intends to bring out next season.

— T. W. Babcock has been re-engaged for N. C. Goodwin Jr.'s Co.

— John Whiteley, manager of the MacLean-Prescott Co., has gone to Dundee, Ill., on a three months' fishing trip.

— Denman Thompson has gone to his Summer home at Swanzey, N. H.

— Elmer E. Vance will bring out another sensational play next season. He will not discontinue "The Limited Mail," however.

— Lea Michael (Mrs. Jay Hunt) will play Jemima Bloggs, and Jay Hunt will play Ned Drummond in "The Wages of Sin" next season.

— The Leora E. Lane Co. has been strengthened by the addition of Geo. W. Lowe, Dora Lowe, Cleo Franklin and Lelia and C. C. Showalter, making fifteen persons in the company.

— Marie Madison has reconstructed C. E. Callahan's domestic story of the war, "My Maryland," adding a number of elaborate scenic features. It will be put upon the road next season, with a well known soubrette star as the feature of the cast.

— The Rhodel Family report good business through the West. They are started for a tour of the Pacific Coast.

— Josie Robinson Haywood, who has been ill for the past two months, will reside with her mother at Chicago during the Summer. It is her intention to again appear in "Nemo," under Mr. Tridemann's management.

— Paige's Players have closed. Geo. W. Paige and wife have joined the Isaac Payton Comedy Co., for the Summer, for comedy and juveniles.

— The "Ole Olson" Co. came in for their quota of misfortune during the recent floods in the West. While en route from Jamestown to Grafton, N. D., they were delayed by a wreck and washout. Their special car was detached and sidetracked, while the locomotive went ahead with a crew of men to repair damages. Another washout in the rear prevented them from going back again, and they were compelled to lay there for twenty-four hours, until the engine could return to release them from their cold and hungry position. An improvised bridge was thrown around the wreck, which enabled the company of famished "troop hands" to walk over to a train which was waiting on the other side. The baggage was carried over in the same way. The officials of the N. P. R. R. sent a dining car, gave them a good dinner, and tried in many other ways to make their situation less disagreeable. They arrived at Grand Forks, N. D., to find the house sold at four o'clock P. M., and people buying standing room tickets, four hours before the performance.

— C. A. Bishop and Olive Ashley have joined the Isaac Payton Comedy Co.

— Manager H. R. Jacobs has signed contracts with the following attractions for his Chicago houses during the World's Fair: The Alhambra will be occupied by Corinne and the Kimball Opera Comique Co. At the Clark Street, Tony Pastor will furnish one of the strongest vaudeville attractions ever seen in Chicago. At the Academy, the Hanlons will present on a big scale the spectacle of "Fantasma." With three such attractions as the above named, Mr. Jacobs should reap a rich harvest during the World's Fair. His new house at Chicago, the Imperial, will be completed on or about Nov. 1, 1892, and he is now negotiating with several very strong attractions to occupy that house during the World's Fair.

— The Supreme Court, at St. Paul, Minn., has handed down a decision affirming the judgment of the lower court in the libel case of Arthur A. Lotto vs. Fanny Davenport. This is the third time this case has been before the Supreme Court. Twice Mr. Lotto won. The second trial was in favor of Miss Davenport. Mr. Lotto had a disagreement with Miss Davenport, while her company was playing an engagement at Minneapolis. Miss Davenport made unpleasant statements about Mr. Lotto, and the latter left the company and brought suit against her for $5,000 damages.

— Minna K. Gale is to be married shortly to Archibald C. Haynes, of the Equitable Life Insurance Co. Miss Gale has abandoned her trip to Europe, but does not intend retiring from the stage.

— The following letter from H. R. Jacobs to C. H. Plummer, his Syracuse, N. Y., representative, we think worthy of space: "C. H. Plummer, H. R. Jacobs Opera House, Syracuse, N. Y.—Dear Sir: In reference to Mrs. Lennen's applying for the house for her benefit, I am ready and willing at any time to give her the house and place it at her services, including all the attaches, lights and cleaning, also tickets at the box office with ticket sellers, gratuitously, and wish her all the success in the world. If it were possible, under present circumstances, to procure an entertainment of any kind, I would likewise tender that gratuitously, but as the season is over, which she of course understands, I am at a loss for the want of an attraction, so advise her to solicit all the local talent she can procure under the circumstances. If there is anything I can do for the benefit of her welfare, I am at her command. Most obediently, H. R. JACOBS."

— Frank Elmore closed with the Clair Tuttle Co. May 28, and will play dates for several weeks. He has not settled definitely regarding next season.

— Mack Charles, after an absence of four years from the operatic stage, returns to his old love, and is now singing the principal baritone roles with the Dodd Opera Co., at Omaha, Neb., where they are to remain all Summer.

— Phillip J. Gordon will star next season in "The Frontier Mail," and not in "On the Frontier," as recently stated. Among the recent engagements for the company are D. C. McCarthy, Francis R. Layton, Thos. C. Stanway, Barton Ellway, Fred Alberts and Frank Hammond.

— Manager O. F. Miller, of the Standard Theatre, Milwaukee, Wis., will arrive in New York about June 11, to complete the bookings of his theatre for next season. Mr. Miller intends to remain in New York most of the Summer.

— W. L. Paine, of New York, who was formerly a resident of Wilkesbarre, Pa., where he won the sobriquet of "Poker Paine," went to Scranton May 25 and caused the arrest of some of the owners of The Tribune. Among those arrested were William Connell, Alfred Hand, Col. Henry M. Boles, Henry Belin Jr. and Everett Warren. It was also intended to arrest William T. Smith and Claude Whetstone, but the former is at San Francisco and the latter at Philadelphia. The gentlemen arrested gave bail in $500 each before Alderman Donovan. The alleged libel was contained in the Wilkesbarre correspondence of The Scranton Tribune, published several weeks ago. Daniel L. Hart, a young dramatist, was arrested 25, at Wilkesbarre, on a charge of malicious libel, by Mr. Paine. On Aug. 25, 1891, Mr. Hart was the Wilkesbarre correspondent of The Scranton Tribune, and in his department appeared an article headed "Lost Her Money." It charged Mr. Paine with alienating the affections of Mrs. J. Frank Lee, wife of a wealthy resident of Wilkesbarre, from her husband, eloping with her, squandering all her money, and saying that the famous Count Mitkiewicz got most of it. Mr. Hart furnished $1,000 bail for trial.

— Edouard Latoni and Edoltho Gicana, male ballet dancers rehearsing at Eldorado, quarrelled over Rosa Latour, a coryphee, May 25. Mr. Latoni gashed Mr. Gicana's face with a dirk, and he was locked up.

— Six members of the "Woven Web" Co. were sent to jail at Reading, Pa., May 25 for not paying their bill at the hotel. They went to Reading 17 and found that their agent had decamped with the funds. Since then they had run up a bill of $130 at the hotel. The three women of the company, Mrs. L. L. Taylor, Mrs. R. Thompson and Miss Maitland, were permitted to remain at the hotel, and Mr. Taylor was released and left 26 for New York to obtain funds.

— A new society comedy by Daniel L. Hart, author of "Under Ground," called "One Christmas Eve," is to be produced at Wilkesbarre and Scranton next week, with Lida McMillen, C. Edward Brandt, H. W. Fenwick, Paul Scott, Celia Clay and others in the cast.

— Judge Hallett, of the U. S. Court, at Denver, Col., has decided that M. B. Leavitt shall retain the Broadway Theatre, Denver, Col., for a year from July, and has also granted him an appeal from the District Court of Appeals, at St. Louis. This virtually gives Mr. Leavitt possession of the house during the term of his lease.

— Business with the "Reclaimed" Co. through New Brunswick is reported to be good. Henry E. Codd, late of Al. Haynes' Philadelphia Stock, has recently joined the company for heavies and character.

— Sallie Williams, the soubrette, sister of Fritz Williams, of the Lyceum Theatre Stock, and daughter of Fred Williams, the stage director of the Lyceum, this city, is to be married in August at the home of her father, in this city, to Charles H. Riegel. Both are now on tour with "The Power of the Press."

— Billy Wikoff, of the Carrie Louis Co., will spend the Summer at his home, Springfield, O. The company closed a season of forty-seven weeks at Richmond, Ind., May 21.

— True S. James, manager of Berlain's Chicago Comedy Co., sends the following: "I want to compliment you on routing me, as you have had me in every issue for the last twelve weeks, and the route has been correct every time. Consequently I have received a large number of letters from managers offering dates. I am only sorry I can't accept them all." Manager James' dates ahead have been regularly received in time for their insertion in proper order in our columns. This fact may interest those who are inclined now and then to complain of an error, or of omission.

— One of the bright particular stars in the amusement firmament next season will be Jennie Yeamans, under the management of Frank Williams. This versatile little actress ranks among the cleverest soubrettes on the contemporaneous stage, and, with an excellent play and judicious management, she promises to number among the standard attractions on tour. Her contract is for a number of years, and new plays will be constantly added to her repertory. Her initial vehicle is entitled "12 P. M.," a cleverly constructed musical comedy, specially written for her, with an original theme and an interesting story. New York is among the earliest dates, with the best theatres and cities to follow. The company will open their season in August.

— Lizzie Ingles sailed for England May 28, on her annual visit to her home. She will return to this country in time to open her season Aug. 20.

— N. C. Goodwin Jr. sails for England today (Wednesday), June 1, to see his new comedy, "Walker of London," which J. L. Toole is playing at London.

— During the performance of "The Pay Train" at the Opera House, London, Can., May 21, Geo. Dittmar, one of the proprietors of the company, who was playing the part of the Engineer, was presented with a handsome double medal, suitably inscribed.

— Daniel Frohman has decided to send out a special company with "The Gray Mare" this Summer, while the regular Lyceum Theatre Co. rests.

— The Court of Appeals has heard arguments on the appeal of Lillian Russell from a judgment in favor of James C. Duff, to restrain the appellant from breaking her engagement with Mr. Duff, and to prevent her appearance on the Casino stage, this city, with a rival company in charge of Mr. Aronson. The story as presented in the briefs shows that Miss Russell in October, 1887, entered into an engagement with Mr. Duff for the seasons of 1887-8 and 1888-9, at a salary of $300 per week. The opera to be given was "The Queen's Mate," in which Miss Russell was required to appear in tights. In her brief Miss Russell alleges that the wearing of tights was not objectionable to her during the Summer season, but while at Chicago she contracted a cold and refused to appear in tights for fear of further injury to her health. It was alleged that the real cause was that her growing adiposity made her appear less sylph like in tights than formerly, and that the knowledge of that fact caused her to issue her ultimatum: "I will never appear in tights again." A preliminary injunction was obtained, but the defendant, agreeing to pay $2,000 and costs in liquidated damages should the final decision be unfavorable to her, was permitted to join Rudolph Aronson's Co. and appear at the Casino. The case will doubtless be decided before the court finally adjourns.

— "Fontenelle, or the King's Messenger," by Minnie Maddern Fiske and H. G. Fiske, will be tried next season by James O'Neill.

— Harry B. Smith, author of "Jupiter" and other pieces, is in town. He likes New York so well that he has decided to make his permanent residence here. His trip to Europe was delayed through the presentation by his wife of a twelve pound son. The boy is still a resident of Chicago.

— Franz Vetta is at Riverside, Cal., for his health, accompanied by his wife (Lizzie Macnichol). He seeks complete rest, and denies himself to all visitors.

— Kuhne Beveridge has been engaged by Richard Mansfield for three years, beginning next season.

— Tony Farrell, who has of late been managed by C. E. Callahan, will conclude a very successful season in Jas. A. Herne's comedy, "My Colleen," at the Columbus Theatre, Harlem, next week. In July an elaborate production of "My Colleen" will be given at McVicker's Theatre, Chicago, with the author, Katherine Corcoran and Mr. Farrell in the cast.

— Ernest Charles Warde, the youngest son of Frederick Warde, will make his debut on the professional stage next season, in the Warde-James Co. He is said to be a very bright young man. Mr. Warde's only other son has been successful with him in a business capacity.

— Paul Gilmore has had a long and successful season. He closed May 13, and at once signed with Jacob Litt for the season of 1892-3. He joins Mr. Litt's Summer stock in Minneapolis and St. Paul, and then goes out in "The Ensign."

— Chas. Holton, for the past four seasons representing W. S. Cleveland, has signed with Gray and Stephens as business manager, for the seasons of 1892-3-4.

— Chas. R. Bugbee, formerly manager of W. S. Cleveland's Minstrels, has the past season been doing the general advertising for Rich & Harris' Philadelphia Theatres, the Walnut and the Park.

— The marriage in October last, at Chicago, of May Haines and James Moore (advance agent), was announced in this city last week. Miss Haines is the sister of Annie and Alice Haines, also well known actresses.

— That clever Irish comedian, John T. Kelly, is hard at work on the preliminaries for his tour next season, in "McFee of Dublin," his new play. Florrie West, Harry Kelly, Nellie Page, James Quinn, Flora Veldran and J. Bernard Dyllyn are already engaged.

— A change of management of the Columbia and Bowdoin Square Theatres, Boston, is announced. Charles F. Atkinson retires from the Columbia, and becomes sole manager of the Bowdoin Square. William Harris withdraws from the Bowdoin Square, and, with Isaac Rich and Charles Frohman, will conduct the Columbia Theatre, under the firm name of Rich, Harris & Charles Frohman.

— W. W. Johnson, late of Washburne's "Josh Spruceby" Co., joined the Dean & Ketchum Co. last week.

— Harry W. Tibbens, having closed his season as press agent of the Eleventh Avenue Opera House, Altoona, Pa., has accepted an engagement on The Altoona Tribune. He will go on the road next season, in advance, if negotiations, now pending, are satisfactorily concluded.

— Frank Carlos Griffith was last week engaged to manage the tour next season of Margaret Mather. He will have full direction of the popular actress' travels, and his friends are confident that, under his discreet and energetic pilotage, Miss Mather will enjoy a very profitable tour. Mr. Griffith was in town May 26 and 27, but returned 28 to Boston, Mass., where he will spend a portion of the Summer. Mr. Griffith's last star in this country was Mrs. Langtry.

— Lydia Yeamans is to go into comedy next season, forsaking the vaudevilles. She will be a member of John H. Russell's Co., playing the French comedy part in "The City Directory." She will also create the soubrette role in the new farce, "A Society Fad."

— Lucy Revere, soubrette of the "Joshua Simpkins" Co., will spend her vacation with friends at Brooklyn.

— Berlain's Chicago Comedy Co. will play through Wisconsin next season, under the management of True S. James.

— J. J. Owens has been engaged as stage manager, and to play leads and heavies with Josie Mills' Co. next season, opening at Goodrich, Can., Aug. 25. During the season the company will play two of Mr. Owen's dramas—"A Father's Curse" and "A Brother's Crime."

— "Blue Sulphur," a comedy of Kentucky life, on the order of "Alabama," by C. E. Callahan, will be produced this month at the Girard Avenue Theatre, Philadelphia.

— Frank Mordaunt, who is in ill health, has left Chas. Frohman's Stock Co., and has returned to this city. W. H. Crompton has taken his place in "The Lost Paradise." Walter Perkins has been transferred from Mr. Frohman's Boston company, to the Chicago organization.

— A. B. Anderson has taken the management of Long Beach, near Bridgeport, Ct., and will open its season June 13.

— Mercedes Malarini (Mrs. P. T. Turner) is engaged for A. Y. Pearson's production of "The White Squadron" at the Fourteenth Street Theatre, this city, in August.

— After a week's suspense and a couple of postponements on account of inclement weather, an outdoor reproduction of the military spectacle, "The Fall of Plevna," occurred at South Beach, Staten Island, on Wednesday night, May 25. A large amphitheatre had been built near the Staten Island Rapid Transit station at Arrochar, with ample stage accommodations. The performance was altogether pleasing. A small cavalcade of horses disported themselves in a variety of marches, dances, assaults and batteries, in which many finely costumed men and women also took part. The opening scene of "The Fall of Plevna" shows the Russian camp near Kischenieff. There is much marching and countermarching of Russian troops, dancing by a corps of vivandieres and a procession of Greek churchmen. An ample blonde beauty from the Sultan's harem appears with a plan of the fortress of Plevna, which she gives up to the Russian general, to spite her Turkish lord. In the second scene, which represents the Sultan's palace, there are Sultanas, Turkish zouaves and ballet dancers, together with some variety performers. In the third scene Plevna falls before a raking fire of Roman candles, and the exhibition ends with a most effective war tableau. First class specialties are introduced throughout the show at South Beach. Among those who contributed agreeable and diverting acts during the initial week were Fred Saona, Herbert Bros., Patterson Bros., Satsuma, Signor Soccia's ballet and others. The scenery was magnificent and thoroughly appropriate. The attendance is uniformly good, and the spectacle bids fair to be a very satisfactory Summer venture. A. L. Parkes, who is well known in the profession, is the manager.

— Harry Doel Parker, manager of Geo. C. Staley, is at Chicago, attending to business. Mr. Staley will play one week in September, at the Auditorium, Chicago, for the benefit of the Brotherhood of Railroad Employes' Home. It is a worthy object, and the benefit should prove a big success.

— Seavey, the scenic artist, is a believer in going direct to nature to obtain material such as rocks, trees and rivers for his stage pictures. He is cruising on the Deleware in his Indian canoe, the Hiawatha, in company with Wm. C. Fitler, the distinguished water color painter. They float down the river during the day, stopping at attractive points to pursue their art labors, and camping at night in some sequestered nook.

— Sam McCoy sends us three programmes dated 1869, '71 and '72. Among the names we notice La Petite Eugenie (Eugenie Blair, Mrs. R. L. Downing), Mrs. Dalton (mother of Percy Haswell) and many other well known people. Mr. McCoy was connected with the companies. He is now living at El Paso, Tex.

— "Babette," a new English opera, has been secured by John Stetson, of Boston, and Col. Henry Mapleson, who will produce it next season.

VARIETY & MINSTRELSY

MANAGER SAM T. JACK, surnamed the Invincible, has, it seems, forever shaken the dust of the road from his feet, and will be known no more at the front doors of the theatres of the land. For many years Mr. Jack has made the rounds, and the public from one end of the land to the other will see him now only at his mascot house, the Madison Street Opera House, Chicago, Ill., except semi occasionally, when he will visit his road companies. There is a reason for everything Mr. Jack does, and therefore one for his leaving the road. It is because he will henceforth dwell at Chicago, and there are several good and substantial reasons why he will dwell in the Windy City. The first is that his headquarters ought to be where his theatre and offices are. The second is that he has purchased a magnificent residence in a fashionable quarter of Chicago, fit unto the palace of a king, with everything the heart can wish and the eye be delighted with. The third is that he has made about as much money as any one man wants to make rolling around the country, and, as the world was his to visit while making it, and it is now about to visit Chicago, he is going to play host and receive everybody. Thus far his dining room has been a banquet hall, resounding with the laughter of his friends, and everything promises to keep it that way. If it is not "the house that Jack built," it is the one to which he extends a welcome to his friends. Then, again, his Madison Street house and other things in Chicago require his constant and personal attention, and from his desk there he directs not only the business of the house itself, but of his road companies also. His interests are constantly growing, and consequently his duties and labors grow with them. His Madison Street house requires considerable looking after, and he is there for that purpose. There he will henceforth organize his road shows, and from there direct their every movement. Emma Warde's Royal Burlesque Co. held the boards at the Madison Street house last week to large business, it being the occasion of the first presentation of a new burlesque by M. J. O'Neill, entitled "Christofo Columbo, or the Discovery of America," and an olio of special features. The burlesque is lively and spicy, and was well presented by the company with Miss Warde in the title role, and Gus Bruno as Gallagher the Boatswain. The olio included such people as Bunne, Sid Euson, Videlli and Dashaway, Lew Hawkins and Cyclops and Sandowe.

MILT. G. BARLOW has purchased the Widow Knapp place at Trumbull, Ct., and will, during the season, keep open house to the members of the profession.

JOHN J. AND FLORENCE MURRAY were compelled to cancel their engagement June 6 and 13 at Keith's Bijou, Boston and Philadelphia, on account of sickness.

IRVIN T. BUSH has been engaged by Harry Davis, manager of the Fifth Avenue Museum, Pittsburg, Pa., and will be connected with one of his many enterprises next season.

ALDRICH AND KINGSLEY closed a pleasant and prosperous season of sixteen weeks with the Nibbes' French Burlesque Co. May 24.

FRANK HAMLIN, of the Hamlins, with the Fay Foster Co., is dangerously ill. Last week John G. Marion successfully took his place in the knockabout act.

RAMZA AND ARNO'S new acrobatic act is catching on. The idea is novel and away from the ordinary. They made a hit at the London Theatre, this city, last week.

CHAS. & GYPSY LA GARDO'S NOVELTY CO. disbanded at Vila Rica, Ga. Joseph Frances joined the Nickel Plate Circus, Hickok and Barnes went to Atlanta, Ga., Chas. and Gypsy Gardo to Carrollton, Ga., the guests of Jas. P. Moore, manager of Moore's Opera House.

GEO. AND EDWARD DE LAM, last season with the Barnum & Bailey Show, have signed with Frohman's Old Time Minstrels for next season.

RICHMOND AND GLENROY sail for Europe Jan. 20. They open at the Alhambra and Trocadero Music Halls, London, Eng.

KISSELL closed May 28 a successful engagement of twelve weeks with Kennedy's King Laugh Makers, and opens 30 for the California tour of Haverly's Mastodon Minstrels.

THE NATIONAL TRIO will summer at Put in Bay, O.

GEO. A. JUNKER, the well known musical director, will not fill that position at Stratton & Henderson's Pavilion, Coney Island, this Summer, but will remain with Manager Pleus, of the Atlantic Garden, Hoboken, N. J., in the same position.

E. BARNELLO has joined hands with Maud Martell.

AD. STORK has been re-engaged with Lew Dockstader's Minstrels as musical director. His second season opens at Erie, Pa., July 21.

HARRY H. HILL, brother to Gus Hill, has been engaged by P. H. McGann for the Summer season as clerk and booking agent of the Sea Beach Palace Pavilion, Coney Island. The opening will occur June 18 in conjunction with Pains' fireworks.

WILL BENNETT, late of Devine and Bennett, and Billie Delmore, late of Stanley and Delmore, have joined hands, and will be known as Delmore and Bennett.

AT AUSTIN & STONE'S MUSEUM, Boston, May 18, Mrs. James Richmond (Letha Glenroy) and Mrs. Chas H. Dean (Flossie Harrison) were the recipients of many valuable gifts, it being their birthday, which they celebrated jointly. Among Mrs. Richmond's presents was a handsome watch and chain and diamond bracelet, Mrs. Dean receiving an elegant pair of diamond earrings and costly silverware.

C. F. DEVERDIE, the old time contortionist and gymnast, who has been on the sick list for some time, has had a painful operation performed, and is fast recovering. He is out on crutches. He is stopping at Clyde, N. Y.

LONE STAR HARRY AND MEXICAN MAY, rapid pistol handlers and fancy rifle shots, are playing a four weeks' engagement at the Nickel Museum, Boston. They go with Mustang Ned's Wild West Show July 1.

CHARLES HOEY, formerly of Hartman and Hoey, has joined hands with James J. Daly, formerly of Lloyd and Daly.

THESE people were at the Gold Belt Theatre, Ouray, Col., last week: Lillie Johnson, Daisy D'Avra, Ida Meredith, Lizzie Parker, the Darrows, Edward Moncrief, Frank Colton and Carrie Minchell, and the Lavelles.

LEONA FONTAINBLEAU JEROME, of the original Fontainebleaus, is in no way connected with the variety team now traveling under that name. Fountainbleau has been Mrs. Jerome's family trademark for twenty-five years, and she justly feels agrieved that it is now being used by others. Mrs. Fontainbleau has written a new song, entitled "Pretty Mary Jane," which is being published by T. B. Harms & Co. She sails for Europe June 8 with her husband, Billy Jerome.

MATTHEWS AND HARRIS have closed their second season with the Rentz-Santley Co., and are summering at their home, Ivy City, D. C.

C. H. UNTHAN, the armless wonder, who finds his pedal extremeties ample for all ordinary emergencies, sails from England for America Aug. 14, and remains eight months on tour with Jas. Hyde's Co.

KATE SANTLEY recently made her reappearance on the London music hall stage.

NELLIE BAKER, serio comic, and dancer, is engaged for the Summer season at Kornberg's Concert Garden, Evansville, Ind.

J. MELVILLE JANSON is spending part of his vacation with W. H. West, the minstrel manager, at Bensonhurst, L. I. Mr. Janson has been reengaged with Primrose & West, and next season will produce a new sketch, "The Bridegroom's Mistake."

THE WALLACE SISTERS, HATTIE AND GRACE, have closed an eleven weeks' engagement at Cincinnati.

THE MCCOY SISTERS (McCoy and McEvoy children) are enjoying a two weeks' rest with their grandparents at Philadelphia. They will play Atlantic City during the Summer.

PROF. EDMONDS and J. Carleton Green have opened their Summer season at Owen Sound, Can., with a new outfit of illusions and Prof. Edmond's new illusion of "Electra." They have also engaged Prof. Clarke.

HENRY J. STEELE has concluded an arrangement with Arthur Deming, the comedian with Vreeland's Minstrels, by which these gentlemen will be joint owners of a new minstrel company next season.

THE ST. CLAIRS, BILLIE AND LOUISE, are said to be making a hit with Eisenbarth's Floating Palace. They will again head a company of their own next season.

AMONG the clever performers who appeared at Johnnie Carroll's benefit at the Star Theatre, Brooklyn, last week, was Sadie Bernstein, humorist and recitationist. Miss Bernstein recited one of the most interesting poems on the late race between Judge Morrow and Longstreet, and received several encores. She was presented with a handsome floral offering.

WE are in receipt of a postal card dated Paris, Fr., May 15. It was written and posted from the top of the Eiffel Tower by Sherman and Morrisey.

THE following people are playing a four weeks' engagement at the People's Theatre, Colorado, Tex.: Vic. Burlew, Starin and Rickling, Arthur Gill, Lula Moncayo, F. S. Moncayo, Edith Reed, Lula Hunter, E. W. Brumage, Ella Campbell, Ethel Roland, Callie Parker, Bob Addington and Bertie and Horace Cone. A. B. Johnson is the proprietor, and Horace Cone, business and stage manager.

BARLOW BROS.' MINSTRELS will inaugurate their eighth annual tour late in July. Many novel features will be introduced, and active preparations are now under way. The ensemble will be new and of the highest class. Everything in the way of printing, costumes and scenery will be on the most elaborate scale. Barlow Bros. are determined that their troupe shall rank in the first class, and have already made a number of important engagements for next season, and will surround themselves with the strongest company they ever carried. The rights of many advertising novelties have been secured, and the company is booked in some of the best theatres in the United States and Canada.

HARRY L. MORRIS and his wife, Lillie Hampson, are resting at their home, Newark, N. J. They go out together next season, opening Sept. 15.

JAMES GAYLOR, of Gaylor and Graff, is confined to bed at his home, 146 West Twentieth Street, this city, suffering from an abscess cause by a strain received while working at the Lynn Musee week of May 16. Owing to this injury Gaylor and Graff were obliged to cancel Keith's Boston and Philadelphia houses, where they were to have appeared 23 and 30, and other engagements in June. The physician who is attending Mr. Gaylor reports that he will be unable to resume work for at least four weeks, when he hopes to be himself again.

A ROYAL FAREWELL.

Annie M. Clarke Takes Her Leave of the Boston Museum Stage.

Nay, all's not over. As we see you clad
In womanhood your great forerunner had
(Who, if her gracious portraits speak her true,
Looked, moved, indeed, dear Peg of ours, like you),
Oh, stay awhile! The bell that sounds tonight
Intones a little knell for old delight,
And from this painted heaven many a thing
Sweetly with you must vanish, wing to wing,
Too bright a spot it is to breathe "goodby,"
Where long beneath a patch of playhouse sky,
Our modern Boston (who'll believe it?) stood
All happy, all intelligent, all good;
Where amid welcomes, fellowship, applause
And mutual wit, and worth that wins her cause,
And kind, dead faces, tender memories,
Rang your own voice that passes not with these.
Honor is due you. How your orbit lay
In quiet paths of home and yesterday,
Bringing the dull uncivil time's extreme
The sly fine dames of our grandsires' dream;
How you lent truth to sorrow, fire to scorn,
To hatefulness a something nobly born;
How no least task to you could ever fall
But full perfection crowned it; how in all
Naught cheap or common touched you; and your part
Seemed often but to hide too high a heart
Let men hereafter tell. For what we owe,
Our thanks do hang the head. Where'er you go
The town shall follow, Peg, and since in truth
You gave us here your genius and your youth,
Take from this trysting place of thirty years
Health, luck, godspeed and love to proud for tears.

LOUISE IMOGENE GUINEY.

The Boston Museum on Thursday afternoon, May 26, was packed, jammed literally to overflowing with enthusiastic admirers of Annie Clarke, who then appeared for the last time on the stage on which she so long has shone the bright particular star in the histrionic firmament. Long before the curtain went up at one o'clock every seat in the house was taken, some of them at handsome premiums, and by an hour later the area devoted to standing room, and even the stairways were crowded with people. The boxes held a gay throng, and, with the proscenium, were bravely decked with festoons of greenery. It is many a day since the Museum entertained such a throng. It was a right royal tribute to the actress who is to leave the city and the theatre to whose dramatic history she has contributed so long and bright a chapter. Old friends smiled on her from boxes and stalls; old friends' hands beat such a welcome as the Museum has heard but few times in its fifty-one years of existence; old friends stood with her behind the footlights. Her appreciation of the effort to make the occasion fill to the full the measure of success speaks in the simple and gracious words incorporated in the programme:

As it is impossible for me to reply individually to each of the good friends who has sent me words of encouragement and affection, I take this way of saying to those across the footlights, who have made the day memorable to me, to those in the profession who would willingly have aided me, if I could have found room for them—"I thank you." Three simple words, but filled with my heartfelt gratitude.

There had been no lack of people anxious and willing to volunteer their talent to forward this, Miss Clarke's benefit and farewell performance. The only difficulty was which to choose out of many. First was presented the second act of "A Scrap of Paper," with the following people in the cast: Charles Barron, William Seymour, Harry Davenport, James Burrows, Edward Wade, Annie M. Clarke, Mary Shaw, Fannie Addison, Evelyn Campbell. Marion Manola, who sang a song, was unable to proceed for some time on account of the demonstration in her honor. But it was the appearance of Miss Clarke herself which let loose the pent up volume of sound. It seemed as if the audience would never tire, and that Miss Clarke would grow faint and weak with so much bowing and smiling. A dozen magnificent floral pieces were presented to her from behind the scenes. Then Marie Jansen and George Wilson aroused a laugh by their absurd skit, "Antony and Cleopatra." Another perfect hurricane of applause and hand clapping, to the accompaniment of the waving of countless handkerchiefs and fans, greeted the appearance of the old time Museum favorite, "Jack" Mason, who, with Miss Clarke and Grace Atwell, played "Sweethearts" in finished style. H. E. Dixey kept up the enthusiasm in a monologue, with some of his imitations. Alex. Salvini and his company were heartily welcomed in the fourth act of "Don Cæsar de Bazan." The ship scene and Columbus' vision from "1492" were received with unstinted plaudits. The whole concluded with the representation of the third and fourth acts of "Masks and Faces," with Miss Clarke as Peg Woffington. Just as Miss Clarke recited the final words of the epilogue, Mary Shaw stepped on the stage, and in her fine manner recited the poem printed above. Before the curtain was finally rung down Miss Clarke was once more given a touching reminder of the esteem and regard in which her associates hold her. James Burrows, in behalf of the Museum Co., presented her with a magnificent diamond locket, which flashed in genuine radiance in the eyes of the assembled thousands. Miss Clarke tried to reply. She could not say much. Emotion choked her utterance, and tears flowed from her eyes. She was deeply effected, but her closing words to the company and to the audience were those of Tiny Tim: "God bless us—every one." Miss Clarke was also presented with a very handsome testimonial, the subscribers to which were: H. S. Russell, F. L. Ames, B. F. Stevens, E. D. Jordan, Henry Lee, B. A. Atkinson, O. W. Holmes Jr., R. G. Shaw, A. Shuman, R. H. White, J. R. Kendrick, C. J. Rich, J. P. Spaulding and others. Almost every one prominent in theatrical matters was present, and all the leading people in the companies playing at the other Boston theatres, together with the managers of those houses, with their wives and friends. The club men and the first nighters, transformed for the nonce into the last afternooners, and, in addition to these, an unnumbered host of lovers of the drama, unknown to Miss Clarke, but who have, nevertheless, learned to know and to love her. Miss Clarke was born about 1845. At the age of seven she made her first appearance on the Museum stage, as the Duke of York in "Richard III." Thereafter she was constantly attached to the Museum, save for a season spent at two other Boston houses. She had been leading lady at the Museum ever since Kate Reignolds' retirement from the stock at that house.

HARRY CLAPHAN was in the city last week endeavoring to arrange with Blocksom and Burns to join Dockstader's Minstrels for next season.

MAUD RAYMOND, during the past season with Rice & Barton, has signed with Harry Williams' "Bill's Boot" Co.

JOSEPH NEWMAN, of the Central Theatre, Jersey City, N. J., has leased the Casino, South Beach, Staten Island, and opened May 29 with the following people: Billy Wilson, May Howard, Annie Sylvester, Lillie French and Jas. McCracken.

THE MESSENGER QUARTET have signed with Frohman's Old Time Minstrels for next season.

NEW YORK CITY.

Last Week's Doings.—On Saturday night, May 28, in presence of a brilliant throng, H. C. MINER'S NEW FIFTH AVENUE THEATRE was dedicated, and the ever increasing list of metropolitan playhouses thus received an addition in every way notable. Architecturally, the theatre is a delight and a model of skill; in its furnishings it is rich and in perfect taste, and in point of safety it more than complies with the rigid requirements of our new building laws. The town may well feel proud of this theatre. It is a credit to the Gilsey estate, which has erected it; to Manager H. C. Miner, who has decorated and outfitted it, and to Architect F. H. Kimball, whose plans are as near to absolute perfection as modern art and science could combine to achieve. Later on we shall present a more detailed description of the house. For the moment we must concern ourselves with the dedicatory performance, which was also the first on any stage of a two act romantic comic opera, "The Robber of the Rhine," the libretto by Maurice H. Barrymore and the music by Charles Puerner, the well known orchestra leader and composer of "The Pyramids." Mr. Barrymore wrote the book some years ago, intending to use it in conjunction with music by the late William Fullerton, but after the death of that promising young composer Mr. Barrymore sought a new collaborateur in Mr. Puerner. The result of their joint labors is not entirely satisfactory. Mr. Barrymore's share is by long adds the weaker portion of the work. His libretto is quite disappointing, lacking special originality and betraying little or no trace of the vast wit, the keen satire and airy humor which have hitherto been commonly attributed to Mr. Barrymore. With all the circumstances extraordinarily favorable—a crowded and friendly house, a beautiful scenic production, an expensive cast and plenty of time for rehearsal—the opera still proved a rather dull entertainment. The dialogues are tiresomely dull, the characterizations are not clever, and there is a lack of force in the climaxes. The theme is the very old one of a brigand's capture of a rich nobleman, and the robber's exchange of identity with the captive, involving an amatory complication and the usual clearing up of the intrigue. The music is not in Mr. Puerner's best vein, but it is nevertheless creditable to its composer, being at most moments graceful, sympathetic and careful. Several of the solos were repeatedly encored, and a sextet and brigand's chorus will likely have wide vogue. The orchestration was generally good, though not always sufficiently elaborate. Whatsoever degree of favor was gained by the opera was awarded solely to the music. The libretto will have to be radically revised if a long run is to be secured. The company was organized by, and is under the control of, Thomas H. Pratt, a young novice who is rich, presumably, for his engagements and the scenic outfit clearly indicate a plethoric and perhaps extravagant purse. Young Mr. Pratt, we believe, has had a prior experience as a comic opera impresario, which was more costly than agreeable; but this time he seems headed in the right direction, though he is not in the least likely to make money on his present venture. With C. Hayden Coffin, J. H. Ryley, Marion Manola, W. F. Owen, John E. Ince and E. P. Temple as his chief people, his salary roll is considerably above the average in Summer opera; and it is to be regretted that Mr. Barrymore's libretto, in its present form, handicaps these players. Mr. Coffin, who on this occasion made his American debut, is the high baritone of whom our English cousins have grown very fond these last six or seven years. An American by birth, he is essentially a growth of the London stage. His voice is admirable in its quality, and has been wisely cultivated. All his solos were redemanded, and there was not the slightest room to doubt that he will at once become a favorite with our audiences. He is not a finished or spirited actor, however, lacking repose and ease. Mr. Ryley was as droll as his text permitted, and Miss Manola sang charmingly, as she always does. Edith Kenward tried hard to entice fun out of a very funereal role, but she failed, and everybody was sorry for her. The chorus was large and composed of good voices. Murry Woods stage managed the production quite effectively. The scenery, by Hughson Hawley and William Schaeffer, was excellent, and the costumes were surprisingly numerous, rich and varied; indeed, there has been no better mounted opera in town in many a season. On the opening night Mr. Puerner, who led the orchestra, and Mr. Barrymore, were called before the curtain, and there was the usual profusion of costly floral tributes. The full cast is given, for the sake of the record:

Waldemar	C. Hayden Coffin	Schpoot	Wilder Pease
Cunigonde	Marie Dressler	Schweip	Glyn Bigge
Flip	Edith Kenward	Schplitz	J. A. Day
Klootz	H. C. Peakes	Oscar	John E. Ince
Kaspar	Ross David	Frommesel	Sydney Price
Baron Otto Von Piffleseltzer	J. H. Ryley
Comtesse Terrine De Foie Gras	Cecilia Pollock
Abbe Seraphin	Edward Temple
Dr. Hyacinth	Geo. M. Herbert
Rhinegrave Von Bumsterhausen	W. F. Owen
Dr. Pulver Von Seidlitz	H. J. Bagge
The Grafin Hildegarde	Marion Manola

Mr. Pratt's venture is under the direct management of Herbert J. Mathews, with Alfred Bradley as business manager, Francis R. King-Hall as press agent, L. F. Gottschalk as chorus master, C. A. Studwell as assistant stage manager, W. H. Darling in charge of the properties, and Ella Wright as wardrobe mistress. An all Summer run at the Fifth Avenue has been planned for, we believe. Manager H. C. Miner's staff for his new house is headed by John W. Hamilton, business manager; E. D. Miner, assistant business manager; Maurice Samuelson, treasurer; Thos. Hindley, orchestra leader; T. J. McDonald, master machinist; G. Muller, advertising agent; E. D. Bume, electrician, and Chas. Norman, property master.......At the ACADEMY OF MUSIC on Saturday night, 28, the Princess Dolgorouky, a violinist of European note, made her American debut, under the management of Edmund Gerson. The audience was small, but it gave the newcomer an encouraging welcome. She is an attractive woman, but a player of only fair ability. Aurelia Cerueios, the pianist, and others assisted. ......"A Trip to Chinatown" at HOYT'S MADISON SQUARE, Bobby Gaylor in "Sport McAllister" at the BIJOU, De Wolf Hopper's "Wang" Co. at the BROADWAY, Digby Bell's "Jupiter" Co. at PALMER'S, "The Grey Mare" and "The Organist" at the LYCEUM, Hebrew dramas at the EIGHTH STREET and ROUMANIA, "Elysium" at HERRMANN'S, "Friends" at the STANDARD, the Bostonians in "Robin Hood" at the GARDEN and "Child of Fortune" at the CASINO were the unchanged bills. Camille D'Arville was absent from the cast of "Robin Hood" at the Garden night of 22, on account of illness. She appeared 23 and for the balance of the week, with the exception of Friday night and at the matinee on Saturday, when her place was taken by the second soprono, Caroline Hamilton. ......The NEW PARK, HARRIGAN'S, the STAR, THALIA, NIBLO'S GARDEN, the UNION SQUARE, the ACADEMY (save on Saturday night, 28), the HARLEM OPERA HOUSE, HARLEM THEATRE, DALY'S and the METROPOLITAN were dark. .... Andrea Anton, a Spanish tenor, made his American reappearance at CHICKERING HALL night of 24, under the management of Sig. De Vivo.......Alberta Gallatin appeared as Rosalind in "As You Like It," at a special matinee at Hoyt's Madison Square 26. This was the cast: Orlando, Otis Skinner; Jaques, Charles B. Hanford; Oliver, F. L. Sylvester; Duke Frederick, Wadsworth Harris; Banished Duke, Robert Benedict; Adam, Howard Kyle; Touchstone, Tom E. Webber; Le Beau, James Fiske; Corin, William Evans; Sylvius, Tully Marshall; William, Edward Mackay; Amiens, John Savage; The Wrestler, Frank Andrews; Jacques De Bois, Harold; Celia, Annie Lockhart; Audrey, Eleanor Merron; Phœbe, Lulu Carpenter; Rosalind, Alberta Gallatin. Miss Gallatin was warmly encouraged by a good sized house. The support was unexpectedly good...... These were the week stands finished 28: "One of the Bravest" at H. R. JACOBS', "Ten Nights in a Barroom" at the WINDSOR, "Irish Inspiration" at the PEOPLE'S, "The Midnight Alarm" at the GRAND OPERA HOUSE and "The Struggle of Life" at the COLUMBUS. The season at the Windsor closed 28...... Variety continued in profitable force at TONY PASTOR'S, the LONDON, MINER'S EIGHTH AVENUE and BOWERY THEATRES, and the HARLEM OLYMPIC. At the last named theatre the regular season ended 28. ......At the AMBERG, "Der Minstrel" was sung 23, 24 and 25. On 26 "Der Rattenfaenger von Hamelin" was revived. On 27 Paula Loewe made her reappearance, in "Nanon," when, also, Loie Fuller did her serpentine dance......The first week of "Imagination," at the FOURTEENTH STREET, was one of undoubted success. The engagement has been extended indefinitely. Lindsay Hurst, who appeared as Rev. Calvin Gilder in "Imagination," Monday night, was taken down with typhoid fever Tuesday. G. Howard Coveney received the part at 7.30 o'clock Tuesday night, and with this brief preparation, went on and successfully played the part. Mr. Hurst is quite ill ......"Old Jed Prouty" fared quite well during the first week of its revival at PROCTOR'S TWENTY-THIRD STREET.

MANAGER J. M. HILL, of the Standard Theatre, is being examined in supplementary proceedings on two judgments taken against him for the aggregate sum of $4,100. Lorenz Zeller is acting as referee. John G. Weaver Jr. and Frank Coleman, proprietors of the Everett House, obtained judgment against Mr. Hill on a promissory note for $1,100, given for board. Judge McCarthy, of the City Court, issued the order in supplementary proceedings on this judgment. The cashier of the Union Square Bank, Adam Fohs, holds another judgment against Mr. Hill for $3,000 for money advanced, and he has brought supplementary proceedings in the Supreme Court. The evidence taken in the examination on the first judgment will be used in the proceedings on the second. Mr. Hill has already testified that his interest in the Standard and Union Square Theatres was transferred some time ago to his brother, David K. Hill, of Chicago, to secure the latter's claim against him for $29,000 for money advanced. He is now doing business as manager for his brother. At the next hearing before the referee Mr. Hill will give a list of his creditors, with the amounts due them, and must submit his accounts in evidence.

SUNDAY NIGHT BENEFITS.—There were four well attended benefits on Sunday night, May 29. At the Union Square, Robert Duncan, one of the prominent and popular attaches, fared handsomely. The house was large. Gus Phillips, May Wentworth, A. R. Bartman, Kate Mulholland, John E. Ince, Little Johnnie McKever, Maude Beverly, Billy Carter, Florence Evans, Randolph Murray, Jessie Giles, Mark Price, Adela Sawyer and other volunteers were on hand. Little Roberta Duncan, four years old, a daughter of the beneficiary, sang several dainty songs with much cleverness. She received and responded to encores like an old timer......J. B. Radcliffe, of Edward Harrigan's forces, who has appeared at many of the recent benefits to his brother professionals, made his own appeal at the Standard, and it was responded to in a hearty manner. Among those who volunteered were Ed. H. Banker, the Clipper Quartet, Victor Huzdo, J. E. Kellerd, Loie Fuller, Anna Boyd, Jennie Joyce, Wallie Eddinger, Ada Lewis, Sam Reed, Carlos a de Serrano, De Witt Sisters, Emma Pollock, Dick Gorman, Frank Lawton and John M. Turner......A benefit to Jennie O'Neill Potter took place at the Broadway. The Broadway orchestra, under Ernest Neyer, played, Mrs. Frank A. Gale recited, as did W. B. Dansworth, and little Eva Mudge sang character and descriptive songs. John A. Hogan yodled, and Maud and Hilda Hollins sweetly sang. Rudolph De Cordova gave a monologue, and among the other entertainers were A. R. Bartman, Dora Wiley, Wm. Beach, Laura Joyce Bell, H. M. Ravenscroft, Julian Edwards, the Columbia Students' Mandolin and Guitar Club, Master Walter Leon, Josephine Knapp, Harry Pepper, Ross and Fenton, Prof. Imro Fox, William Jerome, J. J. K. Hackett and Miss Potter herself......At the London, Viola Clifton was tendered a testimonial, which drew a large audience. The volunteers were numerous. A good sum of money was realized.

KOSTER & BIAL'S.—Harry Le Clair's version of the burlesque, "Pocahontas," which had been in rehearsal for a month or so, had its first hearing on Monday night, May 30. The production is one of the most ambitious that the management have attempted for years. The costumes were very striking and handsome, the fun flippant and fresh, and the music, mostly new, was catchy and bright. "Pocahontas" is a fine Spring offering, everything considered. The cast: Captain John Smith, Jennie Joyce; Pocahontas, Madge Lessing; King Powahatan, Agnes Evans; William, Dorothy Denning; John, Bessie Varse; Great Chief, Allie Vivian; White Cloud, Allie Gilbert; Captain Jack, Maud Harvey; Manitoba John, Christine Blessing; Sergeant at Arms, Gertie Sharpley; Laughing Water, Ray Vernon; White Wing, Irene Rice; Gowanga, Dolly Clark; Asaleta, Marie Carr; Dr. O'Callahan, James T. Kelly; Lula Backnumber, Harry Le Clair. The French duettists, Dufour and Hartley, have created quite a furor. The sensational feature of their specialty is what is styled "The Paris Folly Dance." The Brothers Borani are attracting considerable attention in their act, entitled "The Disappearing Demons." They are retained indefinitely. Other features on the programme include Carmencita in new dances, the Spanish Students, Joseph Natus and Samuel Dearing. Marie Lloyd, now at the Alhambra, London, will make her reappearance here in a few weeks.

"KING KALIKO," the work of Frank Dupree and Fred. Solomon, is described as an innovation in comic opera, and those familiar with its composition are already singing its praises. It deals with a theme and a land hitherto untouched by lyric writers—the Sandwich Islands. The material used possesses the merit of freshness and originality. The authors depend on a cleverly constructed, witty and sparkling story, tuneful melodies, fascinating, novel dances, gorgeous and unique settings and picturesque Hawaiian costumes for success. The narrative upon which the lyrics are founded is described as dramatic. It also possesses a satirical vein that caricatures some prevailing phases of life among politicians. Particular attention has been given to the scenic dressing and costuming. The sets were made from original and unique designs sketched in Honolulu. One of them is composed entirely of wire and glass. This is the throne scene. Several thousand glass prisms have been used in this set. The costumes are exact reproductions of the picturesque native Hawaiian dress. Mr. Dupree lived in Honolulu two years, and while there became familiar with the various phases of life of the dusky Sandwich Islanders, and many of the characters in the opera are lifelike. "King Kaliko" has been undergoing thorough preparation, and will be in good shape for production at the Broadway Theatres June 6.

DORIS' MUSEUM.—Manager John B. Doris will find it difficult to accomplish the contemplated short Summer closing if the present large business continues. This week's transient attractions are: Leonine, lion faced lady; Cordiana, one man band; Etta Lake, elastic skin lady; Rosslyn, magican; Major Atom, and Toingarail Yah, a gypsy chalk expert. In theatres Nos. 1 and 2 capable organizations of selected vaudeville talent are playing to crowded audiences at hourly intervals.

W. A. MESTAYER will have a benefit at Palmer's Theatre afternoon of June 2. The attractions will include the Digby Bell Opera Co. in selections from "Jupiter," Joseph Frankau, Seymour Hess, Charles Jerome and Julia Mackay, the Newell Brothers in one act of "The Operator;" David Warfield, Teresa Vaughn, Master Leon, George F. Marion, Robert Hilliard, Frank Carlyle and others.

"OLD JED PROUTY" started on its last week at Proctor's May 30. The merry piece is excellently acted by Richard Golden and his capable company.

THE BOSTONIANS will not close their engagement in "Robin Hood" at the Garden Theatre until June 18. On 20, Henderson's "Sinbad" Co. open for the Summer season.

DARK.—Harrigan's, the New Park, Star, Academy, Metropolitan, Harlem Opera House, Olympic, Harlem Theatre, Niblo's Garden, Union Square, Daly's and the Windsor are dark this week.

EXTRA MATINEES were given at most of the theatres on Monday, May 30—Decoration Day.

THIS is the fourth and last week of De Wolf Hopper's engagement in "Wang" at the Broadway.

THE stock season at the Lyceum will close this week, with the final performance of "The Grey Mare" and "The Organist." The house will then be dark until August.

THE Actors' Order of Friendship held its annual election of officers May 15. It resulted in the choice of Edwin F. Knowles, president; Joseph A. Wilkes, vice president; Frank W. Sanger, treasurer, and Lester S. Gurney, secretary.

JUDGE MCADAM, of the Superior Court, has granted an order setting aside an order formerly granted for the examination of Louis Aldrich before trial in a suit to compel an accounting, brought against him by Charles T. Parsloe, his former partner in the play, "My Partner."

AN IMPORTANT MEETING of the Executive Committee of the Actors' Fund Fair was held at the office of A. M. Palmer May 26. The members present, besides Mr. Palmer, were Frank W. Sanger, Charles W. Thomas, Louis Aldrich and E. F. Knowles. The financial result of the recent fair was found to be so far assured that a resolution was passed instructing the treasurer of the Fair Committee to turn over to the treasurer of the Fund the sum of $175,000. Several of the committee's accounts are still open, and will necessarily remain so for some time, and a few small sums will finally be added to that amount. In regard to the services performed for the fair by A. B. De Freece, the following resolutions were adopted: "Resolved, that the Fair Fund Committee thanks A. B. De Freece for the valuable aid it has received from him in carrying out its work. Refusing all compensation, other than that which comes to all who do good deeds, Mr. De Freece, although not a member of the dramatic guild, has labored steadily and loyally in our work, as one of the committee, and we desire to place upon record not only our appreciation of his good work in our behalf, but also our entire confidence in his integrity and in his high character. We sincerely wish for him, in whatever enterprise he may in the future engage, great success. Resolved, that we cordially recommend to the Board of Trustees the election of A. B. De Freece an honorary member of the fund." A committee consisting of Messrs. Sanger, Aldrich and Knowles was appointed to dispose of the goods left unsold from the fair, of which there is a considerable quantity, including the Cleveland diamond. There has been some dissatisfaction since it became known that this diamond was to remain the property of the Fund, as to the methods of its award, and it has been charged that the gem was never the property of the fair at all. A member of the committee gave a sketch of the history of the diamond as far as it has anything to do with the Actors' Fund, substantially as follows: A share in the ownership of the diamond was at first given to the fair by the jewelers, who retained another share in it. It was then intended to sell twenty thousand chances in the diamond at $1 each. When the fair ended somewhat over six thousand chances had been sold. The managers of the fair did not wish to put fourteen thousand unsold tickets into the contest, and they asked the jewelers to allow them to reduce the whole number to ten thousand. The jewelers objected to this, and the managers accordingly bought their interest in the diamond, with the condition that Seale & Co. should retain a small percentage of interest in any of the tickets that should remain unsold in the end. The number finally sold was something over seven thousand, and the rest were sealed up and given to A. M. Palmer, who still has them unopened. The award was made by Adolph L. Sanger, Col. F. K. Hain and Robert L. Cutting. The diamond was awarded by them to a number supposed to be that of one of the unsold tickets. Mr. Palmer will not open his tickets till he receives official notice of the result of the award. The managers of the fair believe that so far from being guilty of any unfairness of method, they would have been justified in making the award on the basis of the whole twenty thousand tickets.

THE furnishings and household effects in N. C. Goodwin Jr.'s brownstone residence, 226 West End Avenue, were sold at public auction, according to a decree of the Court, May 27. The proceeds of the sale are to be divided equally between the comedian and his wife, who recently got a judicial separation from her husband. The residence, which cost $33,000, and which was also ordered to be sold, is still the property of Mr. Goodwin. He and his wife agreed upon a valuation of the property, and she relinquished all claims to it upon the payment to her of one half its value. In the crowd which attended the sale there were very few actors and no prominent ones. Mrs. Goodwin drove up from the San Remo, where she is temporarily stopping. She was met by her sister, Clara Baker and her brother, Charles H. Baker, and entered the house with them. She passed her husband and father in law in the hall, but neither deigned to notice the other. The sale began with the cheaper furnishing on the top floor. Then came the paintings, bric-a-brac and parlor furnishings. Fair auction prices were realized. Mr. Goodwin, through his agent, bid in several keepsakes. Mrs. Goodwin made no purchases, and left the house before the sale began.

WORTH'S MUSEUM.—Everything is being done here to warrant keeping the house open during the heated term. A system of electric fans is being applied in all the departments, and, as the house has excellent ventilating facilities, the comfort of its patrons is in this respect assured. In the museum this week are: The Wild Rose of Yucatan, Senoj, nondescript; Prof. Smith and trained goat, Nayo, Guatamalian dwarf; Ghullem Houssin, Persian wizard; Alice Raymond, balladist; Yetsuma, Japanese fruit maker; Prof. Wallace, silk king, and Stephen Stephens, Punch and Judy. Prof. Worth continues to entertain his audiences with his special cases of curios. The stage people are: Burns and Brush, W. L. Marsh, Kenny and Grant, and Lena De Laigle. Good business rules.

MAUDE DAVIS sings at the Waverley Concert Garden in Eighth Avenue. She is known in private life as Minnie Gorman. Miss Davis was complainant at the Jefferson Market Police Court May 24, against Thomas Giatassi, of No. 856 Eighth Avenue, and James Giandelli, of No. 143 West Nineteenth Street. They had persistently followed her until she was compelled to ask two of her husband's friends to escort her home from the concert hall on Monday night. Giatassi and Giandelli followed them. Mrs. Gorman's escorts turned on her too demonstrative admirers. There was a fight, and all were arrested. At court the Justice told Giatassi he would have to give $400 bail not to follow Mrs. Gorman for a month, or go to Blackwell's Island for a year. Giandelli was held in $100 for carrying a pistol. Mrs. Gorman and her friends were set free.

A YOUNG RUSSIAN named Charles Warself was brought before Justice Grady at the Jefferson Market Police Court, May 26, charged with passing forged checks. Alexander Ginsberg, a drug clerk at No. 207 Division Street, was the complainant. He said that on May 17 the prisoner, who had been a sleight of hand man at Huber's Museum, passed forged checks for $20 upon him in payment for medicines. The checks, which were on the East River National Bank, were made to the order of Charles Watson, and bore the forged indorsement of George H. Huber. Mr. Warself was held in $1,000 bail for trial.

MARCUS J. JACOBS AND W. A. EDWARDS, of H. R. Jacobs' executive forces, announce a testimonial concert for Sunday night, June 5, at H. R. Jacobs' Theatre. Two score of volunteers, and all of them clever, are to appear. Among others billed are Chas. T. Ellis, Edwin Arden, M. J. Gallagher, Lizzie Derious Daly, Tim J. Cronin, Thos. E. Murray, Charles Jerome, Wood and Sheppard, J. W. Ransome, the Clipper Quartet, Polly Holmes, Fitz and Webster, Gertrude Fort, Katie Rooney, Lillian Granger, Julia Mackey, etc.

LOIE FULLER has brought suit in the United States Circuit Court for an injunction to restrain Minnie Renwood Bemis from producing her "serpentine dance" at Madison Square Garden May 31. Miss Fuller in her complaint alleges that she is the author, inventor, designer and owner of the dance, and had it duly copyrighted.

ALL THE ARTICLES left over from the Actors' Fund Fair have not yet been sold. There still remain the miniature village and scenery, which attracted so much attention, and many other interesting objects. Mrs. E. L. Fernandez, of No. 35 West Thirtieth Street, holds for sale the Jefferson bas relief, a sealskin coat and a handsome dress.

MINER'S EIGHTH AVENUE THEATRE.—The French Folly Co., genial Bob Manchester's strong organization of vaudeville and burlesque talent, opened their third engagement this season at this house May 30. A crowded audience gave a cordial reception to each of the principal performers. The City Sports' Co. follow June 6-11.

AT THE BIJOU, the third week of Bobby Gaylor's successful engagement in "Sport McAllister" opened very auspiciously May 30.

"A TRIP TO CHINATOWN" received its 210th consecutive performance at Hoyt's Madison Square May 30. It will score an even three hundred before its magnetism departs.

"FRIENDS" is in its fourth week at the Standard, where it seems to be doing fairly well.

ON MAY 26 the marriage was celebrated of Natalie Lambert to Arthur Hornblow, at the home of the bride's parents. Judge Ehrlich, of the Supreme Court, officiated at the ceremony.

MR. AND MRS. OLIVER W. WREN, assisted by Prof. Hendrickson, the Gramercy Quartet—Harry F. Henry, C. E. Coryell, Geo. W. Thomas and Walter Snow—Carabee Van Skelline, Eva Mudge, Rosani, C. Edwin Brook and Frank Paul, will give an entertainment at the Home of the Incurables, at Fordham, May 30.

A CITY COURT JUDGMENT for $100 was entered against Denman Thompson and George W. Ryer May 26, in favor of Annie Haines.

THE THALIA THEATRE opened May 30, under its new management, and henceforth will be devoted to Hebrew performances.

A. A. MACDONALD, who has been ahead of Dockstader's Minstrels, has been engaged as advertising agent for "The Fall of Plevna," at South Beach, S. I.

AT THE FOURTEENTH STREET THEATRE, "Imagination" entered its second week to a good sized house May 30.

An attachment has been granted against Hortense Rhea for $3,950, in favor of William Harris, for alleged breach of contract on an engagement for the season of 1891-2.

HENRY MARTIN AND THOMAS PEARSALL annoyed the freaks and interrupted the lecturer at Worth's Museum May 25, and were fined $5 each by Justice Grady at Jefferson Market Court 26.

THE UNION SQUARE will open for the first time under its new managers, Pearson & Greenwall, on June 6, when Robert C. Hilliard will make his debut as a star. He will appear in "Adrift," a curtain raiser from his own pen, and in "The Fabricator," a new English comedy by Walter Stokes Craven. Augustus Cook, Charles L. Harris, Geo. Leslie, Nellie Yale Nelson, May Gallagher and others are engaged for the support. Jas. E. Moore, one of Frank W. Sanger's lieutenants, will direct the enterprise.

PEOPLE'S THEATRE.—"The House on the Marsh," Mervyn Dallas' dramatization of Florence Warden's powerful story, which had a fair measure of success in England, is the attraction here for this, the closing week of the People's season. May 30 saw the first city presentation of the drama, which was originally produced in America at Boston, May 16. Many changes of its present form are needed, and will, no doubt, be made preparatory to its future presentations. Verbosity is now the chief fault, together with a highly improbable chain of scenes and incidents. The material, however, gives promise of a successful future for the piece, providing many of the glaring inconsistencies are eliminated. Mervyn Dallas, as Gervas Rayner, alias Jim Woodfall, barring an inclination to speak his lines in too low a tone, was fairly good in the role. In Olive L. Oliver, who was cast as Sarah Gooch, the patrons of this theatre had the pleasure of witnessing the best work done by a leading lady at an East Side theatre in many seasons. The balance of the cast was fair. The house was large. The full cast: Sir Jonas Mashem, Harry St. Maur; Hon. Aces Poker, Tyrone Power; Lawrence Reade, Walter Brooks; Samuel Bolter, F. Opperman; Reginald Carew, Littledale Power; Hal Dexter, Irving Williams; Tom Packer, W. T. Gerome; John Wright, J. Holden; Gervas Rayner, Mervyn Dallas; Sarah Gooch, Olive L. Oliver; Mrs. Rayner, Ida Solee; Violet Christie, Kate Vandenhoff; Lady Mashem, Marie Stuart; Jane Pink, Emma Walker; Mrs. Carleton, Barbara Steinholt.

H. R. JACOBS' THEATRE.—"Uncle Tom's Cabin" holds the boards this week. J. U. Randall gave an excellent interpretation of Uncle Tom. Jennie Kay, as Topsy, was quite enjoyable. The rest of the cast was as follows: Ada V. Gilbert, Kate Meddinger, Eleanor Morris, Argyle Gilbert, Annie Asbury, Sarah Anderson, Ed. Chapman, W. A. Lovelle, Thos. Winston, Harry Armstrong, T. W. Williams, T. R. Montgomery, J. W. Wilson, Vincent Thomas, B. R. Anson, Master Lovelle, J. Kelly, S. R. Green and John P. Smith. Announcement is made of a benefit to be tendered to M. J. Jacobs and W. A. Edwards at this house on June 5.

MINER'S BOWERY THEATRE.—The City Sports Burlesque and Specialty Co. opened Monday, May 30, to two first class houses. The opening melange of music and fun, entitled "The Workingman's Jubilee," introduced the entire company. Belzac, Phil and Chrissie Sheridan in negro song and dance, the Le Ardo Sisters in dances and statuary act, Millie Zittella and Matt Flynn in their sketch, Marlow and Plunkett in duets and Mlle. Beatrice, the contortionist, made up the olio. The performance was brought to a close with "Knee Row, or the Destruction of a Home," a funny burlesque in three scenes, which caused much mirth. Next week, the French Folly Co.

HUBER'S PALACE MUSEUM.—The pot of business is bubbling over at this model dime resort. The attractions are kept up to the high water mark with a result in the way of patronage that makes Manager Huber's face crack with ecstacy. The woman with the lion features proved a flourishing card, and has been retained. There is the usual array of interesting freaks and curious things, animate and inanimate, in the exhibition rooms, and the stage company is a hummer. Arrangements are in progress for the annual benefit to the employes, which will occur late this month.

TONY PASTOR'S THEATRE.—There is no need of a tooting of trumpets for the business of the bill at this popular vaudeville house. Everything is kept fully up to the mark by Business Manager H. S. Sanderson, whose judgment is as keen as a newly honed razor. The people booked for week of May 30 include James F. Hoey, the unctious and much liked jester; Adams, Casey and Howard, Billy Carter, Petrie and Elise, Will H. Fox, Clayton and Jenkins, Bonnie Thornton, Marion and Belle, Morris Cronin, Emma Bell and the Nelson Sisters.

LONDON THEATRE.—Large holiday audiences greeted the opening of Billy Lester's Show, Monday afternoon and evening, May 30, and thoroughly enjoyed the good bill presented. Dolan and Lenharr, Reto, Lester and Quinlan, Swift and Chase, Annie Hart, the Horseshoe Four, Bryant and Richmond, Bellac and Aouda, and Frank H. White in the afterpiece, "A Big Mistake," made up the programme. Next week, a house company.

Harlem.—The Columbus Theatre is the only regular house opened now. "O'Dowd's Neighbors" opened to a good house May 30. Tony Farrell next week This house will close the last week in June.

THE OPERA HOUSE, Harlem Theatre, Harlem Museum and the Olympic Theatre are now closed for the Summer.

OLYMPIC THEATRE.—The closing bill of the season at this house May 30 was the benefit to Manager James H. Curtin. The house was crowded, and Mr. Curtin is some richer as a result. His benefit netted him sufficient to allow him to enjoy himself in the country this Summer. A splendid bill was presented, among the people being: Barron and Melish, Frank McNish, Billy Carter, May T. Lawrence, Daly and Devere, Harrie Pierce, Maude Raymond, Bison City Quartet, Berm Brothers, Lachie Bernstein, Thos. Kelly, Billy Graham, Billy Welden and Tiddlewinks. Ike Rose was master of ceremonies. Gus Hill's World of Novelties closed their season here 28 to good business.

NEW YORK STATE.

Brooklyn.—A holiday and agreeable weather form a combination generally favorable to theatricals, and earlier in the season would have resulted in a larger general attendance than was seen May 30 at our theatres The dark list has had added to it the Star and Hyde & Behman's Theatre, the former being open 30 for holiday business, and the latter for benefit performances. The prominent event of the opening date was the first launching of a new Irish drama from the pen of Edmund E. Price.

PARK THEATRE.—An audience fair in size, but making up in enthusiasm what it lacked in quantity, gave welcome to "Little Tippett" 30. The play was well presented, and its humorous scenes, which seem to crowd each other in every act, met their just reward of laughter and applause. Charles Coote was more than acceptable in the leading comedy part. Lillian Russell finished a week of packed houses 28. Next week, Edward Harrigan.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.—"The Burglar," in which Helen Ottolengui, a popular Brooklyn actress, is seen, opened 30, and will close the season for the house June 4. The play was most cordially received by a large audience "The Two Orphans" did a fair business last week.

STAR THEATRE.—The season would have ended at this house May 28, but Manager Holmes was, probably, willing to bank a share of the money likely to be spent for amusement 30, and announced an extra performance of last week's bill, "The Golden Giant," in which Wright Huntington has been seen to advantage with the support of a more than ordinary good company. The performance drew fair patronage, and the play, showing the improvement of a week's presentation, was received with every mark of approval.

HYDE & BEHMAN'S THEATRE.—If the popularity of a man may be measured by the attendance at his benefit, Treasurer Henry W. Behman may flatter himself; for his benefit, which covered the extra matinee and evening performances 30, was the occasion of one large and one packed house. The popularity of the beneficiary was further attested by the number of his professional friends volunteering their services.

HUBER & GEBHART'S CASINO.—Juleene's electric organ having proved a good card, its stay has been prolonged over the current week. The balance of the good bill, 30, introduced Collins Bros., Larry Tooley, J. M. Woods, Harry McBride and Mamie Goodrich, Ella Rostock and Minnie Schult.

AMPHION.—Edward Harrigan began a week's engagement in "Reilly and the 400." The star, Johnnie Wild, Annie Yeamans and most of the other members of the company are well and favorably known in this part of town. The play was witnessed by a large audience. Last week's business was good. The house will close for the season with this engagement.

LYCEUM THEATRE.—A good sized house attended the opening performance of "A Gay Deception" 30. Business last week was good. Mack & Risdale's Co. will close the house week ending June 12.

LEE AVENUE ACADEMY.—"Wicklow," a new Irish drama in four acts, from the pen of E. E. Price, one of the proprietors of the house, received its initial production May 30. Both author and players were generously applauded by a large and critical audience. The performance was notable for its smoothness and total absence of the long waits between the acts customary at first night performances. In "Wicklow" the author has not departed much from the lines laid down in the majority of plays dealing with Ireland and the Irish people. The dialogue is bright and oftentimes witty. Though the play deals with the usual much despised Irish landlord, the snake in the grass to do his bidding, the number of the English constables, and the light hearted young Irish lad who is always putting himself out to do a friend a good turn, it will without doubt be favorably received by the larger class of theatre goers. The construction of the play shows evidence of much care and study. In his characters Mr. Price portrays the Irish people just as he finds them. With two exceptions the players had their lines well in hand, and this relieved the performance of the awkwardness of a first night's production. The scenery for the four acts is all new, and was painted by Huster. The honors of the evening were carried off by Andrew Mack, who portrayed the character of Lang McGuire with much cleverness. His songs and dances were well received. At the close of the second act he was presented with a handsome floral harp.

TEUTONIA CASINO.—Week of May 30: Lillie Western, George and Minnie Kaine, Prof. Arden, Raceland and Morton, Wm. McMahon and Phil J. Mathews.

NOTES.—George H. Fitchett, Hyde & Behman's manager, is busy preparing for the benefit to Conroy and Fox, which is to take place under his direction at the Star Theatre June 5, and for which many of the prominent variety stars have volunteered....The engagement of Augustin Daly's Co. at the Academy of Music last week was a most successful one....The Hengler Sisters, young daughters of T. M. Hengler, of Delehanty and Hengler fame, made their dancing debut at Henry W. Behman's benefit 30, and scored a success......Col. Sinn is again at his post of duty......The Columbia Theatre was open evening of 30 for a concert by Sisseiretta Jones, assisted by Levy's Band....... The much talked of benefit to Manager May and Treasurer Albert, of the Lee Avenue Academy, will take place June 6. Many professionals have volunteered their services.... Members of Munn Lodge, F. and A. M., of New York, to the number of five hundred, will attend the performance at the Lee Avenue Academy 2...... Proprietor Robbins is busy getting the Novelty Theatre ready for the opening of the Summer opera season 11 ..... Manager Howard is very well satisfied with last season's business at the Bedford Avenue Theatre. "Good Old Times" will open the house.

Buffalo.—At the Star Theatre, the Strakosch Opera Co. began the second and last week of a prosperous engagement May 30. "The Musketeers" was presented.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC.—"Miss Helyett" began 30, for five nights, with bright prospects. The Elks' benefit 28 was very successful. These people appeared: T. J. Farron, Lydia Yeamans, Lawn Tennis Quartet, Sam E. Allen, Emma Herrold, Morris Cronin, Ada St. Clair, Garden City Quartet, John Day, Æolian Quartet, Harry Sefton, Edwin Morris, Vincent Graham, Mat Farnan, Eloise Mortimer, the Lewis Children, McCabe and Daniels, Lassard and Lucifer, C. Edgar Foreman, Sam Dearin, Victoria Walters and O'Brien and Redding.

MUSIC HALL.—The Shackford Opera Co. began an all Summer engagement here 30, presenting "Said Pasha." Among the performers were Eloise Mortimer, Ada St. Claire, Minerva Adams, Lea Raymond, Melythia Adams, Ferdinand Schultz, Vincent Graham, W. W. Campbell, Ed. Morris, Maurice Hageman, James Bevans, Robert McNally and Tom Dagnall, musical director.

LYCEUM THEATRE.—This house closed 28, Tony Farrell being the departing attraction.

ROBINSON'S MUSEE-THEATRE.—Lecture hall this week: Ida Palmer, artillery in action, and the Hungarian Band. Stage: Max Pettingil, Riley and Wolfe, Al. N. Wilson and the De Forrests. Business is large.

SHEA'S MUSIC HALL.—It is difficult to get a peep at the stage here just at present, and Lydia Yeamans is the cause of the throngs. Other names this week are Allyn and Lingard, Laura Bennett, Marie Layton, De Vene Sisters, Pauline Hall and Emma Herrold.

Rochester.—At the Lyceum, the engagement of Mr. and Mrs. Kendal May 30, 31, closes the house for the season. "Miss Helyett" did a good business 27, 28.

H. R. JACOBS' ACADEMY has closed for the season. "Zig Zag" and "Keep It Dark" were booked for this week, but have been canceled.

ROBINSON'S MUSEE-THEATRE will have its way in things theatrical during the Summer season, all the other houses having closed. The attractions this week: Lecture hall—Queen Qumiomey and her band of Gypsy maidens. Theatre—Lassard and Lucifer, O'Brien and Reding, C. Edgar Foreman, the Salambos, Sefton and Le Petit Freddie.

Troy.—At the Griswold Opera House, Webber's "Uncle Tom's Cabin" May 30 and the week. "Miss Helyett" 25 had good business.

ALHAMBRA GARDEN.—Opening 30: Ada Castleton, Jessie Beetly, Ferguson Sisters and Siegfried Abraham.

IRWIN BROS.' CIRCUS had good business 27, 28. While taking down the tent 28, the centre pole fell, seriously injuring Wm. Paul, employe, about the head and shoulders.

DEATHS IN THE PROFESSION.

CHARLES GAYLER.—This veteran playwright died on Saturday afternoon, May 28, at the residence of his sister, Mrs. Knowles, 157 State Street, Brooklyn. A month ago he was taken to St. John's Hospital, but later he was removed to his sister's home again. An attack of heart failure was the immediate cause of his death. Mr. Gayler, who was one of the most prolific playwriters of his generation, was the son of a hardware merchant, and was born in Oliver Street, this city, April 10, 1820. He went to Ohio in 1836, and had a varied career there. He began by teaching school at Dayton, and then took up the study of the law. He practised on the circuit with Abraham Lincoln. When Henry Clay was up for President, Mr. Gayler took the stump for him. In 1846 he married Grace Christian, who survives him. Two of his sons, William C. and Frank, are theatrical managers. In 1849 Mr. Gayler made his debut as Hamlet at the National Theatre, Cincinnati, and shortly afterward his first play, "The Gold Hunters," was produced in the same theatre. It was a take off on the gold fever of the day, and it made a hit. Mr. Gayler returned to New York in 1850, and for the next twenty years he continued to turn out plays at an astonishing rate. He is said to have written three hundred plays, fully one hundred of which were produced. They comprise comedies, spectacles, dramas and burlesques in endless variety. These are the titles of a few of the best known of them: "The Magic Marriage," "The Life Shadow," "Aspasia," "Bull Run," "Master of Arts," "Our Female American Cousin," "Dust and Diamonds," "With the Tide," "Jalma," "The New President," "The Bohemian," "Under the Ring" and "Miss Mollie." He also wrote "Fritz in Ireland" and others in which the late J. K. Emmet made himself famous. Mr. Gayler was an interesting figure in the last few years. He was frequently seen uptown, and his patriarchal beard and long white hair made a very striking appearance. He was a member of the Five As and of the Dramatic Authors' League of this city. Arrangements were being made for a benefit to be given to Mr. Gayler. These his death has cut short. The funeral will occur at 1 o'clock Thursday afternoon. Services will be held in The Little Church Around the Corner, Rev. Dr. Houghton officiating. The interment will be in the family plot at Greenwood Cemetery, afternoon of May 29. The members of the Five As voted to attend the funeral in a body. They also passed resolutions of condolence with the family of the deceased dramatist, and expressive of the loss the profession had sustained through his death. The American Dramatic Authors' Association, of which Mr. Gayler was a member, will probably have charge of the funeral.

ROBERT G. ALLEN (right name Robert Hanley), the well known Irish comedian, died suddenly May 29, at Boston, Mass. He was in his accustomed health 28, attending a ball game in the afternoon and paying a visit to the theatre in the evening. Upon his return home he complained of being unwell. Two physicians were summoned, but they could do nothing for him, and he passed away. Acute peritonitis was pronounced the cause. The body was sent to Pittsburg, Pa., which is his native place, and the resting place of his parents. He was best known in the West, this being the first tour he had made East. He was not connected with any company recently, having been doing the New England circuit in variety work. He was best known from having been with the "Chip of the Old Block" Co. for several years.

Miscellaneous.

GROWING UP WITH THE COUNTRY TOO SLOW.—Being tired of working for a salary, I decided to go West and grow up with the country. I invested in real estate and became land poor, and was obliged to make a living for my wife and children some other way. I saw Mr. Morehead's experience in the plating business by accident in an old newspaper. I did as he did, sent $5 to H. F. Delno & Co., of Columbus, Ohio, and went to work plating first in my own neighborhood, and found I did it so well that I hired a man and he brought in the plating, which I did at my house. There is plenty of money out West here, if you only know how to get it, and I hope my experience will help any body who is having a hard time. I made last week $12 and the week previous $13.14. Anybody can get circulars by writing to Delno & Co., Columbus, O.—ROBERT LINDSAY, American Tribune.

MORRIS PARK'S OPENING.

Upwards of thirty thousand people witnessed the races of the New York Jockey Club, on Memorial Day, May 30. It was the opening day of the Spring meeting, and unquestionably the largest crowd of people ever within the enclosure was there. Over one hundred bookmakers did business, and they were all kept busy, as everybody seemed to have plenty of money. The track was fast, and splendid time was made. The event of the day was the Metropolitan Handicap, which in every respect ranks with the Brooklyn Handicap or the Suburban in point of attractiveness. The victory of the Bonnie Lee colt in the Juvenile Stakes, for two year olds, at five furlongs, gave general satisfaction. The other races, though interesting, were nothing more than ordinary first class events, and they resulted as follow:

Opening scramble, for all ages, a sweepstakes of $20 each, $1,000 added, $200 to second, $100 to third, five furlongs.

PHIL DWYER has bought Monowai, the two year old chestnut colt by Midlothian out of Eliza, from the Donathan Stable, of San Jose, Cal., for $15,000. The youngster made an excellent record at the recent Blood Horse Association meeting in California.

JACK SPLAN, the noted trotting driver, has been engaged for the season by A. H. Moore, proprietor of the Cloverdale Farm, whose stock he will handle on the leading tracks until the Fall, after which he will take up his residence at Colmar, Pa., and look after the trotters during the Winter months.

G. W. SCOGGAN has sold the two year old colt King Lee to parties in Louisville, Ky., for $10,000.

RACING AT GRAVESEND.

Fully eight thousand people took advantage of the beautiful Spring weather May 24, and visited the races at Gravesend, L. I. The track, though dusty on top, was a trifle heavy underneath. The betting was lively, but there seemed to be a general opinion among the bookmakers that the horse owners were the class of men who had all the "sure things." Pinkerton's men arrested three messenger boys, on the ground that the stands of several of the bookmakers had been rifled of blank betting tickets, and it was claimed that women intrusting money to bet for them were being swindled by the boys filling the bogus tickets at shorter odds and keeping the difference. One of the most interesting races of the day was the Clover Stakes, for two year old fillies, at five furlongs. There were but five starters in the Brooklyn Derby for three year olds, at a mile and a quarter. Patron won with apparent ease. Summary:

Selling sweepstakes, of $20 each, for two year olds, $1,000 added, $200 to second, $100 to the third, winners to carry 7lb extra, the winner to be sold at auction, five furlongs.

Time, 1:44½. Won by three lengths, a length between second and third. Mutuals paid: Sir Arthur, $58.15 and $39.75; Hamilton, $32.80.

Fully ten thousand people witnessed the races 25. It was a beautiful, bright Summer's day, and the track was in fine condition. The victory of Major Domo in the Parkway Handicap was the feature of the day. With such speedy animals as Longstreet, Raceland and Charade scratched, the general opinion was that Russell would win without much difficulty, and he was backed heavily. One of the prettiest races of all was the fifth, at five furlongs, for two year olds that had run at this meeting, but not won. Every colt in the race was well backed There was an exciting finish in the last event between Now or Never and Snowball. Summary:

A sweepstakes of $20 each, for three year olds and upward that had run and not won at this meeting, $1,000 added, $200 to second, $100 to third, six furlongs.

From ten to twelve thousand people visited the track 26, but that they were greatly disappointed in the contest for the Brooklyn Cup, when such horses as Judge Morrow, Kingston, Raceland, Portchester, Ruy del Rey, San Juan, Uno Grande, Peter, Kimberly, Bermuda, Strathmeath, Russell, Terrifier and Reckon were scratched, leaving only Longstreet and Longford to compete for the trophy. It proved a miserable exhibition of racing and caused considerable bitter comment. The chief event of the day was the battle for the Great American Stakes, for two year olds, at five furlongs, with thirteen starters. There was a great delay in getting off, and during the many false starts which were made Jockey Charley Littlefield was thrown from Minnehaha and badly shaken up. Sir Walter, with "Snapper" Garrison up, won the race and the $17,000 stake in 1:01¼. Much fault was found with the running of Leonawell in the second race. During the afternoon the following was given out:

At a meeting of the Board of Control, held this day the following was adopted: Objection having been made to Merriment as a winner of the third race at Gravesend, May 23, by the owner of Morello, the second horse, the Board of Control finds that Merriment was disqualified. First. Because Rule 25 of racing was not complied with. Second. Because it appears by the statement of R. W. Walden, the trainer of Merriment, that the colt was paid for and thus became the property of the purchaser before the race, the purchaser being disqualified under the resolution of the Board of Control passed Dec. 22, 1891. W. G. VOSBURGH, Secretary.

In the race in question the horse was ridden by Fred Taral and ran in the Morris colors. The stakes were credited to J. A. and A. H. Morris on the books of the Brooklyn Jockey Club, and this will prevent them from being collected. Summary:

A heavyweight handicap sweepstakes of $20 each, or $5 if declared, $1,000 added, $200 to second, $100 to third, six furlongs.

The sport was not very good 27, as there were but few real good finishes and only one stake event. Considerable fault was found with the judges' decisions, especially in the two year old event, where they gave the race to Sir Richard, when the general impression was that Magician had finished first by at least a neck. Jimmy Rowe had so much trouble in making a good start in the last race that he grew impatient and fined eight of the jockeys $20 each. Hutsell was suspended four days. The only jockeys who were not fined in this race were Garrison, Hayward and Stevenson. Summary:

A sweepstakes of $20 each, for three year olds and upward that had run and not won at this meeting, $1,000 added, $200 to second, $100 to third, non-winners of $1,500 in 1891 allowed 10lb, one mile.

The meeting closed 28, and it was the most successful Spring meeting the Brooklyn Jockey Club has ever held. It being the last day, as well as an exceptionally pleasant afternoon, there was an unusually large attendance. Don Alonza was the favorite in the race for the Tremont Stakes, and he proved an easy victor. There were a dozen starters in the event of the day, the Fort Hamilton Handicap, for three year olds, at a mile and an eighth. It was a brilliant and exciting race, and resulted in a victory for St. Florian by a length in 1:54½. The last race of the day and meeting was also interesting, and was won by Flavilla. Summary:

Racing at Latonia.

The Latonia Jockey Club opened their Spring meeting on Saturday afternoon, May 21, under auspices that were decidedly the reverse of favorable, for, although the weather was pleasant, the track was a foot deep in sticky mud, which caused the withdrawal of Azra and Bashford from the Derby, which, in consequence proved a tame, uninteresting event. The attendance numbered about seven thousand. Summary:

First race—One mile—The Hero, 95lb, A. Clayton, 4 to 1, won easily by five lengths; Penn P., 108½, Rowe, 4 to 1, second, by five lengths; Harry Weldon, 104, J. McDonald, 10 to 1, third. Time, 1:58½ .... Second race—Six furlongs—Forward, 95, Lilly, 9 to 5, won by half a length; Tom Darling, 105½, Thorpe, 8 to 5, second, by two lengths; Captain Drane, 95, Barrett, 5 to 1, third. Bramble Outflies Innes.

THE CLIPPER pigeon flying honors remain with Dickinson and Hagel, and mark the break in the world's speed from one hundred miles for the second time. The first trial for the Royal Blue Line Gold and the Stockkeeper Cup was held on Monday, May 23, but the lead gained then with 1,260 yards, by Dickinson and Sylvia, of the Thurston nine, of Fall River, Mass., was lost on Friday to Bramble. Joseph. Darby and Rhobe, belong to Fred Bowers, of the same town; also from Madison Square Garden. The speed was 1,436 yards per minute. This, the best from the metropolis to New England, broke the Nelse Innes record, and ensures the winning of the special Diana trophy.

There was a surprise on Sunday, when the birds of the R. I. Federation got into the lead for distance in the day, for The Outing prizes for miles covered, and W. H. Goodby's Roger Williams found itself to the front for the second best average in two journeys. This was the last thing that seemed possible, inasmuch as the Thurston team had a hundred miles rolled up before the Rhode Island birds made their first fly for record, and, as the two lots were scheduled for the same dates, it was supposed the difference would be maintained to the end. But the Rhoe Island birds were ordered started at nine o'clock Sunday morning, and the Thurstons were to start at noon. One had fair weather and was home in the early afternoon, while a storm at noon held the others back. A week before the Thurstons had 161 miles for distance in the day, 273 for miles covered against the Rhode Island 154 on both counts. On Monday, 30, the Rhode Islands were boasting 235 miles for the day's work, 349 miles for Outing by both Roger and Ruth, and possibly 998 yards to Roger for second best average of the season. The question is, which has the greater surprise, Fall River or Providence?

Atlantic Club Regatta.

Great preparations are being made for the twenty-seventh annual regatta of the Atlantic Yacht Club, of Brooklyn, to be sailed Tuesday, June 14. It will consist of three classes of schooners and eleven of sloops, cutters and yawls. Invitations have been sent to all the leading yacht clubs to send entries, and a very successful reunion is anticipated. Many sharp contests may be expected, judging from the liberal entries and the quality of the boats which are to compete. Henry B. Howell, chairman of the Regatta Committee, feels confident that the fleet will be larger than ever before gathered at any of their regattas. The course this year has been changed to the lower bay, which is considered a decided improvement. Each class is open to yachts enrolled in any regularly organized club and are as follow, all lengths being load water line:

SCHOONERS—Class 1, all over 90ft.; class 2, all over 70ft., and not over 90ft.; class 3, all of 70ft. and under.

SLOOPS, CUTTERS AND YAWLS—Class 1, all over 70ft.; class 2, all over 61ft. and not over 70ft.; class 3, all over 53ft. and not over 61ft.; class 4, all over 46ft. and not over 53ft.; class 5, all over 40ft. and not over 46ft.; class 6, all over 35ft. and not over 40ft.; class 7, all over 30ft and not over 35ft.; class 8, all over 25ft. and not over 30ft.; class 9, all of 25ft. and under; class 10, all open sloops; class 11, all catrigged yachts.

The starting and finishing lines for all classes will be between Buoy No. 11 and a stakeboat anchored to the southward and eastward of it. The course for all classes of schooners and classes 1, 2 and 3 of sloops will be to the Southwest Spit, thence to the Scotland Lightship; thence five miles south-southeast to turning mark, and return over the same course. For classes 4 and 5 of sloops the course will be to the stakeboat near Buoy No. 8, off the northern point of Sandy Hook thence to Scotland Lightship, thence to the turning mark, five miles south-southeast, and thence to the finishing line. For classes 6 and 7, same as the foregoing, to Scotland Lightship; thence returning to the finishing line. For classes 8, 9, 10 and 11, to the stakeboat near Buoy No. 8, off Sandy Hook and return.

The prizes to be sailed for are as follow: Schooners—Class 1, racing trim, $70; class 2, racing trim, $60; class 3, racing trim, $50; class 1, cruising trim, $60; class 2, cruising trim, $50, and class 3, cruising trim, $40. Sloops, cutters and yawls—Class 1, $70; class 2, $65; class 3, $60; class 4, $55; class 5, $50; class 6, $45; class 7, $40; class 8, $35; class 9, $30; class 10, $25, and class 11, $25. Entries must be in writing and filed with the chairman of the Regatta Committee, Henry B. Howell, No. 109 Wall Street, New York, not later than eleven o'clock A. M., Saturday, June 11.

New Jersey Yachtsmen.

The Pavonia Yacht Club, of Jersey City, will hold their twenty-third annual regatta on Monday, June 13. The fleet will be accompanied over the course by the steamboat Cygnus, which will start from and return to the following landings: South Street, Hoboken, 8 A. M.; Twenty-third Street, North River, 8.30 A. M.; Twenty-third Street, East River, 9 A. M.; Morris Street, Jersey City, 9.30 A. M., and Pier 1, North River, 10 A. M. The club has limited its invitations to the clubs comprising the New York Yacht Racing Association, the New Rochelle and the Marine and Field Clubs. The classification is as follows:

Class A, schooners; B, cabin sloops and cutters of over 53ft. C, 45ft. to 53ft.; D, 38ft. to 45ft.; E, 32ft. to 38ft.; F, 27ft. to 32ft.; G, under 27ft. Class 1, open sloops of over 27ft.; 2, 23ft. to 27ft.; 3, under 23ft.; 4, cabin catboats; 5, catrigged of over 25ft.; 6, 20ft. to 25ft., and 7, under 20ft.

Course 1, over which classes A, B, C, D, E and F will sail, is from Oyster Island Buoy No. 13 (formerly No. 19) to and around Perch and Bell Buoy No. 14, located to the westward of Southwest Spit, twenty-five nautical miles. Course 2, over which classes G, 1 and 4 will sail, is from the same starting point to and around the bell buoy on the northwest edge of Romer Shoals (formerly No. 81) and back, twenty nautical miles. Course 3, over which classes 2, 3, 5, 6 and 7 will sail, is from the same starting point to and around Buoy No. 9 (formerly No. 13), located to the eastward of Swinburne Island, to and around Fort Lafayette and back, fifteen nautical miles.

COLLEGE OARSMEN MATCHED.—The expected triangular race on Cayuga Lake, N. Y., between the crews of Columbia College, Cornell University, and the University of Pennsylvania, has been abandoned on account of the impossibility of arranging a date that would suit all of the crews. Instead of the three cornered event, however, there will be a race between the Columbia and Cornell Freshmen on June 8, and another between the Freshmen of the University of Pennsylvania and the Cornell eight on June 15. Both races will be rowed at Cayuga Lake, Ithaca, N. Y.

THE CANARSIE YACHT CLUB, which flourishes on the shores of Jamaica Bay, is now officered as follows: Commodore, Israel F. Fischer; vice commodore, T. Fitzmaurice; recording secretary, C. E. Hinrichs; financial secretary, Walter Smith; measurer, H. Rigbee. The new club house, which cost $6,000, has been completed, and a dozen of the yachts belonging to members of the organization are in commission. They will have their opening day on Saturday, June 4. The commodore was presented at the annual meeting with a handsome pair of marine glasses and a gold enamelled scarf pin emblematic of the club signal, a white tomahawk on a blue field.

THE YALE LAUNCH BURNED.—A fire was discovered in the new Yale launch about 4 o'clock on May 29, which, before it could be extinguished, did $1,000 damage and dismantled the boat to an extent which makes it doubtful if necessary repairs can be made before the crew goes to New London. The woodwork around the boiler, engine and other machinery was burned out, and the mechanical parts heated and in some instances ruined. The hull, amidships, was burned to the water's edge, and is in a leaky condition.

THE PATAPSCO REGATTA.—The annual regatta of the Patapsco Navy, of Baltimore, Md., which will this year be held under the auspices of the Neptune Boat Club, will take place on the Patapsco River on June 25, and the programme will embrace the following events: Senior single sculls, junior single sculls, senior four oared shells, junior four oared shells, four oared gigs and eight oared shells. Special transportation rates of one fare for the round trip, good from June 22 to June 27, have been made and can be obtained at any railroad agency by stating what club they are for.

A CABLEGRAM FROM SYDNEY, N. S. W., states that James Stansbury, who recently successfully defended his claim to the title of champion sculler of the world in a race with Tom Sullivan, the New Zealand champion, is shortly to start for this country, and that he will be accompanied by Peter Kemp, the erstwhile fraudulent claimant to the title held by Stansbury. Perhaps Champion O'Connor and Ned Hanlan will have a chance to get on a double scull match with the Antipodeans.

JOHN MCLEAN, of New Westminster, B. C., says that he will accept Ed. Hanlan's offer to give him six hundred yards start in a three mile race in shells, and one hundred yards for the same distance in skiffs, each match to be for $1,000 a side. He will also make a match with any man Hanlan can bring to the coast to row three miles in canoes, level.

THE Emperor of Germany's yacht, the Meteor, formerly the Thistle, one of the defeated contestants for the America Cup, finished second to the Iverna in a regatta on the Thames River, England, on May 21. The course was from Lowerhope to the Mouse and back to the Nore Light.

THE headquarters of the Harvard College crew on the banks of the Thames River, near New London, Ct., are being renovated and enlarged, the new addition including a dining room and kitchen.

ROWING REGATTA.

Crack Amateur Oarsmen Meet on the Passaic River.

The people of Newark and surrounding towns, with a strong delegation from this city and Brooklyn, gathered on the banks of the Passaic River on the afternoon of Decoration Day, May 30, to witness the annual regatta of the Passaic River Amateur Rowing Association. Weather and water were favorable, and the regatta was one of the most successful and enjoyable ever held on this placid stream. The distance in all the events was a mile and a half, straightaway, the trial heats, as well as the races for the junior double sculls and the senior four oared shells, being rowed in the morning, and the finals and other events taking place in the afternoon. Very few people were present at the forenoon competitions. A summary follows:

JUNIOR SINGLE SHELLS—First heat: Won by J. A. Bell, New York Athletic Club, in 11m. 8⅛s.; second, P. J. Wall, Pennsylvania Barge Club. Second heat: Won by E. J. Dunn, Excelsior Boat Club, in 10m. 41⅛s.; second, H. P. Cashion, Atalanta Boat Club. Final heat: Won by Wall in 39m. 49s.; second, Dunn; third, Belle.

INTERMEDIATE SINGLE SHELLS—First heat: Won by W. J. Mulcare, Dauntless Boat Club, in 10m. 38⅛s.; second, R. Vansant, Ariel Rowing Club. Second heat: Won by C. Donegan, Atalanta Boat Club, in 9m. 5⅛s.; second, W. H. Van Benthuysen, Passaic Boat Club. Final heat: Won by Donegan in 9m. 32⅘s.; second, Vansant; third, Mulcare.

JUNIOR DOUBLE SCULLS—Institute Boat Club, John Gleason (bow), John Cavanagh (stroke), first, in 9m. 13⅗s; Atalanta Boat Club, A. J. Davenport (bow), J. B. Dyer (stroke), second; Excelsior Boat Club, E. D. Cundell (bow), A. E. Meidendorp (stroke), third. The Institutes had the race from the start, finishing leisurely.

SENIOR PAIR OARED GIGS — Atalanta Boat Club, Max Lau (bow), William Lau (stroke), first, in 9m. 35⅗s.; Atlantic Boat Club, A. Heyne (bow), W. Trenkamp (stroke), second, by seven lengths. The New York Athletic crew (E. Weinacht and R. A. Haubold) were run into and capsized by the Active Club pair, the latter crew being put out of the race also.

JUNIOR FOUR OARED SHELLS.—First heat: Arthur Kull Boat Club, E. P. Kirk (bow), G. C. Marx, Joseph Overton, F. C. Armstrong (stroke), first, in 9m. 58⅗s.; Institute Boat Club, John O'Toole (bow), Otto Keuchler, M. Fox, Adam Hertig (stroke), second. The winners steered all over the course, but they pulled a strong oar and thus succeeded in reaching the winning post in advance. Second heat: Atlantic Boat Club, H. C. Cudlich (bow), E. Jager, E. A. Robbins, L. R. Brandt (stroke), first, in 9m. 40⅗s.; Passaic Boat Club, A. W. Evenden (bow), H. Marshall, P. Marshall, F. Gaisel (stroke), second, the stroke oar unshipping his seat after a dozen strokes. Final heat: Institute Boat Club first, in 8m. 39⅘s.; Arthur Kull Boat Club disqualified for fouling.

JUNIOR EIGHT OARED SHELLS—First heat: Malta Boat Club, J. Halderman (bow), S. Goucher, J. Carbutt, C. J. Amwake, J. D. Lahey, Fred Schwartz, G. Marsh, Howard Short (stroke), E. S. Chapin (coxwain), first, in 8m. 29⅗s.; New York Athletic Club, H. B. Turner Jr. (bow), A. R. Pope, W. P. Whyland, G. D. Marvin, C. Schumacher, F. W. Douglass, W. Little, E. J. Keane (stroke), C. C. Turner (coxswain), second; Crescent Boat Club third. Second heat: Palisade Boat Club, C. P. Marsden Jr. (bow), H. L. Quick, E. W. Jones, J. B. Moffat, Frank Weedon, W. C. Hoff, Gabriel Reeve, E. Martin Jr. (stroke), G. N. Stegman (coxwain), first, in 9m. 29s.; Atalanta Boat Club, L. B. Neats (bow), H. Wood, W. F. Kelly, H. L. Meyers, J. A. Donohue, P. A. Burns, V. Brink, C. Donegan (stroke), C. E. Holgate (coxwain), second; Staten Island Athletic Club, third. Final heat: Malta Boat Club first, in 7m. 45⅗s.; New York Athletic Club second, by two lengths; Palisade Boat Club third, the latter having held second place till within a quarter mile of the finish, when the New York Athletics passed them; Atalanta Boat Club fourth.

SENIOR FOUR OARED GIGS—Atalanta Boat Club, M. T. Quigley (bow), J. M. Chambury, Fred Freeman, John Weldon (stroke), E. C. Villaverde (coxswain), first, in 8m. 50⅗s.; Passaic Boat Club, F. Marvin (bow), F. McNeille, M. Sommer, J. Greenhalgh (stroke), H. A. Dunn Jr. (coxswain), second. This was another professional event, the winners finishing easily.

JUNIOR SIX OARED GIGS—Passaic Boat Club, A. Hopper (bow), A. Saborn, F. Crossman, E. Gale, W. Melick (stroke), first, in 8m. 11s.; Atalanta Boat Club, C. E. Varian (bow), G. W. Dodd, F. Van Holland, J. H. Brunning, H. Sander, J. H. Holloway (stroke), E. J. Byrne (coxswain), second, close up; Triton Boat Club, T. H. Ripley (bow), A. P. Gifford, H. E. Roirck, Chas. Ripley, Robert Osborne, A. B. Harris (stroke), W. H. Osborne (coxswain), third; Institute Boat Club fourth.

SENIOR FOUR OARED SHELLS—Fairmount Athletic Association, W. Brownell (bow), W. Hoover, L. Ooland, John Snowden (stroke), first, no time being taken; Pennsylvania Barge Club, A. J. Ingraham (bow), Walter Nagle, C. B. Dix, J. H. Beck (stroke), second, handily beaten; Arthur Kull Boat Club, W. H. Hildebrandt (bow), C. H. Hand, Thomas Hanna Jr., D. H. McFarland (stroke), third.

SENIOR SINGLE SCULL SHELLS—Fred Hawkins, Manhattan Athletic Club, first, in 9m. 15⅛s.; Edwin Hedley, Vesper Boat Club, second, the latter having lost a couple of strokes early in the race, in order to avoid fouling Hawkins, and being thereby thrown behind so far that he could not recover the distance from so accomplished a sculler as the leader; William Caffrey, Crescent Boat Club, third; A. J. Buschman, Manhattan Athletic Club, fourth.

INTERMEDIATE EIGHT OARED SHELLS—Malta Boat Club, J. Halderman (bow), S. Goucher, J. Carbutt, A. J. Amwake, J. D. Lahey, Fred Schwartz, G. Marsh, Howard Short (stroke), C. A. Clark (coxswain), first, in 7m. 40⅛s.; Atalanta Boat Club, W. Davidson (bow), W. H. Murray, J. Smith, H. Vogel, G. Wendel, E. P. Burnett, J. Davidson, W. G. Kirby (stroke), E. C. Villaverde (coxswain), second, by half a length, being rowed down in the last half mile; Eureka Boat Club third.

SENIOR EIGHT OARED SHELLS — Cornell University, Kelly (bow), Barr, Gilson, Dole, Wagner, Witherbee, Marston, Hall (stroke), Allen (coxswain), first, in 7m. 21s., remarkably fast time; New York Athletic Club, W. H. Pinckney (bow), J. R. Crawford, C. E. Knoblock, C. C. Miller, E. F. Haubold, E. J. Giannini, A. L. Clark, S. B. Hunt (stroke), D. G. Smyth (coxswain), second, by half a length. The collegians did not hear the signal, and thereby lost about two good lengths. However, by dint of the hardest kind of rowing the Cornells began to make up the distance at the quarter, and at the half mile were but a half length to the bad. At the three-quarters they were level, and, going on, at the mile they led by half a length, with which they were content, not attempting to increase their advantage.

SENIOR DOUBLE SCULL SHELLS. — Manhattan Athletic Club, Joseph F. Donoghue (bow), James A. Donoghue (stroke), first, in 9m. 38s.; Vesper Boat Club, John Y. Parke (bow), George McGowen (stroke), second, by two lengths; Varuna Boat Club, Morgan Quill Jr. (bow), Charles Belger (stroke), third, beaten away off.

New York Yacht Club.

All arrangements have been completed for the forty-seventh annual regatta of the New York Yacht Club, which is to be held June 16. The classification of yachts, length reckoned from the water line, is as follows:

Schooners—Class 1, all over 100ft.; class 2, all over 90ft. and not over 100ft.; class 3, all over 80ft. and not over 90ft.; class 4, all over 70ft. and not over 80ft.; class 5, all of 70ft. and under.

Sloops, Cutters and Yawls—Class 1, all over 80ft.; class 2, all over 70ft. and not over 80ft.; class 3, all over 61ft. and not over 70ft.; class 4, all over 53ft. and not over 61ft.; class 5, all over 46ft. and not over 53ft.; class 6, all over 40ft. and not over 46ft.; class 7, all of 40ft. and under.

The yachts going over course No. 1 will start across an imaginary line drawn from the judges' boat anchored to the east of Buoy No. 11, and about two cables' length from it, to Buoy No. 12, near Southwest Spit (red nun with perch and ball), passing to the south and west of it; thence south of Buoy No. 10 (red nun), and north of Bell Buoy off the point of Sandy Hook to Sandy Hook Lightship, turning from the north and east, and returning over the same course. Course No. 2, for sloops, cutters and yawls, will be the same as course No. 1, substituting Scotland Lightship for Sandy Hook Lightship. All yachts must pass to the eastward of West Bank Buoys Nos. 7 and 9, both going and returning. Yachts sailing the race must carry their private signals at the main peak, and display their numbers on each side of the mainsail, as near the middle of the sail as possible, and just above the upper reef band. The start will be off Buoy 11 lower bay, and the preparatory signal will be made at 10.50 o'clock, wind and weather permitting.

The regular prizes in each class will be $200 to first and $75 to second. Special prizes will be awarded to yachts in cruising trim. They will be $150 to first and $50 to second. Prizes of equal value will be awarded to keel schooners in cruising trim, sailing as one class. No prize will be awarded unless at least two yachts start in each class, and in order to secure second prize three or more boats will have to start. The members and guests will leave on the iron steamboat Taurus, at the foot of West Twenty-third street, at 9.30, and Pier 1 at 10.15 A. M.

The entries close June 11, at 11 A. M. with the Regatta Committee.

The Crescents' New House.

The Crescent Athletic Club, one of the most enterprising organizations in Brooklyn, opened their new $80,000 club house at Bay Ridge, L. I., on Monday afternoon, May 30, and they entertained their hundreds of guests with a regatta, a baseball match and music by the Seventh Regiment band. The rowing events resulted as shown in the summary:

JUNIOR SINGLE SCULLS—Won by P. A. Hardy, M. H. Reynolds second.

SENIOR SINGLE GIGS—Won by E. B. Terry, Benjamin Jessup second.

INTERMEDIATE FOUR OARED GIGS—Won by E. D. Newman, J. H. Bagg, T. Perkins, Theodore Richards and C. O. Brinckerhoff.

CANOE PADDLING—Won by W. M. Brownell and C. O. Brickerhoff; J. H. Bagg and F. Brose second.

COMMODORE A. J. PRIME has appointed the following committees for the annual Labor Day sailing regatta, to be held Sept. 5: Regatta committee—George E. Gartland, New Jersey Y. C., chairman; Chas. E. Simms Jr., Columbia Y. C., and William Cagger, Brooklyn Y. C. Entertainment committee in charge of steamer—George Parkhill, Columbia Y. C., chairman; Robert T. Dennis, Sing Sing Y. C., and C. E. L. Hinrichs, Canarsie Y. C. The third annual cruise of the association will take place from July 2 to July 9. The yachts will rendezvous in Gravesend Bay.

THE New Jersey Yacht Club contemplate a great day's sport June 20, when they hold their twenty-fifth annual regatta, which will be sailed over the club courses in the upper and lower bays.

F. W. VANDERBILT is having his steam yacht Conqueror fitted out at present for a foreign trip.

Sailing on the Sound.

Despite the showery, unpleasant weather on Memorial Day, the Harlem Yacht Club held its ninth annual regatta, and a very successful affair it proved. The course lay from their club house at College Point to Sand's Point and return. The friends and admirers of the club were carried over the course on the iron steamboat Sirius, and they had an excellent view of the race, which proved very interesting. There were sixty-three entries in all eleven classes, for which there were three courses. The start was made at noon, and of the forty-three boats that crossed the line all but fifteen finished. Classes A to H, inclusive, rounded Sand's Point Buoy, a distance of eighteen miles; Classes H to K turned at Gangway Buoy, covering sixteen miles, and Class L, for open catboats under 18ft., made their turn at Stepping Stones Light, twelve miles. The wind held light all day, and part of the time the yachts were becalmed. The Sirius stuck close to the leaders. Maud M. did the best sailing from the start, going right through the fleet and being first to round the Sand's Point Buoy, and, as she increased her lead on her return, she won with apparent ease.

Yale and Harvard.

The University crews of Harvard and Yale Colleges are now rowing in the order here given in their training for the annual match race on the Thames River, at New London, Ct., in July: Yale—Bow, Johnson; 2, Balbet; 3, Van Huyck; 4, Paine; 5, Graves; 6, Hartwell (captain); 7, Ives; stroke, Galludet. The substitutes are Rogers, Howland and Chitfield. Harvard—Bow, Newell, 169lb; 2, Rantoul, 172lb; 3, Cummings, 178lb; 4, Winthrop, 169lb; 5, Waters, 181lb; 6, Acton, 197lb; 7, Kelton, 193lb; stroke, Lyman.

THE DAUNTLESS' OPENING.—The Dauntless Boat Club, of this city, held their annual opening at their boat house on Sunday, May 22, and a very enjoyable afternoon and evening was spent. It rained hard, but that did not interfere with the boys in the least. All the clubs along the Harlem River were invited, and they turned out in full force, and in every description of boats. The following clubs were represented by eight oared barges: Wyanoke, Nonpareil, Lone Star, Friendship, Bohemian, Gramercy, Xavier and Crescent. The entertainment consisted of boxing, wrestling, singing and dancing, while refreshments were on hand all the time, but beer flowed more freely than wine.

THE NEW NINETY FOOT STEEL SCHOONER Alcaca, designed by Gardner for Charles Clark, of St. Louis, was launched from the City Point yard May 25. The yacht is 128ft. over all, 90ft. water line, 22ft. 6in. beam and 13ft. draught. Her interior accommodations are of the best, and include a main saloon 18ft long and the full width of the vessel; three staterooms and a ladies' cabin 16ft. long. The finish is in mahogany and pine, the latter being painted white.

THE Seawanhaka Corinthian Yacht Club formally opened their new club house at Centre Island, Oyster Bay, L. I. Sound, on Saturday, May 28. The members of the club, with their lady and gentlemen guests, had a most enjoyable time during the afternoon.

WHEELING.

General Howard's Views.

At the close of the recent relay race between Chicago and New York, Gen. O. O. Howard, upon receiving the message sent by Gen. Miles, expressed himself as follows:

"I consider this a wonderful enterprise. It goes far beyond confirming my previous opinion of the military value of the bicycle. I wish to pay a special tribute to the patriotism and fortitude of the young men who carried the message through under such trying conditions. A regiment of infantry could not make over ten miles a day under similar circumstances, twenty miles a day being considered a good march. Cavalry troops would not have made any progress, but would have been mired and been obliged to go into camp. I am reminded of the famous mud march of the Army of the Potomac under Gen. Burnside, in the Winter of 1862, out of Fredericksburg. Over 100,000 men started to make a flank movement up the Rappahannock River. A storm came on and they did not cover twenty miles, but returned to camp and there remained for months.

General Forrest's Confederate cavalry wore out eleven sets of horses per year. In the Union Army two sets were required. I believe the military bicycle, properly constructed as to weight and strength, would show an extremely small per centage of wear and tear. The breaking down of horses is due largely to want of food, which would not occur with bicycles. The best way to convince a doubter would be to put him on a horse and require him to follow a cyclist of ordinary ability for five hours. One hour, I see, was sufficient at Cleveland during this relay ride. The difficulty of transporting all goods, including bicycles, to the seat of war at critical times is one which might seriously hinder its use, but that is only one of many possibilities met in adopting any innovation."

General Miles, in speaking of the results of the race, expressed a desire to have the ride repeated under different circumstances. He said:

"This run has demonstrated what can be done on bad roads, and now I think it would be a good plan to cover the same ground again when the roads have dried up and are in good condition. The start should be made from New York. I'm sure our American bicycle riders would astonish the world by the records they would make as they have astonished me in this event. Such endurance and pluck I never witnessed. Cavalrymen could not have covered the distance in twice the time the bicyclists took in getting to New York. They went over bogs, through roads covered with water, and into mud that would have held a horse fast. The day of the horseman as a means of rapid communication between places a long distance apart is past. The bicycle will take the place of the horse hereafter. I believe that some day bicycles will be generally used, especially when some genius succeeds in applying electricity as a means to assist in the propulsion of the machines."

Races in Canada.

The principal feature of the ninth annual celebration of the anniversary of the Queen's Birthday, May 24, by the Woodstock (Can.) Amateur Athletic Association was the 'cycling races. The attendance numbered about five thousand, and the only matter that fault could be found with was the weather, which was not of the best. The path was only in fair condition, yet during the day three Canadian wheel records were surpassed—the half mile and mile safety and the five mile handicap events. A summary follows:

One mile, green, safety machines—S. H. Gibbons, R. C. B. C., first, in 2m. 47⅘s.; C. McQuillan, W. B. C., second; A. W. Smith, T. B. C., third.

Half mile, open—Final heat: W. Hyslop, T. B. C., first, in 1m. 15⅘s.; W. Carman, T. B. C., second; G. S. Lowe, M. B. C., third.

One mile, green, safety pneumatics barred—A. Wise, R. B. C., Hamilton, first, in 3m. 14⅘s.; H. N. Harwood, T. B. C., second.

One mile, ordinary—C. J. Iven, Rochester, N. Y., first, in 3m.; J. W. McQueen, Stratford B. C., second.

One mile, safety—William Catman, T. B. C., first, in 2m. 41⅘s; G. S. Lowe, M. B. C., second; W. Hyslop, T. B. C., third.

Five mile, safety—William Carman, T. B. C., scratch, first, in 14m. 16s.; W. Hyslop, T. B. C., scratch, second; D. Nasmith, T. B. C., third.

One mile, county, safety—A. Somerville, Princeton, first, in 3m. 15s.; L. Utling, W. A. A. A., second; F. Baskerville, W. A. A. A., third.

The Rome Wheelmen.

The annual meet of the Rome (N. Y.) 'Cyclers took place on Monday afternoon, May 30, with the following result:

ONE MILE, NOVICE, safety—Won by H. H. Moore, Utica. Time, 5m. 23⅘s.

TWENTY MILE ROAD RACE—Won by A. R. Ferris, Utica. Time, 1h. 43m. 55⅘s.

ONE MILE, ordinary, Central New York championship—Awarded to Hammes, Utica, without riding.

ONE MILE, safety—Won by E. H. Martin, Utica. Time, 4m. 55⅘s.

QUARTER MILE, safety, Central New York State championship—Won by Hammes, Utica. Time, 47⅘s.

ONE HUNDRED YARDS—Won by A. T. Davis, Syracuse. Time, 11⅘s.

ONE MILE, safety, Central New York championship—Won by Hammes, Utica. Time, 4m. 10⅘s.

FOUR HUNDRED AND FORTY YARDS—Won by Myers, Syracuse. Time, 1m.

TWO MILE, safety—Won by G. McTaggart, Rochester. Time, 7m. 6⅘s.

ONE MILE, tandem, safety—Won by Bonta and Carroll, Syracuse. Time, 3m. 52⅘s.

ONE MILE, safety, 2:50 class—Won by G. McTaggart, Rochester. Time, 3m. 2⅘s.

ONE MILE, safety, Central New York team race—Won by Utica team. Time 3m. 22s.

HALF MILE, safety—Won by G. C. Smith, New York. Time, 1m. 33⅘s.

"Zimmy" Wins Two Races.

At the annual meeting of the Polytechnic Club at Paddington, London, Eng., May 28, Zimmerman, the American bicyclist, won the three mile race, beating four crack competitors. The race was well contested throughout, and the men were close together until the last lap, when Zimmerman spurted in desperate finish and came in two and a half yards ahead. Time, 9m. 42⅘s. The last quarter mile was made in 31⅘s. Zimmerman also won the scratch half mile race easily by two yards. Time, 1m. 12⅘s. In the half mile handicap Zimmerman, who gave all his competitors long starts, won his trial heat, and finished fourth in the final. There was a strong, gusty wind blowing, making the work extremely awkward for a stranger not familiar with the track. There were eight thousand spectators. Zimmerman was greatly applauded. He showed no signs of fatigue after his remarkable performance.

Theatrical.

H. P.—J. A. Fraser Jr., of Chicago, is its author.

L. DE V., Sabin.—1. Write to any of the music publishers who advertise in our columns. 2. He is likely to appear there. Write to his manager, John M. Burke, in care of THE CLIPPER.

C. G. D., Philadelphia.—Call on or write to Manager W. J. Gilmore, who is in your city.

C. E. H.—1. That act is no longer novel, and it would have to be pretty clever to bring over $30 or $40 a week. 2. From $60 to $150, according to their ability, repute, etc.

A. R. E., Cincinnati.—We cannot supply those names. Write to the manager of that house.

L. B., Bristol, Eng.—Those shows are no longer to be considered as a novelty in this country, but a really clever and ingenious performance of the kind might gain success. You had better, however, before you take any decisive steps in the matter of coming here, consult agents and managers with whom you propose to book.

"SHAUGHRAUN."—It was first produced at Wallack's on Saturday night, Nov. 14, 1874.

"BATICAN."—There is an actress of that name, but we cannot give you the information you seek. Write to her in care of THE CLIPPER.

C. A. L.—You refer to J. C. Williamson, the Melbourne, Aus., manager. Write to him at that city.

T. O. P., Roanoke.—See the notice at the head of this column.

B. K., Streator.—His father was not a millionaire, and the son started humbly and has worked his own way all his life. THE CLIPPER has never published any contrary statement.

R. P., Huntsville.—1. See the notice at the head of this column. 2. We cannot trace his movements at that time.

W. D., Grand Rapids.—We do not know. Write to her and ask her.

E. C.—Those articles can be purchased in this country. Write to Shannon, Miller & Rose, who advertise in THE CLIPPER.

C. A. W., Waterbury.—1. We do not divulge or discuss the private affairs of professionals. 2. See the notice at the head of this column 3. We can supply a few back numbers containing his poems.

J. H., New Orleans.—1. So far as we are aware, he is competent and well indorsed. 2. The charges vary from $5 a month upwards. 3. We have not much faith in it.

J. M. P., Marietta.—See the notice at the head of this column. We cannot give routes for more than a fortnight in advance.

MISS E. M. S., Indianapolis.—Write to Prof. Williams' Novelty Supply Co., No. 9 Hayward Place, Boston, Mass.

A. R., Milwaukee.—We find no notice of their appearance this month in any London, Eng., theatre or music hall.

"ALCAZAR."—During the present volume.

Cards.

C. E. B., Cincinnati.—No. The age does not transfer No. 2 should bet first.

M. O'L., Adrian.—B's right pedro will score before A's left. The game must be finished. The points count in their consecutive order.

E. E. M., Ashland.—1. Openers only are compulsory. 2. No.

D. W., Memphis.—1. A wins on his high. B's jack must take its regular position. 2. No answers by mail or telegraph.

C. R. L., Battle Creek.—The player making the right and jack wins.

CONSTANT READER, Auburn.—The low and jack have precedence.

C. B., Cincinnati.—There could be no age after B passed out. Initial action should be taken by C.

PINOCHLE.—He cannot. When 190 is called the 40 must be melded first.

A. F. B., San Francisco.—Two players cannot go alone at the same time in euchre, properly played.

POKER, Binghampton.—It is simply a question of morals. If the agreement was that they were to "stand in" together on the night's play, A should give B $24, according to your statement. They would then stand on an equal footing, each losing one dollar.

W. H. G., Fort Snelling.—A hand consisting of four 4's and a 7 counts twenty-four in cribbage, twelve for the double pair royal, and twelve more for the six fifteens which may be successively formed.

E. J. L.—He is not compelled to declare his opening pair before the draw.

C. E. S., Cincinnati.—The age does not transfer. C must make the first bet. When the original holder of the age passes out its liberties cease.

Dice, Dominoes, Etc.

H. Q., Oakland.—B's second throw was foul. He could not claim three sixes. He must throw again to the sixes and deuces.

Baseball, Cricket, Etc.

J. C., Holly Springs.—Either umpire should decide that the team leaving the grounds forfeited the game by a score of 9 to 0, unless it had been mutually agreed to stop the game at the end of the eighth inning.

C. F., Baltimore.—We are already supplied in that respect.

H. L. M., Philadelphia.—1. The largest number of runs ever recorded for the fall of one wicket is 605, made by G. F. Vernon and A. H. Trevor, Aug. 4 and 5, 1882, at Rickling Green, England. 2. A complete history of cricket was given in the CLIPPER ANNUAL of 1891.

R. S., St. Paul.—The batsman should have been decided out for batting out of turn.

Billiards, Pool, Etc.

J. D., Taunton.—It is not a scratch.

Athletic.

J. J. T., Boston.—You will find all the records you are in quest of, with brief particulars, on page 97 of THE CLIPPER ANNUAL for 1892; price, twenty-five cents.

BOWLER.—On the principle that the greater includes the less, A loses, as C made a strike, which counts more than a spare.

SUBSCRIBER, La Porte.—The fastest time in which one half mile has been run by a pedestrian is 1m. 53⅘s., by Frank Hewitt, in New Zealand, in 1871.

L. A. R., Atlanta.—The issue of THE CLIPPER containing an account of that race has been out of print for many years. You will, however, find particulars on page 71 of THE CLIPPER ANNUAL for 1891.

Ring.

E. O., Provo City.—A man is considered knocked out when he is physically unable from punishment received to respond to the call of time under the rules. It is not necessary that a pugilist be rendered senseless in order to be knocked out.

J. W., Washington.—Bob Fitzsimmons did not knock George Godfrey out "in a minute," or any longer time.

J. A.—Jim Mace was defeated on the turf by both Bob Brettle and Tom King. However, he also beat both of these men, so that in reality he did "beat every man whom he fought" with the exception of Joe Coburn, with whom he made two draws. The contests with Charley Mitchell and Prof. Miller do not count as fights, being simply boxing exhibitions.

Turf.

S. J.—In case of a dead heat in a race not of heats, unless the race admits of division and the owners agree to divide, a dead heat for first place must be run off on the same day, at such time as the executive committee may appoint, but at an interval of not less than twenty minutes. The horse that wins the run off takes first money, the other taking second. No other horse in the race has any claim on either first or second money.

Miscellaneous.

C. J. H.—If B was simply acting as agent for A in the transaction with C, then A wins the money; but if B borrowed the money from A to bet with C, then B is entitled to the winnings, having only to return to A the ten dollars he borrowed from him.

G. R., Cleveland.—The fastest record for one mile on a safety bicycle is 2m. 15s., by W. W. Windle, at Springfield, Mass., in 1891; on an ordinary bicycle, 2m. 25⅗s., by Windle, at Hartford, Ct., in 1891.

W. D. L., Chicago.—The published figures represented the cost of the twenty-fourth nail, in which sense your query was interpreted. The total amount is a simple sum in addition. The figures you state, 167,772.15, are correct.

J. K. O., Chicago.—Hell Gate has been blown up in parts several times. It is not all blown up yet. The obstruction to navigation in the East River known as Hallett's Point reef was blasted on Sept. 24, 1876, under the direction of Gen. Newton. This is the blasting in question. Thanks for your confidence, which is not misplaced.

CHESS.

To Correspondents.

JAS. RENNIE, Toronto.—Thanks for varied information.

J. C. BIRD, St. Louis.—Hearty friendly greetings on your return; we will examine the welcome end games. What is going on in St. L. chess?

M. W. H., Concord, N. H.—Thanks for appreciated favors; will write as desired.

BITLETS, BIT SHORT.—We learn from our correspondent, Alderman Rennie, that in the Canadian correspondence tourney every division of three is to have a third prize awarded; so, as he puts it, this is "a lottery with no blanks."......In the Lipschutz-Showalter match the players have been taking a rest......We regret to learn of the death of the venerable chess enthusiast and life long devotee, Prof. O. A. Brownson. Never before in the history of the game do we believe so much zeal, ability and persistent energy were wasted on a senseless crankerie as by Prof. B. on his "Springers." It was pitiful.... We see the trend of opinion at London is rather against Mr. Blackburne in his match with Herr Lasker, as it is asserted that Mr. B. begins to feel sensibly the weight of advancing years..... Great news for chess players! It is confidently asserted that a grand match will be arranged between Dr. Tarrasch and Herr Tchigorin, to be played at Berlin, before the next international tourney of chess masters at Dresden the coming Summer......The latest portrait of The Chess Monthly is that of the renowned Daniel Harrwitz. Having once heard rumors, or suggestions, of a different tenor, we are glad of the assurance that after his heart breaking defeat by Paul Morphy he retired to the mountainous region of the Tyrol, where he passed his declining years in comfort, enjoying a competency left by his father......We are rather disappointed at not having any news from the Italian congress......We see by a slip from a local paper that the swelling wave of chess enthusiasm has struck San Francisco. A grand tourney, free to all, has been liberally provided, and Valentine Huber has challenged any player of the Pacific Slope to meet him for the championship.

Notes by Steinitz, condensed.

(a) Mr. L.'s important innovation. It dispenses with the necessity of exchanging P's, which would release the adverse K Kt from inactivity.

(b) This application of this move also belongs to Mr. L. His two B's and well supported centre ought to give him at least an even game.

(c) A strategical fault, the chief cause of all the coming trouble. Kt to Q B sq was much superior.

(d) His foresight fails him; K to R sq was now necessary. * * * At 18.. it is too late * * * What he evidently overlooked was that, if 19..R to Q Kt sq; 20..Kt × B, attacking Q.

(e) Quite useless; Q was better where she stood.

(?) Damaging K's side without the least need; R to K sq at once was strikingly superior.

(f) Awkward, and permitting speedy destruction.

(†) Our studious readers are now prepared to appreciate Bro Showalter's novelty, 6..Q to K 2 +.

(i) Apparently risky, as the isolated K P is seemingly weak; but all real danger has been deeply provided against.

(!) Excellent! indirectly defends both attacked P's.

(k) Wisely played. If 18..Kt × P, R × Kt; 19..R × R, Kt to B 3, wins; or if 18..B × P, Q R to B sq; threatening to win a piece by Kt to B 3, and at least recovering the P with a superior game.

(l) The game is now practically drawn.

To Top Off,

we indulge in a bit of fireworks from Heyde's work just cited.

BASEBALL.

DIAMOND FIELD GOSSIP.

Latest Doings and Sayings of the Baseball Fraternity.

Harness, the pitcher of the University of Michigan nine, was recently taken to St. Joseph's Hospital, Philadelphia, suffering with temporary insanity. The doctors say that this derangement was caused by overwork. Harness and other members of the ball team arrived in Philadelphia a week ago. During the trip East the other members of the team noticed how strangely Harness was acting, and when they arrived in Philadelphia they had him taken to the hospital. On May 24 at 5 o'clock he arose, and, putting on only his underclothes, jumped from the window of his room to the ground and ran a distance of two miles through the streets. Then he recovered his senses and gave himself up to a policeman. To the policeman he said that he knew he had escaped from some hospital, but he couldn't tell which one. The hospital authorities had meantime sent out an alarm, and Harness was returned there. Harness entered the university last Fall.

The University of Michigan team defeated the Lehigh University nine May 24, at Bethlehem, Pa., by a score of 11 to 4.

The Cuban Giants scored a victory over the Morristowns, May 24, at Morristown, by a score 9 to 5.

Mahoney, on account of ill health, has resigned his position of umpire on the staff of the National League and American Association.

Manager Shannon of the New Haven team, of the Eastern League, has signed Cross, of the Buffaloes, as short stop, Johnston, formerly of the Boston team, as left field, and Flanagan as first base. Murphy and Morrissey have been released.

Manager William Barnie has given up his residence in Baltimore, and left that city May 23 for Brooklyn. There is a strong feeling of regret among the baseball public of Baltimore over the departure of the popular and able manager, they thinking that with their old commander the Baltimores might have been much higher on the list.

The Emeralds defeated the Standards May 29, at Van Nest, N. Y., by a score of 15 to 7.

A dispatch from Toledo, O., dated May 29, says: "A movement against Sunday ball playing has been started in this city. Its first effect was felt today. The Toledos and Fort Waynes, of the Western League, were having a championship contest in the presence of three thousand persons, when a posse of policemen suddenly appeared, placing the members of both teams under arrest. They will appear in court today. This will probably put an end to Sunday ball playing here."

The Cuban Giants and Senators met May 29, at Long Island grounds, L. I., the former then winning by a score of 7 to 3.

It required no fewer than eleven innings to decide the contest between the Oritani Field Club and Unions, of Carlstadt, May 28, at Hackensack, N. J., the former then winning by a score of 7 to 6.

The Orange Club had the Murray Hills for opponents May 28, at Orange, N. J., and it took no fewer than eleven innings to decide the contest, the latter then winning by a score of 3 to 2.

The Fordham College team visited Easton, Pa., and defeated the Lafayette College nine by a score of 6 to 5.

The opening games of the Amateur Athletic League, after several postponements by rain, were played May 28, and resulted as follow: At Bergen Point, N. J., Staten Island Athletics, 3; New Jersey Athletics, 0. The visitors made four safe hits off Westervelt, while the home team made seven off Van Zant. At Staten Island, Englewood Field Club, 6; Staten Island Crickets, 5.

The Wesleyan College team defeated the Rutgers team May 28, at New Brunswick, N. J., by a score of 5 to 1.

Only five innings were completed in the game between the Brown University and University of Michigan teams May 28, at Providence, R. I., the former then winning by a score of 1 to 0.

The Manhattan Athletics were defeated by the Cuban Giants May 28, at South Norwalk, Ct., by a score of 10 to 2.

Griffin, of the New Haven team, was robbed of valuable jewery and a considerable amount of money May 27, at a hotel in Elmira.

The Yale College team defeated the Orange Athletic Club's nine May 28, at Orange, N. J., by a score of 7 to 2. The victors made only four safe hits, while the home team was credited with five.

It required no fewer than twelve innings to decide the game between the Brown University and Holy Cross College nines, May 24, at Providence, R. I., the former team winning by a score of 3 to 2. Sexton and Stafford pitched very effectively, each getting only seven scattering hits. The home team tied the score in the eighth inning, when they made two runs, and two double baggers in the twelfth gave them the winning run. Mahonny and Weeks led their teams in batting.

The Princeton College nine defeated the University of Michigan team May 25, at Princeton, N. J., by a score of 9 to 4.

It required eleven innings before a result was reached in the game between the Jefferson Club, of Brooklyn and the New Jersey Athletic Club May 25, at Bergen Point, N. J., the home team winning by a score of 7 to 6. Wheeler held the New Jersey team down to five scattering hits, poor fielding, however, helping them to win. The Jeffersons led by 3 to 0 at the end of the fifth inning.

The Milwaukee Club has filed suit in the Superior Court, at Chicago, to recover $1,000 damages from William F. Dahlen, third baseman of the Chicago Club. It is claimed by the plaintiffs that prior to the opening of the season Dahlen signed a contract to play for the Milwaukees during 1892, and was paid $500 in advance. Dahlen afterwards accepted a more remunerative offer and canceled his contract with Milwaukee, but failed, it is alleged, to return the $500.

In the game between the Milwaukee and Indianapolis teams, of the Western League, May 23, at Milwaukee, Roat, the third baseman, passed to pitcher Widner every ball he stopped and the latter threw the runner out at first, Roat being unable to throw across the diamond. Not a man escaped them.

The Baltimore Club has signed Halligan, recently released by the Cincinnati Club, and has released George Wood.

In the game between the Albany and Athletic teams, of the Eastern League, May 24, at Albany, the latter made only one safe hit off Doran. The fielding feature of the game was a wonderful one-handed catch by Lang of a hot liner, which was returned to first base in time to cut off a runner and complete a double play.

Umpire Holmes has been released by the Eastern League, and James Cudworth has been appointed in his place. Cudworth was to have played centre field for Troy, but he twisted his ankle so badly in an exhibition game that he could not get in shape.

Dan Shannon, the New Haven team's captain and second baseman, who was so badly injured in attempting to slide to the home plate in a recent Athletic-New Haven game here, is once more in harness, having sufficiently recovered to don his uniform. He was threatened with congestion of the brain, but luckily escaped with less serious results.

The St. Paul Club, of the Western League, was, on May 24, transferred to Fort Wayne, and the fate of the St. Pauls has at last been settled. President Williams submitted the question of the disposition of the unfortunate club to the various members of the Western League and their votes were received by telegraph. Frank de H. Robinson, of Cleveland, who owns a street railroad at Fort Wayne, is at the head of the Fort Wayne Company. He will assume all the salaries and expenses of the club. The Western League will be compelled to stand the losses incurred up to the date of the transfer. The only changes that will be necessary in the schedule will be in giving the St. Paul dates to Fort Wayne.

The Lafayette College team defeated the Lehigh University nine May 25, at Easton, Pa., by a score of 5 to 4. This was the first victory of the Lafayette team.

The Camdens shut out the visiting Woodbury team May 24, at Camden, N. J., the former then winning by a score of 8 to 0. The Woodburys made only one safe hit off Rafferty. The Camdens bunched their hits in the first inning, when, with three men on the bases, Stephenson made a home run on a line drive over the fence at left centre.

Fred Lake, the catcher who left the Milwaukee Club on account of alleged abusive treatment by Manager Cushman, will play with the Northampton (Mass.) Club.

The Yale Freshmen defeated the Princeton Freshmen May 25, at New Haven, Ct., by a score of 2 to 1. Each team made only four scattering safe hits.

The Staten Island Athletic Club's nine succeeded in defeating the Bensonhurst Athletic team May 25, at Staten Island, by a score of 2 to 1. The home team made only six safe hits, three of which were bunched in the first inning and yielded their two runs.

The suit in the Court of Common Pleas, Philadelphia, which was some time ago brought by John D. Kennedy on a writ to show cause why the sale by the Sheriff of the Athletic Club, of the late American Association, should not be reopened, he being one of the stockholders of the old club, was on May 24 decided in favor of the owners of the new club.

The Baltimore Sun says: "It is stated that Manager Powers approached Van Haltren while the Baltimores were in New York recently and said New York would like to have the right fielder's services if he ever got away from Baltimore. President Vonderhurst does not think Mr. Powers should have spoken to Van Haltren on the subject, because such advances sometimes lessen the faithfulness and usefulness of a player by giving him an exaggerated idea of his own value."

In the Chicago-Pittsburg game played May 23, at Chicago, Anson was credited with retiring only two men at first base during the entire nine innings. He assisted once and failed to accept another chance for a put out.

The Cleveland Club, of the National League and American Association, has officially announced that it will play no more Sunday games.

Umpire Lynch decided that the St. Louis team forfeited a game scheduled May 21, at Cleveland, on account of their non-appearance forty-five minutes after the appointed time for commencing. This decision will doubtless be reversed, as the St. Louis team claim that their delay in appearing and commencing the game was unwarrantable on account of a railroad accident.

The Cuban Giants defeated the Pottstowns May 25, at Pottstown, Pa., by a score of 2 to 1.

W. H. McGunnigle has been engaged to manage the Brockton team, of the New England League. He played right field for his team in the Brockton-Lowell game May 26, at Brockton, the home team then winning by a score of 2 to 1.

Two teams selected from the Freshmen of Harvard and Yale Colleges met May 28, at New Haven, Ct., the former then winning by a score of 10 to 9.

Manager Knowles, of the Elmira Club, of the Eastern League, has released Vin. Daly, the right fielder of its team.

The Elizabeths defeated the West Ends May 28, at Elizabeth, N. J., by a score of 10 to 5.

The Pennsylvania League championship games played last week resulted as follow: May 24, at Altoona, Pittsburg, 4; Altoona, 3. At Harrisburg, Harrisburg, 19; Lebanon, 6. At Johnstown, Danville, 15; Johnstown, 3. At Reading, Reading, 12; Allentown, 10. May 25, at Altoona, Pittsburg, 12; Altoona, 5. At Harrisburg, Harrisburg, 13; Lebanon, 11. At Johnstown, Danville, 17; Johnstown, 12. At Reading, Allentown, 5; Reading, 4 (ten innings). May 26, at Allentown, Allentown, 19; Reading, 1. At Johnstown, Johnstown, 5; Altoona, 5 (game called at the end of the sixth inning on account of rain).

Charles Schuman was killed May 25, at Columbus, O., by being hit by a thrown ball while practicing with a comrade. The ball was thrown with great force and passed between Schuman's hands, hitting him on the head right between the eyes.

The championship games of the Southern League, played last week, resulted as follow: May 24, at Memphis, Memphis, 4; Macon, 2. At Montgomery, Montgomery, 6; Birmingham, 4. At New Orleans, New Orleans, 5; Chattanooga, 1. May 25, at Memphis, Chattanooga, 13; Memphis, 9. At Mobile, Mobile, 4; Birmingham, 3. At Montgomery, Atlanta, 7; Montgomery, 3. At New Orleans, Macon, 10; New Orleans, 9. May 27, at Memphis, Memphis, 7; Chattanooga, 4. At Mobile, Birmingham, 9; Mobile, 5. At Montgomery, Montgomery, 9; Atlanta, 5. The championship games of the New England League played last week resulted as follow: May 24, at Lewiston, Lewiston, 11; Brockton, 5. At Manchester, Manchester, 4; Pawtucket, 2. At Portland, Woonsocket, 5; Portland, 4, (ten innings). At Salem, Lowell, 3; Salem, 1. May 25, at Lewiston, Portland, 11; Lewiston, 4. At Lowell, Lowell, 9; Pawtuckett, 6. At Manchester, Manchester, 7; Brockton, 5. At Woonsocket, Salem, 10; Woonsockett, 9. May 26, at Brockton, Brockton, 2; Lowell, 1. At Pawtucket, Manchester, 14; Pawtucket, 6. At Salem, Salem, 6; Portland, 2. At Woonsocket, Woonsocket, 11; Lewiston, 2.

The St. John's College team defeated the St. Steven's Lyceum nine May 26, at Fordham, this city, by a score of 23 to 9 in seven innings. The Lyceum team made only one safe hit during the game. The winners made seventeen safe hits with a total of twenty-eight bases. No fewer than fifteen runs and ten safe hits were made in the sixth inning.

A dispatch from Bridgeport, Ct., dated May 26, says: "Lovett will wear a local uniform for the remainder of the season if the Brooklyn Club, of the National League and American Association, does not accede to his terms of $4,000. The Park City Athletic Association decided to strengthen its pitching department, but without a phenomenal pitcher it was more than probable that they would not capture a game. Negotiations were consequently opened with Lovett, and today terms were reached. Lovett last appeared here in 1887."

The Wesleyan College nine were beaten by the Northamptons May 26, at Middletown, Ct., by a score of 5 to 1.

The game between the Brown University nine and Stonehams played May 26, at Providence, R. I., resulted in a victory for the former by a score of 6 to 1.

Swartwood and Earle have received, through Captain Burns, ten days' notice of their release by the Pittsburg Club.

The Camdens defeated the Cuban Giants May 26, at Camden, N. J., by a score of 9 to 6. McCoach held the losers down to six safe hits, which were bunched in the second inning, while he made four hits, including a drive over the fence for a home run.

The opening game of the New Jersey Central League was played May 26, at Elizabeth, N. J., a nine from the Y. M. C. L. A. of that city then defeating the West End team of Somerville by a score of 9 to 5. The winners hit Harkins hard, Murray making a home run. Another championship game was played on the same day at Plainfield, the home team defeating the Westfield nine by 8 to 4.

The Yale College team had the University of Michigan team for opponents May 26, at New Haven, Ct., the latter then winning by a score of 3 to 2. Yale made eight safe hits, which were widely scattered. The Western College champions bunched their hits in the fifth inning, when they made three runs.

President Von der Ahe, of the St. Louis Club, has protested the game which Umpire Lynch forfeited to Cleveland on May 21, at Cleveland, because the St. Louis team failed to appear at the Cleveland grounds on time. President Von der Ahe says the tardiness was caused by a delayed train. Rule 26, Sec. 1, provides that the game will be forfeited if the nine of a club fail to appear upon the field within five minutes after the umpire has called "Play!" at the hour appointed for the beginning of the game, "unless such delay in appearing or in commencing the game be unavoidable."

The Crescents defeated the Westfields May 26, at Plainfield, N. J., by a score of 8 to 4.

It required ten innings to decide the contest between the Cutler and Berkeley School teams, of the Interscholastic League, May 26, at Berkeley Oval, this city, the former then winning by a score of 5 to 4.

The funeral of Hub Collins took place May 26, from the home of his brother, at Louisville, Ky. The Order of Chosen Friends, of which the deceased ball player was a member, had charge of the burial. There were many beautiful floral designs, the Brooklyn, New York, Boston and Louisville Clubs each sending one. That of the Louisville Club represented a diamond made of bats, with a cap and baseball at the top, and on the home plate were the words: "Safe at Home."

In the game between the Joliet and Jacksonville teams of the Illinois-Iowa League played May 24, at Joliet, Ill., the latter made only one safe hit off McVicker.

John I. Rogers, the secretary of the Philadelphia Club, intends making an European trip, sailing Wednesday June 1, from this city on the City of Paris.

The Eastern League played the following championship games last week: May 24, at Albany, Albany, 2; Athletic, 1. At Buffalo, Buffalo, 4; Troy, 1. At Elmira, Providence, 3; Elmira, 0. At Rochester, Rochester, 4; Binghamton, 3. At Syracuse, New Haven, 4; Syracuse, 1. May 26, at Albany, Albany, 6; Providence, 3. At Elmira, Elmira, 4; New Haven, 0. At Rochester, Rochester, 8; Troy, 6 (ten innings). At Syracuse, Syracuse, 5; Athletic, 4 (ten innings). May 27, at Buffalo, Buffalo, 16; Binghamton, 4. At Elmira, New Haven, 7; Elmira, 2. At Rochester, Rochester, 4; Troy, 1. At Syracuse, Syracuse, 3; Athletic, 1.

Rain stopped the game between the University of Pennsylvania and Lehigh University teams, and at the end of the fifth inning, May 27, at Bethlehem, Pa., the score then standing 2 to 2.

The Harvard College nine had the University of Michigan team for opponents May 27, at Cambridge, the former then winning by a score of 4 to 2. Highlands held the Western collegians down to three safe hits and struck out fifteen men, including nine in the first three innings.

In reviewing the chances for the championship of the various clubs of the National League and American Association, A. C. Anson, of the Chicago Club, is quoted as saying: "In the West there is only one club in the race, and that is Chicago. No one will dispute that fact. As for the East, Brooklyn, I think, is the strongest team. Boston has a good team, but not so strong as Ward's. I do not mean that either of these teams will win the championship, for the Chicago will do that in the first half of the season. We are now third in the race, and on this trip have twenty-one games to play. At the speed we are traveling twelve victories are not too many to calculate on. My men are now all in condition and are all with me on the trip. Luby has recovered from his recent attack of sickness, and he will pitch good ball on the trip, as will all the other pitchers. I have only twelve men on the team, the thirteenth, Tom Burns, having been released to Pittsburg. I am looking for a promising youngster now, and if I find one I will sign him. There is no doubt about the interest in baseball reviving although the weather has been against us. As it grows clear and warmer the crowds will increase, better games will be played and heavier batting will be the result. With dry grounds the ball always travels more actively than on a damp field, and the moisture of the atmosphere also has a peculiar effect on a batter's arm."

Captain Nash, of the Boston team, is of the opinion that the captain should have the entire control of the nine on the field and be allowed to arrange the batting order, and he thinks that the manager should look out for the men off the field and take charge of the traveling and attend to the gate in various cities.

Clarence L. Childs, the second baseman of the Cleveland team, whose home is in Baltimore, was given a welcome, May 26, in that city, when sixty members of a social club, of which Childs is a member, drove out to the game in an omnibus drawn by eight horses. When the second baseman came to the bat in the first inning a gold headed cane was presented to him.

The championship games of the Western League played last week resulted as follow: May 24, at Milwaukee, Milwaukee, 8; Indianapolis, 6. At Minneapolis, Minneapolis, 7; Kansas City, 5 (eleven innings). At Omaha, Omaha, 10; St. Paul, 2. At Toledo, Toledo, 8; Columbus, 6. May 25, at Milwaukee, Columbus, 6; Milwaukee, 4 (ten innings). At Minneapolis, Omaha, 2; Minneapolis, 2. May 26, at Milwaukee, Milwaukee, 10; Columbus, 3. At Minneapolis, Minneapolis, 11; Omaha, 4. At Kansas City, Kansas City, 13; Fort Wayne, 6. May 27, at Toledo, Toledo, 5; Indianapolis, 4. At Minneapolis, Omaha, 9; Minneapolis, 8. At Kansas City, Kansas City, 8; Fort Wayne, 1.

Mark Baldwin's suit against President Von der Ahe, of the St. Louis Club, to recover damages for alleged false imprisonment, which was to have been tried May 26, at Philadelphia, was continued until the Fall term.

Umpire Gaffney was recently called to his home at Worcester, Mass., by the death of one of his children, it being the second he lost within six months.

The National Board has decided the contest between the Rockford and Terre Haute teams for the services of Corbett in favor of Terre Haute, holding that Corbett's contract in February with Rockford was void, as he was then signed to one of the Western League's thirty-day option contracts. Corbett signed with the Terre Haute team after being released by the Toledos, and the Rockford team claimed him.

There will be a meeting of all those interested in a Mississippi State Leauue on June 1, at Jackson, Miss. The following cities will be represented: Vicksburg, Jackson and Natchez. The following cities are to send representatives to the meeting: Meridian, Yazoo City and Greenville, so as to organize either a four or six city league. Officers will be elected and a schedule of circuit adopted at the meeting.

A peculiar feature of the Western League championship race is the fact that the leaders, Columbus, have played about fourteen more games than Indianapolis, the tailenders.

It required ten innings to decide the game between the Athletics, of Philadelphia, and the Syracuse Stars, of the Eastern League, May 26, at Syracuse, the former then winning by a score of 5 to 4. Although the Stars made eighteen base hits, five of them doubles, the almost faultless fielding of the Athletics kept them from scoring more than five runs, fourteen men being left on bases. For six innings the Athletics could not get a man to first base. This result was reversed May 27, when the Syracuse Stars won by 3 to 2. Barr held the Athletics down to five safe hits, three of which were credited to Gray.

The championship games of the California League played recently resulted as follow: May 18, at Oakland, San Francisco, 9; Oakland, 5. At Los Angeles, Los Angeles, 18; San Jose, 4. Cleveland vs. St. Louis.

The fifth game was played May 24, at Cleveland, the home team then scoring the third victory of the series. McKean reappeared with the Cleveland team, and Davis went to third base, owing to Tebeau being ill. Young kept the hits widely scattered, and, as he was splendidly supported, the visitors failed to score a run. McAleer did the best batting, and also saved the game for the home team by two phenomenal plays, throwing Werden out at the plate in the fourth inning, and catching a home run drive by Brodie in the sixth, when two men were on bases and two out. Dwyer was batted hard in two innings, the Clevelands earning their two runs in the sixth. Both teams fielded sharply. Glasscock, who accepted all of eleven chances at short stop, was once heartily hissed for interfering with Childs, in an attempt to make a doubleplay.

Pittsburg vs. Cleveland.

A postponed game was played off May 25, at Pittsburg, it having been transferred from Cleveland by mutual agreement. The Cleveland team bunched four hits for a like number of runs in the first inning. The lead thus gained was held up to the seventh inning, when the Pittsburgs began batting Cuppy and won the game. Elmer Smith pitched very effectively after the first inning. Beckley led in batting, his three hits including a triple and a double. McAleer did the best in that respect for the visitors. The weather was unfavorable and the attendance small. Shugart's shortstopping was the fielding feature.

Philadelphia vs. Cincinnati.

The third game of the series was played May 26, at Philadelphia, the Cincinnatis, after an exciting struggle of eleven innings, then winning for the second time. Chamberlain was very effective except in the second and fifth innings, when the home team earned two runs off five safe hits. A muff by Browning helped them to their other run. Carsey pitched in fine form up to the closing inning, keeping the first six safe hits scattered through six successive innings. A muff and a fumble by Hamilton in the sixth inning enabled the visitors to tie the score. It remained a tie until the last half of the eleventh inning, when three singles and a base on balls gave the visitors the winning run after two men were out. Great catches were made by Cross, Hallman and Holliday. Connor and Holliday led their respective teams in batting, the former making two double baggers.

The Cincinnatis won again May 27, when the result was due to timely hitting in the first two innings. Mullane was effective, except in the third inning, when, with two men on bases, Clements made a home run hit over the right field wall. Wild pitching gave the home team two runs. The Cincinnatis virtually won in the first inning, when they bunched six safe hits, including a double bagger by Murphy, and scored five runs. Keefe was batted hard throughout, but kept the hits well scattered after the second inning. Hamilton twice cut off runs by good throws from deep left field and led the home team in batting. Smith did the best batting, making four singles. A fine catch by Browning and a difficult stop by Allen were the fielding features.

The Philadelphias won by timely batting May 28 after an exciting contest. A double bagger by Connor and a single by Thompson were all that the home team could make off Duryea, but both counted. Weyhing also pitched very effectively, and only one run was scored by the visitors, that being the result of three singles. Holliday made three of the six hits credited to the visitors.

Boston vs. New York.

Two games for one admission were played May 24, at Boston, the home team, strengthened by the reappearance of Stovey, then scoring two more victories. Richardson reappeared at second base with the New Yorks, Bassett laying off. The first game was closely contested throughout, Rusie and Nichols both doing good work in the box. The Bostons bunched all their hits in three innings, however, while the hits credited to the New Yorks were widely scattered, except in the eighth inning. Three times in that inning the visitors had the bases filled, but O'Rourke alone was equal to the emergency and thus saved a shut out. Double baggers by Duffy, Quinn and Stovey at critical points helped the home team to their four runs, the winning one being made after one man was out in the last half of the ninth inning. O'Rourke's batting and Long's fielding were noteworthy features.

Timely hitting also helped the Bostons to win the second game. The New Yorks held the lead up to the sixth inning, when the Bostons bunched seven safe hits and scored no fewer than nine unearned runs. Fuller's failure to stop a grounder when two men were on bases in this inning proved very costly, being followed by six safe hits, including a drive over the left field fence by Staley and successive double baggers by Long, Duffy and McCarthy. The visitors batted Staley freely in three innings, then making five runs off eight safe hits. Duffy did the best batting. O'Rourke made a great running catch, capturing a ball almost off the left field fence.

The fifth game was played May 25, when the New Yorks scored their first victory of the series. Ten innings were then necessary to decide the exciting contest. Crane held the Bostons down to seven safe hits, which were well distributed through five innings. Duffy did nearly all the batting, and scored both of the runs credited to the home team. Stivetts also pitched well, and had the New Yorks shut out until the sixth inning, when a timely single by Ewing brought in two runs and tied the score. A triple bagger by Crane won the game for the New Yorks after one man was out in the last half the tenth inning. Fields caught for the first time this season in a championship contest, and acquitted himself very creditably. Fuller fielded finely at short stop.

The subject of this week's portrait is Frank E. Holmes, the ex-amateur champion oarsman, who when in his prime was without a peer in the ranks of amateur scullers in this country. His parents were of good old New England stock, but in 1849 moved to Tiskilua, Ill., where Frank was born April 7, 1852. The same year the family returned to Rhode Island, and Frank has ever since resided at Pawtucket. He stands 5ft. 9¼in. in height, and in condition weighs 145lb. He was never interested in rowing till 1874, when he took part in a six oared race and was beaten. It was at a regatta given by the Narragansett Boat Club, of Providence, on the Seekonk River, July 4, 1874. The crew were not discouraged, but organized a club, built a smal boat house, and on June 25, 1875, they rowed a three mile challenge race with a Freshman crew of the Brown University for a set of sweeps. It was very exciting for a mile and a half, when Holmes' crew went ahead, winning handily. On July 24 Frank again stroked the crew to victory, defeating the Narragansett four in a three mile challenge race for six silver goblets, valued at $150. 1876 found him getting ready for both crew and single scull rowing. Providence appropriated $750 for a Fourth of July regatta on the Seekonk, professional and amateur. This was the time the professionals rowed at Boston in the morning and on the Seekonk in the afternoon. The Biglin four oared crew was defeated at Boston by the Faulkner-Reagan crew, owing to rough water, but they easily reversed the verdict in the afternoon; but, having dropped all their money at the Hub, they couldn't "get hunk" financially. Holmes then rowed his first scull race, two miles, with a turn, defeating McSweeney, Knight and Sheldon. Time, 17m. 34s. The same day he stroked a six oared crew, but owing to an accident finished second. This defeat by the Narragansetts was unsatisfactory, and, to settle all disputes, they rowed again in August, for the championship of Rhode Island, Holmes' crew winning. That finished Frank's crew rowing. He liked sculling so well that he practiced all of that Fall preparing for the next season. On May 30, 1878, he rowed his first scullers' race away from home, at Silver Lake, Plympton, Mass. He was at the lake four days before the race, and there he met M. F. Davis, John A. Kennedy and Fred Plaisted, who gave him many excellent points, which proved valuable to him afterwards. There were seven or eight starters, including Houghton and Goddard, considered the fastest amateurs in New England. The distance was two miles, with a turn, and Holmes had them rowed out in three quarters of a mile. They were all surprised, but not nearly so much as Frank was. Time, 14m. 13s. On July 4, at Albany, N. Y., he met the fastest amateurs in the country, R. W. Rathborne, of the New York Athletic Club; George Gaisel, Thompson and Davy. When Gaisel found Rathborne there he would not start, and advised Holmes to keep out. Holmes declined, and made up his mind to beat Rathborne on the start, if he could. He says he never rowed so fast for a one hundred strokes before or since, but the pace was too hot for the favorite, and Holmes went on and won with ease. On Aug. 5, at Silver Lake, he run over a large field of starters, three miles, with turn. In this race were Frank Hart, colored, afterwards a pedestrian; Houghton and Reagan, of Boston. The prize was a silver cup, value $100, given by H. G. Meeker to the New England Rowing Association. In July, 1879, the National Association held their annual regatta at Saratoga Lake, and Holmes finished first in the scullers' race, in 9m. 45s., but lost the prize through fouling Rathborne. They just touched the blades of their sculls, but Rathborne stopped rowing, claimed a foul, and the race was given to Mumford, of New Orleans, who was behind both of them. On Aug. 28, at the Detroit Navy regatta, the water was very rough, and Frank, who rowed in a very small, light shell belonging to John A. Kennedy, was swamped, Monahan, of Albany, winning the race. In June, 1880, he took part in the Hop Bitters' Regatta, on the Seekonk River. The amateur scullers' race was three miles, with a turn; prize, silver plate, valued at $1,000. George Gaisel, John Buckley, Joseph Laing, Edward Hayden and Murray also [illegible] Holmes won easily in 22m. 49s. On July 8 he rowed at the National Regatta, held at Philadelphia, taking part in both the single and double scull events, James A. Whittaker being his mate in the double. Frank won his trial heat in the sculls, and then took the doubles. On Aug. 6, at Maranacook Lake, Me., he won a three mile single scull race, for a gold watch, valued at $100, and, with R. A. Woodbury as partner, took a double scull race, three miles, with turn. Time, 20m. 8s., the best amateur record. At Geneva Lake, N. Y., Sept. 3, he lost a single scull race to Murray, of Portsmouth, Va., but on same day, with Woodbury, won in double sculls. Time, 13m. 30s. In October, at Far Bockaway, L. I., he lost in single sculls to George Gaisel. On July 4, 1881, at a regatta at Lowell, Mass., he won in single sculls, two miles, with turn, in 14m. 2s., thirteen starting. Prize, the City of Lowell Cup, valued at $50. Same day, at Boston, he lost in single sculls to John Buckley. On Sept. 8, at the National regatta, at Washington, D. C., Holmes captured the senior sculls. In this race he sculled the fastest half mile he ever rowed in a race. At the word John Buckley took the lead. Holmes paid no attention to him, but watched Laing, the favorite. After rowing awhile, he looked around, found Buckley getting a long lead, while Laing was losing. Holmes increased his power, and in the next half mile completely rowed Buckley out, winning very handily in 9m. 6¾s. This was the best mile and a half that he ever rowed. Him and F. G. Appleby won the doubles easily, defeating the Davis Brothers, Furlong and Donohue. Time, 8m. 39½s. On June 24, 1882, at Creve Cœur Lake, near St. Louis, Mo., at the Mississippi Valley Rowing Association regatta, Frank won the singles, defeating Robert Musgrove and J. E. Muchmore, Chicago. Time, 14m. 26¾s. Also won the doubles, having Musgrove as mate. Time, 14m. 43s. On Aug. 7, at the National Association regatta, at Detroit, he again won the singles in 10m. 5s., defeating Kirby and Laing, and himself and mate were defeated in the doubles. Two days later, at the same place, at the Northwestern Rowing Association regatta, him and Appleby won the pair oared shell race, two miles, with turn, defeating Bulger and Mosely, Clegg and Standish. It was the hardest and greatest race Holmes ever rowed. Appleby and him had only rowed together a few times in a pair, had never rowed two miles on time, and had never been over the course. Clegg and Standish made the pace to the turning buoys terrific, but the first quarter back they took to the bank for a rest. The Mutuals then led the Pawtuckets by a couple of lengths, but, although tired, Holmes and mate hung to them, and in another quarter pulled up level, and then rowed them out. It was a sore defeat for them, and came near doing Frank up for a while. He strained his neck and side, and he was out of condition for over a month. On Aug. 16 he went to the Canadian Rowing Association regatta, at Montreal, but, being out of fix, he was defeated by Laing. On Aug. 25, at Saratoga Lake, he won a three mile race, defeating Kirby, Dempsey, Bulger and others. Time, 21m. 16½s., the fastest amateur time for the distance. On Sept. 18, at Lawrence, Kansas, him and Appleby won a double scull race, and on the same day his four oared crew lost to the Centennials, of Detroit. Frank's ambition at that time was to have a four oared crew ready to row the Hillsdale on their return from England, but the latter would not make a match, and a few days later Holmes and the other members of the crew were disqualified by the National Association. Ten years have passed, and Frank has been reinstated, but he has never been able to learn the reasons for his disqualification. Since 1882 he has taken very little interest in rowing, and shall not single scull again. He may assist the members of his club, and, possibly, take a seat in a crew, but he feels satisfied that his good days have passed. While rowing, he attended to it very closely, training very hard, working at his trade all day, and practicing rowing in the evening. For the years that he was rowing Holmes took part in comparatively few races, generally at the National or some other great regatta. Then he usually took his two weeks' vacation.

Baltimore vs. Philadelphia.

The third game was played May 24, at Baltimore, the home team then securing their first victory of the series. The Baltimores batted Weyhing out of the box in the fifth inning, having then scored five runs off eight safe hits, which included a home run by Whistler. Carsey, who was then substituted as pitcher, was batted hard in the sixth, Gunson leading off with a triple bagger, and Van Haltren following with another long hit, on which, however, he was thrown out at the plate. Cobb kept the hits scattered with the exception of the fifth and sixth innings, and in the former he struck out two men in succession. Schoch led in batting and fielding. Welch made a running catch that deprived Delehanty of a home run. Pitchers Buffinton and Keefe acted in the absence of an official umpire.

The Baltimores won again May 25, and thus evened up the victories in the series. Esper pitched effectively up to the ninth inning, the first four hits made off him being scattered through as many innings. Had he received better support the visitors would have won the game. Healy held the Philadelphias down to eight safe hits, four of which, however, were made in the fourth inning, and brought in four runs. A great running catch at short left field by Gunson terminated the contest. Shoch and Hamilton led their respective teams in batting, the former making a home run that tied the score in the eighth inning. A wild throw by Reilly and three singles in the ninth inning gave the home team the two winning runs.

Brooklyn vs. Washington.

The third game of the series was played May 24, at Brooklyn, the home team then winning for the second time. Errors by Ulrich helped the home team to score four runs without making a solitary safe hit in the first four innings. Then the Brooklyns began batting Killen, who had been substituted for Foreman in the third inning. Seven safe hits were bunched in the fifth inning, and four more in the seventh, bringing in no fewer than fourteen runs. Brouthers hit for three bases when there were three men on bases. Inks held the visitors down to two scattering hits in five innings, and then gave way to Kennedy. Corcoran was lame and unable to play, and Burns played short stop, while Foutz guarded right field.

The Brooklyns beat the Washingtons again May 25, when the game was again one sided up to the seventh inning. The visitors then bunched five safe hits and scored four runs, Stein then giving two men bases on balls, one forcing in a run. Hart then took Stein's place as pitcher, and finished the contest. By bunching seven safe hits in the fourth and fifth innings, the Brooklyns secured five runs and a winning lead. O'Brien and Kinslow led in batting for the Brooklyn team, while Duffee did the best in that respect for the Washington team. A great catch by Hoy prevented a home run.

Boston vs. Louisville.

The Louisvilles barely escaped being shut out May 26, at Boston, the home team then scoring their third consecutive victory of the series. Only one safe hit was made off Clarkson, that being a scratch single by Jennings, after two men were out in the ninth inning. The Bostons batted Meakin freely, but their hits were scattering until the ninth inning. Duffy's base running was the chief feature. Pfeffer reappeared with the Louisville team, and fielded finely in his position.

A streak of hard hitting helped the Louisvilles to their first victory of the series May 27. The visitors started off with five successive safe hits, including a triple bagger by Pfeffer and a home run by Jennings, yielding them five runs and a winning lead. Nichols was also batted freely in the second and fifth innings, when five safe hits brought in five more runs. The home team did all of their scoring in the first inning, three safe hits then yielding a like number of runs. Stratton kept the Bostons from making more than four scattering safe hits during the remainder of the contest. Kuehne, Pfeffer and Jennings fielded finely in their respective positions.

The Bostons added another to their long list of victories May 28, when they outplayed their opponents at all points. Stivetts kept the Louisvilles down to six safe hits, which were so scattered through five innings as to yield only three runs. The Bostons batted Jones hard in the second and fifth innings, when they bunched eight hits and scored six runs. Meakin was substituted as pitcher in the sixth inning, but the change was too late. Duffy and Brown made great catches.

Brooklyn vs. St. Louis.

These clubs contended for the third time May 26, at Brooklyn, the home team then scoring their second victory of the series. The third inning virtually settled the contest, as the Brooklyns then bunched five safe hits and scored four runs. Breitenstein kept the hits well scattered during the remainder of the contest. The visitors batted Haddock freely, but were unable to bunch their hits except in the fourth inning, when they scored their only run. Brouthers and Glasscock led their respective teams in batting, the former's four hits embracing a triple and a double bagger. A great one handed running and jumping catch by Carroll at left field was the fielding feature. In the third inning Crooks was put out of the game for abusing the umpiring, and Stricker took his place during the remainder of the contest.

The above result was reversed May 27, when the St. Louis team evened the victories in the series. The visitors knocked Inks out of the box in the fourth inning, having then scored four runs off six safe hits. Kennedy was also batted hard, especially in the seventh inning. Gleason kept the Brooklyns from scoring, except in the sixth inning, when Joyce reached first by being hit by a pitched ball, and was helped home by hits by Brouthers and Burns. A one handed running catch of a foul fly by Kinslow was the fielding feature. Werden did the best batting, his three hits including a triple bagger and a double.

The St. Louis team won again May 28, when the contest was close and exciting throughout. For five innings the score stood a tie. The visitors then began bunching their hits off Foutz and took the lead. A streak of heavy batting in the ninth inning enabled the Brooklyns for the fifth time to tie the score, four safe hits then yielding a like number of runs. Hart took Foutz's place in the box in the last half of the ninth inning, when his wild pitching and a fumble by Burns helped the visitors to score the winning run after one man was out. Three men were on bases in this inning, when Dwyer took Easton's place at the bat, and hit a high bounding ball that Hart could not field home in time to put the runner out.

New York vs. Chicago.

The Chicagos commenced their first Eastern trip May 26, at the Polo Grounds, in this city, the New Yorks then scoring their initial victory of the season. Rusie's pitching proved too much for the visitors, he holding them down to four scattering singles, one of which was a scratch. A wild throw and a base on balls by Rusie, however, helped the Chicagos to make two runs without a hit in the first inning. Hutchison was batted freely, but kept the hits well scattered. Good batting and base running by Ewing enabled the New Yorks to make their first two runs and tie the score. In the seventh inning Gore and Fuller hit safely and the former came home with the winning run on a hit by Ewing that was fielded to the plate. A sensational stop by Dahlen started a brilliant double play. Tiernan made a fine catch of a low liner. Fuller's fielding at short stop and Ewing's batting were the noteworthy features of a closely contested game.

The above result was reversed May 27, when the Chicagos won by superior and timely batting. Wilmot was given a base on balls in the first inning, and, stealing second, scored on a safe hit to right field by Ryan. The New Yorks tied the score in the third inning, when Gore completed the circuit of the bases by reason of the fourth bad pitched ball bounding into the grand stand. King kept the Chicagos from bunching their hits until the sixth inning, when three scratch singles, together with a wild throw by Lyons, helped them to three runs and the victory. Luby held the New Yorks down to three safe hits, two of which were made in the ninth inning. Ewing hurt himself in running the bases and gave way to Bassett after the second inning.

The Chicagos won with ease May 28, the result then being due to wild and ineffective pitching by Rusie. Anson alone seemed able to bat Rusie in the first six innings, and his hits, together with errors by Fuller, then brought in five runs. Rusie, however, gave ten bases on balls, sending Ryan to first each of the five times he came to the bat, and the latter scored three runs thereby. Hutchison was batted freely, but kept the hits well scattered throughout. Tiernan hurt himself in the seventh inning, and gave way to Sharrott.

Washington vs. Pittsburg.

These clubs contended for the third time this season May 27, at Washington, rain having prevented any play on the preceding day. Two games were to have been played on this occasion, but wet grounds caused another postponement. The visitors secured a good lead in the fifth inning, when errors by Knell and Milligan helped them to three runs. Knell, however, pitched in fine form, keeping the Pittsburgs from making more than six safe hits, three of which were bunched in the fourth inning, and Milligan by a triple bagger to right centre brought in three men who were on bases in the seventh inning and enabled the home team to tie the score. The Washingtons, who had been batting Galvin hard throughout, made the two winning runs by bunching five hits at the finish. Milligan did the best batting, his three hits including a triple and a double.

Two games for one admission were played May 28, each team then being credited with a victory. In the first game Foreman pitched very effectively and was well backed up, while Baldwin was batted freely and received poor support. Three timely hits in the second inning gave the home team three runs and a winning lead. Safe hits by Beckley and Mack saved the visitors from being shut out. Duffee made a great one hand running catch, and Richardson fielded finely at short stop.

The visitors started off with the lead in the second game, batting Gastright out of the box in the second inning, having then scored five runs off a like number of safe hits. Killen, who was substituted as pitcher, was batted only in the third inning, when several scratch hits brought in three runs. The home team could do nothing with Smith until the seventh inning, when they made six runs off seven safe hits and tied the score. Wild pitching and two unsuccessful attempts to retire runners at the plate in the eighth inning gave the Pittsburgs five runs and the victory. Mack did the best batting.

Baltimore vs. Cleveland.

Two games for one admission were played May 27, at Baltimore, in consequence of rain having prevented the scheduled contest on the preceding day. Young held the Baltimores down to six safe hits in the first game, three of which hits were made in the second inning and brought in two runs. The visitors tied the score in the third inning, and it remained so until the eleventh. Cobb pitched very effectively, keeping the visitors down to five hits, two of which, however, brought in the winning run before a man was out in the last half of the eleventh inning. The Baltimores had three men left on bases in the last inning.

Buffinton started in to pitch in the second game, but was wild and ineffective, and, after five safe hits and six runs had been made off him in five innings, McMahon was substituted in the box. The latter was batted hard in the eighth inning, the Clevelands then scoring four runs off five safe hits. The Baltimores batted Davies freely, but he kept the hits well scattered. McKean led in batting, making three singles. Childs again fielded finely at second base.

Hard hitting helped the Cleveland team to win again May 28. Healy was poorly supported, especially at left field, where Halligan, late of the Cincinnati Club, misjudged four chances, the failure to accept of which proved very costly. After eight safe hits and six runs had been scored by the visitors in five innings, Healy gave way to Van Haltren, while McGraw played right field during the remainder of the contest. O'Connor and Doyle led in batting, the former making four singles, and the latter a triple and two singles.

Boston vs. Cleveland.

The Bostons beat the Clevelands twice May 30, at Boston, and thereby evened the victories in the series. The morning game was a remarkable one, Clarkson and Young pitching in fine form. Not a run was scored by either team until the first half of the tenth inning, when safe hits by Stovey and Kelly, together with wild pitching and a fumble by Young, helped the Bostons to four runs and the victory.

Philadelphia vs. Louisville.

The Louisvilles were defeated twice May 30, at Philadelphia, but only after two of the most remarkable games ever witnessed in one day on the local grounds. The morning game was stubbornly contested for twelve innings. Carsey pitched the first five innings and was batted safely six times, while he gave three bases on balls, the combination yielding the Louisvilles six runs and the lead. Keefe was then put in the box, and he kept the hits so scattered that the visitors failed to score in the last seven innings. The Philadelphias batted Viau hard in the seventh inning, when they bunched five safe hits, including a triple by Connor, and tied the score. It remained a tie until the last half of the twelfth inning, when a missed third strike by Dowse was followed by two safe hits, helping the home team to the winning run. Thompson did the best batting, his four hits including a home run and a timely double.

No fewer than fourteen innings were necessary to decide the afternoon game. Neither team score until the sixth inning, when the Philadelphias scored two runs on a single by Hamilton, a double bagger by Hallman and a wild throw by Grim. Jones kept the other hits very widely scattered. Esper shut out the Louisvilles in the first seven innings, but, as he was being hit hard, Weyhing was then substituted. The Louisvilles tied the score and saved themselves from being shut out by making two runs in the ninth inning, the result of two singles, a base on balls and a sacrifice. Delehanty twice saved the game for the home team by wonderful catches, and he won it in the last half of the fourteenth inning, when he led off with a triple bagger and scored on a wild throw by Kuehne.

Washington vs. Chicago.

The Chicagos scored two victories May 30, at Washington. Wild pitching by Knell, together with timely hitting, helped the visitors to a victory in the morning game. Gumbert was very wild, and Luby was substituted in the fourth inning. Ryan made a home run.

Upwards of seven thousand people witnessed the afternoon contest. The home team hit Hutchison hard in the first inning. Luby pitched during the remainder of the contest, and was batted only in one inning. Foreman was batted hard in the first two innings. Gastright was substituted as pitcher after the second inning, and kept the hits widely scattered. Wilmot led in batting, his three hits including a home run. Anson accepted all of twenty chances at first base.

Pittsburg vs. Baltimore.

These clubs contended May 30, at Pittsburg instead of at Baltimore, as originally scheduled. The home team presented Baldwin in the pitcher's position in the morning and afternoon, and won both games. In the morning contest the Baltimores batted Baldwin only in the fifth inning, when three hits helped them to their only run. He was backed up by faultless fielding. McMahon was batted hard and often, and was poorly supported in the field, Schoch making four costly errors. Shugart's batting and fielding were the chief features, he making three hits, including a triple and double, and accepting all of nine chances at short stop.

The afternoon game was more closely contested. Cobb kept the Pittsburgs from bunching their hits, except in the fourth inning, when they batted out three earned runs. Baldwin held the Baltimores down to six safe hits, four of which were made in the sixth and ninth innings. A splendid stop by Baldwin terminated the contest, leaving two of the visitors on bases.

Brooklyn vs. Cincinatti.

The Cincinnatis won two closely contested games, each of eleven innings, May 30, at Brooklyn, and thereby tied the home team in victories in the series between them. Haddock and Chamberlain pitched very effectively in the morning contest, the hits made off each being scattering, except in the tenth inning, when each team scored three runs off a like number of safe hits. Poor coaching lost the Brooklyns a chance to win the game in the second inning, when Daly attempted to stretch a triple into a home run, but was thrown out at the plate. In the last half of the eleventh inning, after two men were out, Chamberlain was given his base on balls and came home with the winning run when McPhee hit safely and O'Brien allowed the ball to pass him. Comiskey gave way to Vaughn in the eleventh inning.

In the afternoon Mullane pitched very effectively, keeping the Brooklyns from making more than four safe hits, which, however, included two triple baggers and two doubles. The Cincinnatis batted Hart freely, but were unable to bunch their hits until the eleventh inning, when two triples, a double and a single brought in four runs. Murphy by sharp throws to Latham caught both Burns and Joyce napping at third base, the last named being thus retired after he had made a triple bagger. The Brooklyns by careless playing lost several other chances to win.

New York vs. St. Louis.

Two games were played May 30, at the Polo Grounds, in this city, each team then scoring a victory. The New Yorks won the morning game by bunching hits in the fourth inning. Errors by Glasscock and Crooks, together with four safe hits, then gave the home team five runs and a winning lead. Dwyer gave way to Breitenstein in the fifth inning, and only three hits were made off the latter during the remainder of the contest. A home run and a double bagger by Caruthers brought in the three runs credited to the St. Louis, King keeping the hits well apart throughout. O'Rourke led the home team in batting.

The St. Louis team won the afternoon game and thereby again evened up the victories in the series. Crane commenced pitching and gave a base on balls in the first inning, but Rusie was substituted in the box after a shower had delayed the game twenty-five minutes. This change proved a costly mistake as Rusie pitched very wildly, especially in the second and fourth innings, when he gave five men bases on balls and hit three more men, the result being the scoring of seven runs by the visitors off three scratch singles. The lead thus secured proved sufficient for the St. Louis to win. Gleason held the New Yorks down to seven hits, which were well distributed through five innings. O'Rourke again did the best batting, his three timely hits embracing a triple bagger.

A game for the benefit of the widow of Hub Collins was played Sunday, May 29, at Eastern Park, Brooklyn, and realized nearly three thousand dollars, this including the money taken at the gate and subscriptions received from friends of the lamented deceased. The Pittsburg team contributed $70 by telegraph. The contending teams were advertised as the Brooklyns and St. Louis Browns of 1889, which includes Brooklyn—Terry and Inks, pitchers; Dailey and Kinslow, catchers; Brouthers, Ward and Joyce, on the bases; Burns, short stop, and Hart, Griffin and Daly in the outfield. St. Louis—Caruthers and King, pitchers; Murphy, catcher; Comiskey, McPhee and Latham on the bases; Fuller, short stop and O'Neil, Browning and Foutz, in the outfield. Seven of the last named had played with the St. Louis Club in its palmiest day. The veterans Ferguson and Barnie gave general satisfaction as umpires. The St. Louis team won by their superior batting, making ten safe hits, four of which were scored off Terry, who pitched the first four innings. The Brooklyns made three safe hits off Caruthers in five innings, and one off King in four innings. The final figures were 6 to 1 in favor of St. Louis.

The total attendance at the twelve championship games of the National League and American Association games played May 30 was over sixty-seven thousand, and forty-eight thousand of which were present at the afternoon games.

In the game between the Salem and Lowell teams of the New England League May 28, at Salem, Mass., a triple play was started by Lorsey's catch of a seemingly safe hit to left field. In the ninth inning with three men on the bases McCarthy made a home run and the Salem team won by a score of 8 to 1.

It required eleven innings to decide the winning game between the Omaha and Kansas City Clubs of the Western League May 30, at Omaha, the former then winning by 11 to 9. In the afternoon the Kansas City won, 8 to 4.

Upwards of ten thousand people witnessed the game between the Harvard and Princeton College teams May 30 at Cambridge, Mass., the former then winning by a score of 9 to 4. The Princetons made only three safe hits off Highlands. Young was batted safely by Harvard eleven times, ten hits being bunched in the fifth, sixth and seventh innings.

Of Tiernan, who was injured in the New York-Chicago game May 28, at the Polo Grounds, this city, it is said fears are entertained that he may never play again. It is said that he has broken a tendon in his leg.

A curious coincidence is noted in the games played in the afternoon, May 30, at Flushing, L. I., and Orange, N. J. Both resulted in a tie of four runs each, after eleven innings had been played. The Victors of this city played at Flushing and the Wesleyan University team at Orange, their opponents being the representative athletic club.

At West New Brighton, Staten Island, May 30, the Staten Island Athletic nine won games both morning and afternoon by scores of 9 to 1 and 7 to 4. In the morning they had the Englewood Field Club for opponents and in the afternoon the Manhattan Athletics.

In the Eastern League championship games May 30, at Providence, the home team shut out the Athletics in the morning by a score of 6 to 0. In the afternoon the Athletics shut out the home team by a score of 4 to 0. At New Haven, in the morning, Syracuse was beaten by a score of 4 to 3. In the afternoon, the home team made the only and winning run. At Binghamton, the morning game resulted in a victory for Elmira by a score of 5 to 2. In the afternoon, at Elmira, the Binghamtons won by a score of 4 to 0. At Rochester, the home team scored two victories over Buffalo, by scores, respectively, 5 to 2 and 2 to 1. Rain prevented the game between the Albany and Troy teams in the morning at Albany. In the afternoon, at Troy, the home team defeated Albany by a score of 7 to 0.

The Englewood Field Club defeated the Oritanas, of Hackensack May 30, at Englewood, N. J., by 7 to 0. Westervelt retired seventeen on strikes.

The Yale College team defeated the Lehigh University nine May 30, at Bethlehem, Pa., by 3 to 2. Only three safe hits were made by each team.

Kilroy, pitching for the Providence nine, shut out the Athletics, of Philadelphia, without the slightest semblance of a safe hit, May 30, at Providence. The Athletics reversed the result in the afternoon, Devlin then retiring the home team with five scattering hits, three of which were made by Farrar, formerly of the Philadelphia Club.

A remarkable number of extra inning games were played May 30 including one of fourteen and one of twelve innings between the Philadelphia and Louisville teams, two of eleven innings between the Cincinnati and Brooklyn teams, and one of ten innings between the Boston and Cleveland Club, the last named failing to score a run by the way.

Clark, Pawtucket, R. I.; vice president, Joseph Brady, Fall River, Mass.; secretary, John T. Geoghegan, Fall River; treasurer, Ephriam Maas, New Bedford, Mass.

College Records Smashed.

Finer weather than that which favored the Inter-collegiate Athletic Association on Saturday, May 28, the date of their annual field meeting, could not have been had. The sun shone brightly, the air was clear and pure after the rains during the preceding days, and there was no wind to interfere with the commendable efforts of the contestants to create new figures for the inter-collegiate record tables. This they succeeded in doing in three instances—the two mile bicycle race, the one mile walk and the running high jump. An unfortunate accident happened in the 220yds. hurdle race, A. D. Erskine, of Yale, falling at the second hurdle and breaking his right arm just above the elbow. He received prompt medical attention on the field. The programme was made longer than usual, owing to the numerous entries for some of the events, requiring a great number of heats to finish the event, but the management was in capable hands, and the games were worked off in excellent shape. The competitions were interesting throughout, and, in several instances, the contests were close and of the most exciting character, the meeting being one of the best ever held by the association. Summary:

One hundred yards race—First heat: G. F. Brown Jr., Harvard, first; F. A. Norris, Princeton, second. Time, 10⅗s; Second heat: O. K. Hawkes, Harvard, first; F. W. Rane, Cornell, second. Time, 10⅗s. Western Pennsylvania Collegians.

The athletic association composed of students at the Western University, the Washington and Jefferson, the Westminster, Geneva and Allegheny Colleges, located in the Western part of the State of Pennsylvania, held a field meeting at Pittsburg, Saturday, May 28. The weather being fine and the grounds in capital condition generally, although the track was a bit too soft, there was a strong muster of lovers of outdoor sports, many of them being ladies. Previous records made by members of the association were eclipsed on this occasion, and the meeting proved in all respects an unqualified success. The events resulted as follow:

One hundred yards run—Steele, University of Pennsylvania, first, in 10⅕s.; Hanley, Westminster College, second; Gill, Western University, third.
Running high kick—Wilson, Westminster College, and Martin, Geneva College, tied at 9ft. ½in.; Anderson, Washington and Jefferson, third, 8ft. 9in.; Du Barry, Western University, fourth, 8ft. 8in.

Veteran Spencer's Walk.

Shortly after 11 P. M. on May 17 the veteran pedestrian, Joe Spencer, brought his one thousand miles walk to a close at Central Hall, High Holborn, London, Eng. On Easter Monday he commenced an attempt to walk 1,000 miles in twenty days, which entailed a daily walk of fifty miles to ensure success. This, however, Spencer, who is in his seventy-third year, was not quite able to accomplish, for, after traveling somewhat more than 46 miles on the first day, his feet became so inflamed and swollen that his progress was naturally slower afterwards. The old man, however, showed such pluck in his endeavor to complete his task, that Frank Hall, the promoter of the walk, determined to let him go on and see how long it would take him to finish, and the old man has trudged along gamely ever since. On resuming next morning his total stood at 954m. 1,680yds., which left 45 miles and 80yds. to travel to make up the full distance. This the veteran set down to do, and by dint of tremendous exertion he succeeded in causing 1,000 miles to be hoisted on the board to his credit at 11.30 P. M. Thus it will be seen that the task took twenty-six days to accomplish, as no work was done on the Sundays. It may be interesting to old time pedestrians to know that Spencer's real name is Joseph Reynolds. He was born at Bitterly, near Ludlow, Shropshire, and will be seventy-three years old on August 12 next.

New England Collegians.

A large crowd gathered at Hampden Park, Springfield, Mass., on Wednesday afternoon, May 25, to witness the competitions at the annual field meeting of the New England Inter-collegiate Athletic Association. Weather and track were both good, and some capital contests were witnessed, as may be inferred from the fact that five previous best association records were beaten, while in one event, the pole vault, the best inter-collegiate record was excelled. H. C. Ide, of Dartmouth, deserves special mention for taking both the 220yds. flat and hurdle events in handsome style, making new association records for each. The points score was as follows, Amherst's representatives winning the pennant for the third successive year: Amherst, 7 firsts, 4 seconds; Dartmouth, 4 firsts, 8 seconds; Brown, 2 firsts, 3 seconds; Worcester Polytechnic, 2 firsts, 1 second; Williams, 2 firsts; Wesleyan, 1 first, 2 seconds. Summary:

One hundred yards run—Won by E. M. Weeks, Brown, 10⅗s., equalling association record; G. H. Brooks, Amherst, second; E. K. Hall, Dartmouth, third.

Half mile run—Won by W. T. S. Jackson, Amherst, 2m. 5⅗s.; G. D. Price, Dartmouth, second; G. N. Richmond, Brown, third.

Pole vault—Won by H. L. Towne, Williams, 10ft. 9in., breaking the intercollegiate record; A. A. Ewing, Amherst, second; J. A. Derby, Worcester, third.

Rope pull—Won by Williams in one heat by six feet and six inches, Darthmouth declining to pull again.

One hundred and twenty yards hurdle race—Won by C. C. Russell, Amherst, 17⅗s.; B. R. Briggs, Wesleyan, second; E. C. Potter, Dartmouth, third.

Quarter mile run—Won by G. B. Shattuck, Amherst, 53⅕s.; F. W. Marvel, Brown, second; W. A. Talcott, Amherst, third.

Mile run—Won by J. O. Jarvis, Wesleyan, 4m. 39⅗s.; A. G. Bugbee, Dartmouth, second; H. L. Pratt, Amherst, third.

Putting the shot—N. D. D. Alexander, Amherst, 38ft. 3½in., breaking the association record; W. M. Newton, Wesleyan, second; R. L. Scott, Amherst, third.

Two mile bicycle race—Won by G. D. Pratt, Amherst, 6m. 22⅘s., breaking the association record; H. T. Noyes, Amherst, second.

Tommy Conneff, the fleet footed runner of the Manhattan Athletic Club, arrived at this city from Europe on Saturday night, May 28, on the steamer Umbria. He was met at the Cunard pier by Captain Van Schaick and other members of the "cherry diamond" organization, and driven in a four in hand to the club house, where he was right royally welcomed. On Sunday afternoon the favorite athlete was handsomely entertained by the members of the club. He attributed his defeat by W. H. Morton while abroad to the fact that he was unwell and went into the race against the advice of his friends, but he says that Morton is a greatly improved runner.

The one hundred mile roller skating race at Central Hall, London, Eng., on May 14, was won by the American, Baker, in 6h. 50m. The distances covered by the other starters when the finish came was as follows: Tennant, 98 miles 4 laps; Davis, 92.7; Pearman, 89.9; Winder, 76.4; Fox, 74.12; Muckleston, 64.12; Snowdon, 63.12 (he being compelled to retire, owing to his ankle giving way, when the race seemed a certainty for him); Barber, 25 miles; Marshall, 24.11, the latter two retiring early.

Jack Hibberd and Harry Munro are matched to walk fifty miles, for the championship of England and $500, at the National Athletic Grounds, Kensal Rise, London, on June 13. Hibberd now holds the record for the distance.

The Athletes of Haverford.

The athletic association composed of students of Haverford College, Philadelphia, held games on their grounds on Thursday afternoon, May 26. The weather was favorable and the track in excellent condition. The competitions were, as a rule, very interesting and pleased a large crowd of relatives and friends of the contestants. In five of the events—the one mile bicycle race, 880yds. and 220yds. runs, the 220yds. hurdle race and one mile walk—previous performances by members of the association were improved upon. C. G. Hoag carried off the medal for general excellence, and the '89 class championship cup went to the class of '93, which scored sixty-eight points. Summary:

There was a three mile running match between the professional pedestrians, Nick Cox, trainer of the Columbia College athletes, and Jack Nolan, of Elizabeth, N. J., at Columbia Lesser Field, this city, on Wednesday afternoon, May 25. They contended for the possession of $300 in stake money. At the end of the first mile Cox, who was the favorite, led by ten yards, and at the end of two miles he was still leading by a yard, in 10m. 25s. When he had a little more than two laps to run Cox stumbled and fell, and before he could recover Nolan had gained twenty yards. Cox spurted and gained all but two feet of his lost advantage when Nolan carried away the tape. That the latter could have made considerably faster time had occasion required was the general belief.

Yale protested Evins, the winner of the shot put at the Harvard-Yale field meeting at New Haven, May 20, basing their protest on the ground that he had been guilty of professionalism, although not making any specific charges. They therefore withheld the prize for the event until Evins can clear himself of the imputation. Capt. Cook, of the Harvard team, stated to Mr. Wade, of the Yale Athletic Association, that upon arriving at Cambridge an affidavit would be forwarded that would prove that Evins was a bona fide amateur.

The Toronto Lacrosse and Athletic Association opened their new grounds at Rosedale, Toronto, Ont., on the Queen's Birthday, the feature of the occasion being a match game of lacrosse between the teams of the Montreal and Toronto Clubs, the former winning by a score of three games to two.

Sports Among the Quakers.

The State Fencibles Athletic Association, of Philadelphia, held games at Industrial Hall on Saturday evening, May 28, about four hundred spectators being on hand to enjoy the competitions, which were of an interesting character. Summary:

Peter Priddy and M. J. Kennedy, the latter the ex-amateur champion cross country runner of Ireland and America, have been matched to run three miles, for $250 a side, the winner to also take 70 per cent. of the net gate receipts and the loser 30 per cent. The race will take place at Pittsburg, at Recreation Park, on June 11. Kennedy, who resides in Chicago, receiving $50 for expenses.

A match at lacrosse was contested at South Bethlehem, Pa., on May 28, the Stevens Institute team, of Hoboken, N. J., defeating the Lehigh University team by a score of three goals to none.

The John Thorp Athletic Association will hold their annual Summer outing and games at Creedmoor Range Hotel, Creedmoor, L. I., June 5.

WHEELING.

Road Records Broken.

In the neighborhood of four thousand persons were attracted to the two and a half mile stretch of road between Hilton and Campbell's Dam, N. J., on Monday, May 30, to witness the annual Decoration Day Milburn-Irvington twenty-five mile road race. The macadam road was smooth and hard, and the promise of fast time was more than kept, for some records were overthrown during the struggle. Of the one hundred and twenty-eight entries one hundred started, the limit men being dispatched at 11.30, and the scratch men, Hoyland Smith and N. H. Van Sicklen, at 11.42.

The limit men maintained the lead for twenty miles. Hoyland Smith left Van Sicklen behind after trailing him for three miles. At five miles Smith was gradually picking up his men, and he looked a likely winner. He finished his first five miles in 14m. 41s. At ten miles his time was 29m. 43s., and it became evident that he would lower the course record. After fifteen miles had been covered a number of riders began to drop out of the race. The pneumatic tires of a number of the men gave way, and they were compelled to retire. Smith finished his twentieth mile in 1h. 59m., which is record for the distance. The riders were well together at this point of the race, and the last two miles were ridden at a terrific pace. Walter C. Steves won the race, with Jack Hazelton second. Hoyland Smith broke the record. He finished the twenty five miles in 1h. 17m. 11s. The men finished as follow:

'Cycling Around the Globe.

Frank G. Lenz, of the Allegheny (Pa.) Bicycle Club, will undertake the task of making a tour of the world on a bicycle. He will try to outdo Thomas Stevens, and will start on his trip on the afternoon of June 4 from the City Hall, this city. He will ride a wheel especially adapted for rough usage. It is expected that two years will be required to make the journey. His route leads across the States to San Francisco, thence to Japan, China, India, Afghanistan, Asiatic Russia, Persia, Turkey, Servia, Bulgaria, Hungary, Austria, Germany, Switzerland, Holland, Belgium, France and the British Isles. Lenz is a wheelman of indomitable pluck, twenty seven years old, 5ft. 6in. tall, well built and weighs 150lb.

The members of the Ansonia (Ct.) Wheel Club enjoyed their annual road race over the Wakelee Avenue course on May 30, the event resulting as follows: G. H. Whitlock, 4m. 15s. start, first, in 18m. 47⅘s.; R. A. Wood, 4m. 45s., second, 19m. 18⅘s.; W. H. Puckey, 2m. 30s., third, 17m. 15s.; T. E. Houle, 4m. 30s., fourth, 19m. 20s.; H. Owen, 3m. 45s., fifth, 18m. 55s.; W. A. Nelson, 3m. 15s., sixth, 19m. 30s.; W. Hubbell, 3m. 15s., seventh, 19m. 40s.; I. N. Spencer, scratch, eighth, 15m. 29⅕s.

Nine United States soldiers rode from Pullman to Gen. Miles' headquarters, at Chicago, May 30, on bicycles. The distance was covered in 1h. 15m. The men carried a rifle, knapsack, and one day's rations.

THE RING.

JACKSON KNOCKS SLAVIN OUT.

The Colored Boxer Proves Superior to His White Opponent—The Favorite Done Up in Ten Rounds—A Swell Crowd Witnesses a Determined Contest.

The twenty round glove match, for a purse of $12,500, under the Queensberry rules for endurance combats, between the rival Australians, Peter Jackson, colored, and Paddy Slavin, both of whom laid claim to the title of champion of the Antipodes, came off at the headquarters of the National Sporting Club, London, Eng., on Monday evening, May 30. The result of one of the best glove contests ever witnessed in the British metropolis was the victory of the dusky boxer, who was the non favorite, but showed himself to be immeasureably the superior fighter, as well as decidedly more active on his feet and more skilled in the scientific use of his hands than his adversary, whose rushing tactics proved of no avail, and whose vaunted punishing power was entirely lost on his shifty antagonist. It was not thought by Jackson's most ardent admirers that he could win, bar accident, in so short a period of time, but the numerous adherents of the favorite were inclined to believe that he would cause the darky to strike his colors in even less time. How very much astonished they must have been when the climax came, and instead of having a winner they found themselves wofully mistaken in their man. The following is a cabled report of the contest:

Although the members of the club who had reserved seats subscribed from $25 to $500 each for the privilege, and paid $125 more for every guest introduced, the hall was crowded to its full capacity. According to social and sporting standards, a finer audience never gathered to witness a prize fight in London. Almost every conspicuous sportsman in town was present, elbowing, as his neighbor, some member of the aristocracy. Most of the audience wore evening dress. R J. Angle, who refereed the Sullivan-Mitchell fight in France, was selected as referee. Lord Lonsdale introduced the principals in a neat speech, in which he said fair play would be given both men. The principals were then weighed. Slavin turned the scales at 185lb and Jackson at 192lb. Slavin was seconded by Tom Burrows, of London, Tom Williams, and his own brother Jack.

Charley Mitchell, who was selected by Slavin at first as one of his seconds, was not allowed to enter the club, on account of his ungentlemanly conduct in the clubhouse one evening some time ago. Jackson's seconds were Charles E. Davies, of Chicago, Joe Choynski, of San Francisco, and Harry Smith, of London. The betting which had ruled at 7 to 4 in Slavin's favor, was reduced to 5 to 4, and eventually to 11 to 10 when the men entered the ring, which was twenty feet square, instead of the regulation twenty-four foot ring.

Jackson entered the ring first. He walked with a firm step, and his bearing showed marked confidence. Slavin entered shortly after. The men at once shook hands and took their corners. Upon the call of time, at 11.15, both men walked briskly to the centre of the ring. Jackson seemed to be fully two inches taller than Slavin. But little time was wasted in sparring.

THE FIGHT.

Round 1. Slavin led for Jackson's body. Jackson, however, avoided him. Slavin followed him up, and Jackson countered on his nose. This aroused Slavin's ire, and he got home with his right on Jackson's body. Both men then "fiddled" all around the ring. The round ended with little damage on either side.

2. Slavin seemed anxious to get to work, and led with both hands, one after the other, but Jackson's long left was always in the way. The black man drew first blood by landing a straight punch full on Slavin's mouth and nose. First blood claimed and allowed for Jackson. Slavin's friends seemed confident, nevertheless, that Paddy's body blows would speedily tell on the negro. Jackson relied on his left to take the sting out of these blows.

3. The men left their corners with alacrity. Jackson did not feel the heat, which was stifling in the club room, and looked brisk and fresh. On the other hand, Slavin's face showed plainly the punishment that he had received. Again Slavin led. He began by placing his right heavily on Jackson's ribs. He did not hurt the negro, however, and the latter smiled back at him confidently. Some sharp infighting was indulged in, and in it Jackson showed his superiority. Time was called, the round ending in favor of the negro. Both men were slightly groggy.

4. At the beginning of this round Slavin's backers weakened and tried to hedge out their money. Jackson opened hostilities by landing hard in Slavin's face with his left, and followed it up with a terrific right hander in the same place. Slavin's face now assumed the hue of a boiled lobster. He was bleeding all over, but did not seem to mind the awful punishment he was suffering. He sometimes reached for the negro, but his blows were weak.

5 The white Australian seemed the worse for wear, and it was evident that if he was to win at all the change must come soon. Jackson, who previously was partly on the defensive, now became very aggressive and forced the fighting. He landed both hands, one after the other, full in Slavin's face, and neatly avoided any return. Slavin, however, followed up his antagonist only to receive more punishment. The round closed in Jackson's favor.

6. Odds were offered freely on Jackson, but met with no takers. Slavin rallied slightly, but he did not make any headway. From this point on the battle never seemed to be in doubt. Jackson did not throw away a chance, but kept delivering his left in Slavin's face and stepping away from Slavin's counters. Slavin seemed very groggy, and his blows were wildly erratic.

7. Slavin appeared to be greatly refreshed, and rallied to the fight. He fought with the tenacity of a bulldog, but the sledge hammer blows of Jackson were telling on him.

8. This round was pretty much the same as the seventh, and both men appeared to be weak, especially Slavin.

9. Slavin's weakness increased very rapidly, while Jackson seemed to gain somewhat. Jackson continued delivering his left in Slavin's face with telling effect.

10 and last. Jackson kept up his heavy punishment, and delivered blow after blow about the face, neck and body. He then swung his right heavily under Slavin's heart and followed this blow quickly with his left in Slavin's face. This move he repeated several times. Finally Slavin dropped in his corner and did not respond to the call of time. Thereupon Referee Angle awarded the fight to Jackson.

Slavin was very badly punished. Jackson escaped unscathed, except for a slight graze on the shoulder. Jackson had the best of the mill throughout all ten rounds. He showed better science and more endurance. He also proved that he was a hard hitter. The fight was a game one throughout, and Slavin retains his friends and backers, despite his defeat. The fight lasted thirty eight and one half minutes, and everybody present voted it a good one.

When Slavin received his coup de grace he would not believe it. Dazed and tottering though he was, the single thought remained in his mind that he must not fail. Receiving one after another the terrific blows of his antagonist, fainting and bleeding he staggered from one side of the ring to the other, but would not go down. Jackson, realizing the pitiful condition of his opponent, thrice turned to the referee to ask: "Must I hit him again?" and each time the referee was obliged to reply: "You must knock him out to win."

Slavin tottered up against the ropes once, and Sir John Astley, whose humane instincts overcame even his respect for the rules of pugilism, held him with both hands to prevent his falling over among the spectators. Twice Slavin went down so far as to sieze the lower rope with both hands to prevent going to the floor, while his black opponent, with arm drawn back, awaited his rising to again batter him down. When the big Australian finally fell into the sawdust his face and body were covered with blood and his form was quivering.

It was three minutes after his seconds dragged him to his chair before he gave any signs of life. His left eye was closed and swelled up to the size of a hen's egg. His left ear was split up for a half inch and bleeding profusely, as were cuts on both sides of his face and nose and lips. It will be weeks before he is the same man again. Jackson's only injury seemed to be to his mouth, where early in the contest he received a terrible blow from Slavin's right.

Dacey Talks to Carroll.

We have received the following communication from Billy Dacey, and the attention of Jimmy Carroll is called thereto:

NEW ORLEANS, May 28, 1892.

EDITOR NEW YORK CLIPPER—Dear Sir: Seeing a challenge from Jimmy Carroll, in which he states that he wants to meet Jack McAuliffe or Billy Myer at 133lb, I desire to say that I will meet Carroll at the lightweight limit, 133lb, before any club in the country for anything like a reasonable purse. I went to San Francisco once to endeavor to make a match with Carroll, but was put off with the excuse that he would fight no one but McAuliffe or Carney. Since then he has met both McAuliffe and Myer and suffered defeat at the hands of both. He can now have no excuse for failing to meet me. I will meet him at any time and place he may designate, provided the match takes place before a prominent club. I will also deposit $250 as a guarantee of my being at weight and in the ring on the night of the contest. Very respectfully yours, BILLY DACEY.

SOL SMITH AND DEL HAWKINS fought for a purse of $1,500 before the members of the California Athletic Club, at San Francisco, on the evening of Tuesday, May 24. Smith quickly showed his superiority, but he rather let up on his adversary, thus prolonging the battle more than there was any necessity for. Finally, in the thirteenth round, Smith set about his man in good earnest, battering him about the face and head, and then administering a straight smash on the olfactory organ that sent Hawkins down and out.

A RATTLING GLOVE CONTEST, for a purse, took place at Jack Wannop's Gymnasium, London, Eng., May 16, the principals being "Curly" Thompson and Bob Sutherland. The agreement was to fight twenty three minute rounds, and when time was called for the eleventh Sutherland came to the front and stated that his thumb was so badly injured that he would have to give up, so Thompson got the big end of the purse.

BILLY MANNING, of Los Angeles, Cal., was sentenced to two years in the penitentiary, May 16, for assault to murder. Particulars of his crime have already been published in these columns.

Cal McCarthy Gives In.

A large crowd of sporting men witnessed the two fights which took place May 30 before the Coney Island Athletic Club. The first was between Eddie Pierce and Willie Kenny, at catch weight, and the other between Cal McCarthy and Bobby Burns, at 117lb. The Jersey boys were the favorites in the betting, but neither of them were in first class condition, and they surprised the assemblage by both proving rank quitters. McCarthy was fat and spongy and five pounds overweight, for which he agreed to forfeit $500 in case he proved the victor. He did not fight with his accustomed vigor, and he showed signs early in the fight that he could not stand much severe punishment, but even then no one had the slightest suspicion that he was not thoroughly game, and his quitting without being knocked out caused universal surprise. Fred Johnson and George Dixon were present, and when they were introduced to the crowd they were heartily cheered.

The fight between Pierce and Kenny was to have been limited to eight rounds, but as Kenny was fought to a stand still he concluded that he had a sufficiency at the end of the third round and Pierce won an easy victory. Pierce was the first to enter the ring, accompanied by his seconds, Sim Collins and Jimmy Rose. Kenny made his appearance about a minute later and was looked after by Jack O'Mara and Tom Collins. Pete Donahue acted as referee and Bob Stoll held the watch. There was no time lost in getting to work, as the boys are both rushers, and they went at each other like steam engines. Kenny tried to clinch with one hand and punch with the other, but Pierce kept both hands free and drove right and left into Kenny's ribs and stomach like a pair of driving rods. It was not only unexpected, but the blows hurt, and Kenny showed it very plainly by the manner in which he winced. The whole of the first round was fought at short range and Kenny's stomach looked like raw beef by the time the round was completed. In the second round they fought at long range, and some very effective blows were struck, but each time there was an exchange it ended in a clinch and infighting until they were parted. Pierce had decidedly the best of the infighting, and toward the close of the round he landed a left handed upper cut on the point of Kenny's jaw which put the latter on the broad of his back and made him so groggy that he could hardly stagger to his feet. It was only the call of time that prevented him from finishing Kenny before he could recover. Pierce forced the fighting in the third round, and drove Kenny all over the ring, knocking him down repeatedly, getting him on the ropes in a helpless condition, and pounding him until the gong sounded for the end of the round. Kenny was still stupid from his punishment after the minute's rest, so, as he did not respond to the call of time, the referee gave the fight to Pierce.

As this fight ended much quicker than had been expected, there was some delay before Burns and McCarthy were ready for their battle. Cal was the favorite at heavy odds, but the stories that had been circulated about McCarthy's neglect in reference to his training caused the Providence sports to go their bottom dollar on Burns, and they had a rich haul. It was 10 o'clock before the men were ready for the ring. Burns was the first to step upon the stage. He was in the care of Jack McAuliffe and Eddie Stoddard. McCarthy was cheered heartily when he took his corner, with the same seconds that had looked after Kenny—Jack O'Mara and Tom Collins. Al Smith acted as referee. Brooklyn Jimmy Carroll held the watch for Burns, and Jimmy Larkin for McCarthy.

ROUND 1. The men sparred cautiously for an opening the moment they confronted each other, but it was only for a few seconds, as McCarthy was the first to lead, and he landed his left full on Burns' mouth, and escaped without a return. They fought at long range all through the round, with Burns acting on the defensive, and occasionally countered with good effect, although McCarthy had the best of the round. It was the general opinion that McCarthy was going to prove an easy victor.

2. McCarthy was over confident in the second round, and went at Burns as though he was merely a novice. He hit him two or three stinging blows in the face, but left himself open, and, as quick as a shot, Burns swung his left on McCarthy's jaw, knocking him on the broad of his back. McCarthy was stunned, and so badly dazed that he could scarcely recover, and Burns knocked him through the ropes several times, and doubtless would have finished him had it not been for the call of time.

3. The minute's rest served McCarthy considerably, and he came to the scratch in pretty good shape. He fought well at long range, and landed several hard blows, but got another left hander toward the close of the round that did not do him any good.

4. Both men showed up strong, and some vicious blows were struck. McCarthy landed hard on Burns' face and neck, while the latter made a punching bag out of Cal's stomach. He caught McCarthy off his guard, and planted his left on Cal's face, which forced the little Jerseyman on the ropes. McCarthy fought at a disadvantage until he slipped and fell, after which he got out in the centre of the ring and did some effective fighting.

5. Burns directed his attention to McCarthy's body, and pounded Cal hard in the stomach and over the heart. McCarthy kept planting his left on Burns' face and neck until he had him a trifle groggy by the time the gong sounded.

6. McCarthy forced the fighting, and had all the best of the round. He planted his left so hard on Burns' face on several occasions that his work was greeted with hearty bursts of applause, and encouraging words came from all parts of the house. It really looked as though he was going to win the fight.

7. McCarthy again forced the fighting, and got in many effective blows with right and left. One of his right handed swings caught Burns over the eye and nearly closed it. Burns kept pounding Cal's body, with an occasional left handed jab in the face. McCarthy, however, had decidedly the best of the round, and still looked like a winner.

8 and last. Both men fought like gladiators when the round began, and many vicious blows were exchanged. McCarthy seemed to have the best of it until Burns planted a stinging right hander over McCarthy's heart, which drove him back to the ropes. Burns followed quickly, and McCarthy went down on the floor and threw up his hands as a signal that he had enough. The referee drew Burns back, but Cal refused to get up and allowed himself to be counted out. He claimed that there was something wrong internally, pointing to his heart. It was a complete surprise to all present, as the sporting public were of the opinion that Cal was game, and would fight as long as he had breath in his body.

Hall vs. Pritchard.

A cablegram states that a match has been effected between Jim Hall and Ted Pritchard, to take place after the engagement between the Englishman and Jack O'Brien. They are to fight for $5,000 a side and the best purse that any of the leading clubs of the metropolis will hang up. Each side is stated to have posted a forfeit, and the battle is to take place within three months from signing. The dispatch also states that the negotiations for a match between Pritchard and Bob Fitzsimmons on this side of the pond have been discontinued for the present, and if Pritchard should happen to get beaten, which is by no means improbable, they may never be resumed. Some more of shrewd Charlie Davies' phenomenal luck.

WE ARE PLEASED to acknowledge, on behalf of the unfortunate journalist, Ned James, the sum of ten dollars, contributed by Billy Madden, who was quick to repond upon reading the paragraph in last week's paper regarding the case of the veteran sporting writer, who for some months has been confined to his bed, unable to help himself. Before becoming incapacitated, Mr James was ever doing something for others, which fact should be remembered by those who were his friends in the days of his prosperity.

JOHNNY VAN HEEST and George Siddons again met before the Metropolitan Club, of New Orleans, La., on Saturday evening, May 28, and fought for a purse of $1,200, the battle ending in a draw at the end of the forty-sixth round. A full report from the pen of our New Orleans correspondent will appear next week.

MARCELLUS BAKER, the veteran pugilist, a notice of whose death appeared in our last issue, was buried at Forest Hills Cemetery, Boston, Mass., on Friday afternoon, May 27. The funeral was attended by many sporting men, and the funeral services were conducted by the deceased's old time friend, Billy Frazier, who for several years was a minister, and who paid an eloquent tribute to the man with whom he had so often put on the gloves. Baker was born at Newburg Centre, Me., July 29, 1846, and since the era of glove fighting under Queensberry rules commenced he had met Jimmy Hurst, Jack Robbins, Charley Shelby, Billy Andreas, Jack Havlin, Mike Daly, Mike Barry, Ed. Thomas, Jack Stewart, Jack King, Dave Wentling, Tom Tully, Harry Gilmore and Bobby Burns, the latter being his last opponent. They fought at Providence, R. I., and Baker was easily beaten by the younger man.

"KID" LLOYD, of Brazil, Ind., and Sam Farmer, "the lightweight champion of the Pacific Slope," to use his own words, fought for $250 in Clay County, Ind., on the morning of May 24, the latter being put out of it in the third round. Lloyd weighed 124½lb, while Farmer lowered the beam at 129lb.

JACK MARSHALL, of Santa Fe, N. M., and "Kid" Robinson, of San Francisco, Cal., fought for a purse a few miles from the former place on May 25. Both principals are colored sluggers, and Marshall knocked out his antagonist in the eleventh Queensberry round.

WHEELING.

Races Across the Border.

The Societies' Demonstration Committee provided a series of 'cycling events as a feature of the celebration of the anniversary of the Queen's birthday at St. Thomas, Can., on May 24, the result of which we herewith give:

Half mile—F. H. Skerrett, Hamilton, first, in 1m. 29⅗s.; J. Nash, Toronto, second.

Three miles—E. J. P. Smith, Toronto, first, in 9m. 41s.; A. W. Palmer, Hamilton, second.

One mile—A. W. Palmer, Hamilton, first, in 3m. 27¼s.; J. Nash, Toronto, second.

Two miles—E J. P. Smith, Toronto, first, in 6m. 18⅗s.; C. Mandeville, London, second.

One mile—M. C. Cance, first, in 3m. 33⅘s.; Tait second.

J. WAAS AND J. M. STILL, during the week ending May 21, made new tandem records on the Herne Hill, London, track, as follow: Quarter mile, 38m. ⅗s.; half mile, 1m. 13⅗s.; three quarter mile, 1m. 56⅗s. Pembroke Coleman, official timer, held the watch.

JOHN LYNCH, a member of the Montauk Bicycle Club, of Brooklyn, climbed the famous Eagle Rock Hill at West Orange, N. J., May 28, and then attempted to coast it. When part way down his brake gave out, and, losing control of his wheel, he crashed into a stone pile and was thrown with great violence. His nose was broken, and his head and face were badly gashed.

Coming Events.

Kings County Wheelmen's annual Spring race meet—June 18, with D. McLean, 1,255 Bedford Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.

CLARENCE M. SHADBOLT, of the Brooklyn Bicycle Club, has placed to his credit the greatest twelve months mileage ever made by a rider anywhere—15,164 miles. His self imposed task came to an end on May 19, at midnight. The ride was checked and certified to by the road committee of the B. B. C. During the year he rode eighty "centuries," and during the month of October he covered 2,000 miles on his wheel. Shadbolt is nineteen years old, about 5ft. 8in. in height, and weighs in the neighborhood of 140lb. His average was over 41½ miles per day, and it must be remembered that during some six weeks he did practically no riding.

ROAD RIDING IN NEW JERSEY.—The Plainfield (N. J.) Bicycle Club held a ten mile road race, for the individual championship of the organization and the selection of a road racing team on Saturday May 28. The race took place over the Union County road to Locust Grove and return, and was well contested, George Mahon finishing ahead, in 30m. 30s.; A. T. Hinrichs second, by two seconds; E. V. French third, a like distance behind. The three mentioned, with Charlas Maltby, F. L. Metcalf and William Ahlgren, will constitute the road racing team of the club during the season.

ZIMMY'S WONDERFUL RECORD.—A. A. Zimmerman accomplished a grand performance in a trial at the quarter mile bicycle record at the meeting of the London County 'Cycling and Athletic Club's Grounds at Herne Hill, London, Eng., on May 24. It was the occasion of holiday sports in honor of the anniversary of good Queen Victoria, and the performance was timed by competent officials and applauded by a large assemblage of spectators. He fairly flew over the cinder path, completing the quarter in the wonderful time of 30s. from a standing start. This beats all previous records. On the same day Lewis Stroud, in a trial against the half mile record (Zimmerman's) created better figures by one fifth of a second.

PULLMAN ROAD RACE.—J. B. Woolas, Lake View 'Cycling Club, won the Pullman road race, May 30, starting with a six minute handicap and crossing the tape first in 53m. 40s. H. R. Winship won the time medal, making the distance in 51m. 28s. The second prize for time was captured by H. A. Gibbons, in 51m. 54s. There were nearly three hundred starters. The start was made at 10 o'clock from in front of the Leland Hotel, Chicago, and the finish was at the Hotel Florence, Pullman. The course is about fifteen and one eighth miles long.

THE EAST ORANGE 'CYCLERS held their road races May 28, on Central Avenue. The roads were poor. The one mile race was won by E. W. Ketcham Jr., 40s. start, in 3m.; George Dorer second. The two mile race was won by G. D. Greenwood, scratch, in 7m. 6s.; George Dorer second, J. E. Clark third.

R. L. EDE, the featherweight rider, last week created new records from fifteen to twenty-four miles, according to a private cablegram received in this city. He finished twenty-four miles inside an hour, the best previous time being 60m. 40⅘s., by F. J. Osmond.

THE TEN MILE BICYCLE RACE of the Warren Athletic Club came off on the New Castle causeway, Wilmington, Del., May 23. There were twenty-three entries, and hundreds of spectators watched the wheelmen finish. C. B. Jack, of Wilmington, won the race in 34m. 39s.

"NEVER KNOWN TO FAIL."

TARRANT'S EXTRACT OF CUBEBS AND COPAIBA

is an old, tried remedy, superior to any preparation hitherto invented, combining in a very highly concentrated form the medical properties of the cubebs and copaiba. Its neat, portable form, freedom from taste and speedy action (it frequently cures in three or four days and always in less time than any other preparation) make "Tarrant's Extract" the most desirable remedy ever manufactured. To prevent fraud see that each package has a red strip across the face of label, with the signature of TARRANT & Co., N. Y., upon it. Price, $1. Sold by all druggists.
